BIG AIR BATTLE FOUGHT OVER LONDON

DOCKS AND FACTORIES BOMBED; HUGE FIRES REPORTED

ROOSEVELT BARGAINING FOR ENGLISH DEFENSE BASES

ALSO TALKING WITH CANADA ON SECURITY OF AMERICAS

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-5 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—President Roosevelt announced at his press conference today that he was negotiating with the British Government for the acquisition of air and naval bases for the defense of the Western Hemisphere.

At the same time the President insisted that this had nothing to do with the transfer to the British of 50 destroyers rumored to take place during the next few days. The naval bases would be acquired on a quid pro quo basis, the President said, adding that he did not know what would be given by the United States in exchange for the bases to be ceded by Britain.

The President authorized the following direct quotation:

"The United States Government is holding conversations with the Government of the British Empire regarding acquisition of naval and air bases for the defense of the Americas with special reference to the Panama Canal."

Although he would not amplify this statement in any way, it was assumed, in view of the reference to the canal, that the bases would be in the Caribbean possessions of Great Britain.

Discussions With Canada.

As a separate announcement, which he said was not related to the conversations about naval bases, the President told reporters he was negotiating with the Canadian Government for the "defense of the hemisphere." He authorized the following direct quotation:

"The United States Government is carrying on conversations with

ROOSEVELT REPORTED READY TO FACILITATE TRANSFER OF 50 DESTROYERS TO BRITAIN

ALL OBSOLETE DESTROYERS ARE BACK IN SERVICE OR IN PREPARATION FOR USE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.

FROM an authoritative navy source, the Post-Dispatch learned today that not only the 50 destroyers mentioned in the proposed transfer to Britain, but all others technically obsolete are either in service or in process of being converted to service. Virtually all of these older vessels restored to service since last September are engaged in the neutrality patrol along the 300-mile limit set by President Roosevelt last fall.

The older destroyers had long been idle, either in the San Diego or Philadelphia navy basins. Under the necessity of carrying out the far-flung neutrality patrol, they were recommissioned for active duty.

Destroyers recently completed and now under construction have much greater firing power and cruising range, according to navy authorities. The construction schedule for these modern vessels has been brought down to 24 months, but no one in the navy appears to believe that this can be reduced.

President Said to Have Found Way for Direct Action Without Need of Waiting on Approval by Congress.

BY MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Reports persisted here today that President Roosevelt would act shortly to facilitate transfer to Great Britain of 50 American destroyers in accord with a proposal which has been under heated discussion in Congress and in the press for weeks.

This was coupled with other reports heard on Capitol Hill that a new appeal had come from London for all possible aid as the battle of Britain continued to rage.

Some persons within the administration appeared confident that a way had been found for direct action by the President without the need for approval of the transfer by Congress, where it is generally admitted that there is little support for the proposal. There are obstacles to the transfer that have been the subject of intense study by keen legal minds within and without the administration during the last two weeks.

50 Ships Ready.

It was reported from authoritative sources that the 50 destroyers have been in a state of readiness for three weeks, looking toward immediate action should the President decide finally that he had the power to make the transfer. The decision rests, of course, with the President, who is commander-in-chief of the navy.

Navy authorities point out that the British have lost substantial numbers of destroyers and chiefly, it is said, because their destroyers have lacked anti-air defense. Over-age American destroyers transferred to Britain would presumably be subject in the same way to destruction from the air since they were constructed and outfitted long before the present day of supreme importance on air armament.

This is an argument being used by Senators and others opposed to the transfer. They insist that it can mean no material aid to Britain and will serve only to bring us closer to actual war with Germany.

Opposition to Transfer.

Meanwhile the Post-Dispatch obtained from an authoritative source the statement of navy officials in opposition to the transfer. These statements were made before an executive session of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee nearly two months ago. It is the only occasion, so far as can be learned, on which heads of the navy have been asked for their opinion on the transfer of American naval vessels to Great Britain.

The witnesses were Assistant Secretary of the Navy Lewis Compton, and Capt. C. W. Fisher, director of the shore establishments division of the navy. Both Compton and Fisher said repeatedly and em-

JAPANESE REFUSE TO SPLIT SHANGHAI CONTROL WITH U.S.

Reject Decision of Council Meeting in Which They Were Outvoted by Americans and British.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Japanese Government will not give its approval to the Shanghai defense commanders' decision to split control of the British defense area between United States and Japanese forces, a Japanese naval spokesman declared today.

His statement made clear that the entire problem created by Britain's decision to withdraw its troops from Shanghai still was unsolved as far as the Japanese are concerned, with the outcome possibly depending on how far the United States is prepared to go to enforce the Defense Committee's decision.

That decision, which was approved today by the Shanghai municipal council, is contingent on acceptance by the governments concerned. It was reached yesterday in a four-hour meeting in which British and American votes carried over Japanese opposition. Italy, fourth country represented, failed to vote.

2500 PLANES ESTIMATED IN NEW RAIDS ON BRITAIN

English Admit Attacks on London Suburbs, Both Sides of Thames — Say They Shot Down 50 Aircraft.

CENSORSHIP

The British chief censor at 9:30 (St. Louis time) this morning permitted publication of the fact that German warplanes were flying high outside London.

Not until 2:19 this afternoon (St. Louis time) were restrictions relaxed to permit a bulletin to be sent reportting a German raid on London suburbs and the Thames estuary.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP).—German bombers raided London's southwestern suburbs and both sides of the Thames today in the mighty Nazi aerial offensive intended to crush these islands, but the main section of this capital of empire was untouched. More than 50 of the invaders were reported to have been shot down.

Bombs fell on the great docksides at Tilbury and on a British airdrome in the Isle of Wight. They fell, too, within eight miles of the vast domed St. Paul's Cathedral in east-central London and on the Thames estuary with its heavy shipping and industrial facilities.

There were casualties—an undisclosed list of dead and injured, and there was damaged residential property.

The city's millions twice had to take to cover—once at luncheon and again just at tea-time.

I twas the sixth successive day of mass raids over England—raids that every day have grown in ferocity—and by mid-afternoon it already had far outdone yesterday's 1000-plane attack. Military observers estimated 2500 planes took part in today's raids.

The raiding Nazis lashed Britain with explosives from Scotland to the south coast of England and from Wales on the west to the east coast. They struck again and again at industrial areas, shipping, airdromes.

Ministry's Report for Day.

The Air Ministry communique tonight said:

"Enemy air activity was on a small scale until midday today, when a large force of bombers and fighters approached the southeast coast.

"Some of these came inland, but were intercepted and engaged by our fighters and turned back before reaching the outskirts of London. The remainder entered the Thames estuary and dropped bombs at several points on either side of the estuary.

"At Tilbury and Norfleet some damage was done and a number of people were injured, some were killed.

"These aircraft were also heavily engaged by anti-aircraft guns and fighters. A number of them passed round the southeast of London but no bombs were dropped in this area.

BRITISH BOMBERS ATTACK CITIES IN NORTH ITALY AGAIN

France, Holland and Reich Also Raided, With Hits Reported on Plane and Arms Plants.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP).—British bombers in renewed attacks over Italy, Germany, France and Holland last night scored hits on airplane factories, oil plants, munitions factories and wharves, the Air Ministry announced tonight. Three British planes were lost.

The communique said:

"Royal Air Force bombers renewed their attack on Italy last night. The Fiat Aero Engine factory at Turin and the Caproni Aircraft Works at Milan were bombed.

A blast furnace near Genoa was also hit. Another strong force of bomber aircraft attacked the oil plants at Gelsenkirchen and Reisholz, munition factories at Lunen, Essen, Gladsach and Dusseldorf, and wharves at Emmerish on the Dutch-German frontier.

"The supply depots at Hamm and Soest and several airdromes in France, Holland and Germany were attacked.

"The dock basin at Helder in Holland was attacked by aircraft of the coastal command last night.

"An aircraft of this command on the night patrol shot down an enemy seaplane.

"Three of our aircraft are missing from all these operations."

An Air Ministry bulletin amplifying the communique, said the factories both at Milan and Turin were "accurately bombed again, causing fires and explosions" while observation established that Tues-

TODAY'S WAR NEWS

BERLIN—Germans report fleet of dive-bombers and fighting planes in attack on docks, arsenals and airports in London area; great fires started on both banks of Thames, DNB says, adding industrial East End of British capital was bombed and defending craft cleared from air in fierce battle over city; industrial plants and shipping facilities raided in day-long attacks elsewhere in Britain, beginning before dawn; high command says British lost 143 planes yesterday at cost of only 32 Nazi planes.

LONDON—Britain reports German raiders bombed southwestern suburb of London and docks along Thames but that main section of city was untouched in terrific air battle; Germans estimated to have used 2500 planes in widespread raids on Britain during day; British claim 50 German planes shot down; say Germans lost 169 yesterday and R. A. F. 34.

ATHENS—Two Greek destroyers attacked by planes reported to have been identified as Italian; London broadcast says Italian troops are massing on Albanian-Greek border.

ISTANBUL—Turkish Premier calls army and navy chiefs; Cabinet takes serious view of Greek-Italian situation.

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt announces conversations with Britain on acquisition of naval and air bases by the United States.

SHANGHAI—Japanese naval spokesman says Japan will not approve Shanghai Defense Committee's plan to split control of Shanghai's British defense sector between United States and Japanese forces.

ROME—Fascists in Rome accuse Britain of torpedo-sinking of Greek light cruiser Helle as maneuver to disrupt Greek-Italian relations; R. A. F. planes bomb cities in North Italy for second time in three days; two killed, five wounded.

CAIRO—British say their constant aerial bombardment and machine gunning and stiffer ground resistance have slowed advance of two Italian columns in Somaliland; report destruction of four Italian flying boats and damage to others in R. A. F. raid on harbor of Bomba, Libya.

STUKAS HIT AT ARSENALS IN SLUMS OF EAST END

R.A.F. Fighters Fiercely Engage Attacking Craft Over City's Fog — Airports Near Capital Damaged, DNB Says.

BERLIN, Aug. 16 (AP).—A fleet of German dive bombers bombed the teeming, industrial East End of London this afternoon and, authorized reports said, strewed both banks of the Thames with great fires, bomb craters and the wreckage of industrial plants.

The squalid Cockney section, a vast beehive of docks, sprawling warehouses, factories and arsenals, lay under a pall of smoke, the raiders reported.

Explosions plumed up from Barking and Purfleet, crowded East End suburbs, said DNB, the official news agency, in a running account of the raid. Both are on the north bank of the Thames, some eight miles from Charing Cross. (Purfleet has been the site of a powder magazine in the past; Barking is barely 2½ miles from the great Royal Albert docks. The Royal Arsenal at Woolwich is just across the river.)

R. A. F. Puts Up Hot Fight.

The raiders met a hot fight from British fighter planes over both the channel coast and over London, but a late report said two German fighter squadrons had "cleared the air" over London. Three squadrons of bombers, the report continued, flew on west of London and attacked other objectives there.

Authorized sources said the raiders' objectives were outlying "arsenals, warehouses and refrigerating plants" and asserted the center of London would be spared.

"The German air force will prove that no power on earth can prevent it from dropping bombs anywhere in England, even over London itself," said a DNB announcement.

Subsequent accounts of the raid told of "great destruction to London's harbor zone" and said airports all around the city suffered heavily; that the Enfield powder plant in the outskirts was attacked and other armament and powder plants north of London bombed.

Description of Battle.

Describing the battles over London, DNB said:

"Air battles of the greatest dimensions at present are under way way in which the British are trying to ward off the massive advance of the German combat formation operating against London.

"The British are employing everything at their disposal for this purpose. Their stubborn resistance indicates they know that all is at stake."

It quoted an observer:

"Like gnats over a swamp—so the fighters dance over the gray London fog.

"Everywhere the eye looks it sees Hurricanes and Spitfires. And, in between, the sharp contours of the Messerschmitts, in chase . . One sees in the air bulging parachutes and yellow puffs of anti-aircraft smoke."

Other mombers, taking advantage of the fight over London, bombed the airports at Rochester

U. S. Facing 'Critical' Situation Because of War, Gen. Marshall Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Gen. George C. Marshall described as "critical" today the situation facing the United States as a result of the climatic developments of the European war.

The Army Chief of Staff told his press conference that he applied the term "critical" to "the possibilities of the next month, in the Western Hemisphere."

Referring to the debate in Congress over compulsory military service, he asserted that "no one can say with certainty, the way things are going abroad, that we won't need the additional man power without delay."

"Time is the dominant factor, and time is fleeting," Gen. Marshall said.

FRENCH OWNERS OF BOATS FIT FOR SEA ORDERED TO REPORT TO NAVY AT ONCE

BERLIN, Aug. 16 (AP).

THE Berlin radio broadcast a dispatch from Vichy, France, today saying that all French owners of seagoing craft of any size or description were requested to report immediately to French naval authorities.

The broadcast also said the French Admiralty had forbidden Frenchmen to take pleasure trips by steamer or sailing craft in the Mediterranean.

WHEAT PRICE DROPS 5 CENTS ON WAR NEWS; PART REGAINED

September Contracts Fall to 67 Cents, Lowest in Nearly a Year.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP).—The price of wheat in Chicago fell 5 cents a bushel today during a heavy wave of selling attributed to trade nervousness accompanying the growing fury of the air battle over Britain.

September wheat tumbled to 67 cents a bushel, the lowest any contract has been quoted here since just before the German invasion of Poland almost a year ago.

The market rallied after the mid-session break, but wheat closed 2⅞ @3⅝ lower than yesterday. Oats and rye touched new lows for the season, but the former closed unchanged to ¼ down, while rye was off 2¼ cents.

Britain now is virtually the only large European importer able to take wheat from North America. That nation normally imports almost half of the total European demand of about 500,000,000 bushels annually.

NEW GERMAN BOMBER 'STANDS STILL' IN AIR

Nazi Radio Describes Demonstration Showing Extreme Maneuverability.

BERLIN, Aug. 16 (AP).—A new Dornier bomber was shown for the first time to a group of invited persons today, the German radio said, and then "employed in actions against England immediately afterward."

The new plane was described as the DP215, "an improved design of the DP17 which sometimes is called the 'Flying Pencil'."

The bomber, in its demonstrations, showed ability to rise in a steep ascent from the ground to the ceiling "in an amazingly short time," the radio said, and with "incredible speed" to swoop down until but a few yards from the ground when it "appeared suddenly to stand still in the air."

The radio said the pilot slowly steered the plane around the field until he shot it forward "like an arrow."

700 OF INVADERS COUNTED DURING DAY IN 15-MILE RADIUS OF PORT

Squadron Shoots Down Two Barrage Balloons, Bombs and Machineguns Town on Southeastern Coast.

By H. TAYLOR HENRY

A TOWN IN SOUTHEASTERN ENGLAND, Aug. 16 (AP).—Three waves of German heavy bombers, each of about 70 planes, roared across the English Channel and the coast late this evening, heading for the heart of England.

These raised to approximately 700 the total number of planes known to have crossed the coast within a radius of 15 miles of this town.

Five German planes were shot down in this area.

I counted 400 planes over this port alone earlier today. They came in six waves at five-minute intervals, flying at 20,000 feet.

Two Balloons Downed.

One squadron singled out this port, downing two barrage balloons and spraying small demolition bombs along the cliff below where I was standing and machine-gunning the cliff itself. (Censorship prevented mention of the port's name, but Henry has been at Dover.)

One balloon known as "King Lear" crashed with its long cable down on three small cottages at the base of the cliffs, setting fire to their roofs.

Several small children were playing inside, but the fires were put out quickly and they were unharmed.

As the plane which bagged this balloon swept out to sea, it screamed only 200 feet above my head, spraying machine-gun bullets all over the cliff where I was standing.

Bounces About in Sky.

One Messerschmitt fighter ran into a tremendous anti-aircraft barrange during a daring dive on the balloons. He was bounced about in the sky, but swept on through and then back out to sea.

"A cheeky blighter," commented one R. A. F. officer watching the fight. "He's a damned German, but he deserved to get away with it. It was one of the most daring dives I've ever seen."

At a height of at least 20,000 feet, the Germans came on in wave after wave.

Shortly afterward explosions were heard in the distance. Then 18 Nazi bombers were seen speeding away in the direction of France.

A mile off shore a Messerschmitt fighter broke from the protecting force around the bombers and crashed into the sea. A British Spitfire followed it down, circled about the widening oil patch it left, and then flew away.

In a dogfight two machines were seen to dive out of a haze, one on the tail of the other, but both disappeared before observers could see the results of the encounter.

HOUSES SMASHED, FACTORIES BOMBED IN CROYDON RAID

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP).—London echoed the wail of alarm sirens at 5 p. m. yesterday when German dive bombers plunged down within a few hundred feet of the ground to dump tons of explosives at the Croydon airport, eight miles south of Charing Cross, mid-London.

Screaming down in slanting dives from three miles away, 20 or 30 big black-crossed bombers sowed death and reaped ruin over the airport and its thick surrounding belt of homes and factories. They skimmed their targets, then roared back to the clouds amid a hail of anti-aircraft. British fighter planes downed three attackers, it was reported.

Houses were smashed. Explosions thundered in the factory district. Smoke clouds puffed up into the battle-streaked sky. Children fled from their play and grownups screamed encouragement to busy British pilots and gunners who could not hear above the din.

Many persons had hair-breadth escapes. Passengers of a double-decker bus bound for London were caught in the raid and quickly dashed for cover. Then a bomb fell, hurtling huge lumps of concrete which smashed the upper deck of the bus.

Man Killed Entering Shelter.

The raid resulted in about 100 casualties, including four deaths, it was reported unofficially. One man was killed just as he was about to enter his raid shelter.

A woman said of the scream bombs: "They scared me, all right. I felt weak in the knees until I heard the hum of our fighter motors."

Another woman said she counted 10 heavy bomb explosions. A third said:

"They even machine-gunned us to the shelter in our back garden. How we got there God alone knows."

This woman said she dashed for the shelter with her 2-month-old baby in her arms. She said she heard the bullets strike and the whistle of falling bombs.

One big bomb narrowly missed the gas works near the airport and houses nearby were wrecked.

Children Herded to Shelters.

With the warning roar of the first explosion women darted into the streets to carry their children to shelter. One mother herded her seven children before her like a scene from a Mother Goose book.

One bomb ripped to pieces beside a shelter where four little boys had just fled, helping a crippled playmate along with them, from a game of hide and seek. They reached safety only by moments.

Another person in a shelter was pulled out of the wreckage, apparently severely injured.

Dozens of residents in the hard-hit zone had no time to reach the public shelters. Some darted into cellars and others hurled themselves flat on the floor. Many were cut and bruised by glass and splinter showers.

One elderly man related that an explosion alongside his home sent up a shower of earth that rattled ominously against the walls, and "it gave me a fair old turn, it did."

Several Fires Started.

High explosive bombs blasted the chalk from the soil and covered buildings with a white mantle.

Damage to the airport itself — which in peacetime is not generally used for military purposes—was not believed to be extensive as had been feared during the first fury of the attack. Debris scattered the ground for several hundred yards in some places, however, to show that there were hits. Incendiary bombs touched off several fires.

Witnesses of the attack testified to its terror but all reports indicated the population was calm. Hundreds stood in the streets and watched the aerial dogfights.

With machine-like precision resulting from year-long rehearsals, steel-helmeted air raid precaution squads, police and auxiliary fire service units converged on the scene immediately after the dive-bombers raced away, with British fighters in pursuit.

Rescue workers with picks and shovels searched through the night for possible further victims in the ruins of one building hit by a dive-bomber. Volunteers went to hospitals to offer their blood for transfusions.

There was a sudden swelling of voluntary contributions to a fund to buy more fighting planes for Britain.

Traffic in London Slowed.

London itself, where the citizens generally took to cover, the raid slowed the tempo of the metropolis for a short time as thousands were bound homeward for supper. Pubs closed down, but restaurants continued to serve meals. Life quickly returned to a wartime norm, and by night the theater district was packed.

Watchers on the roof of the five-story Associated Press Building saw no bombers over the heart of the city while the warning was on.

There was no gunfire, although a huge column of smoke rising from the direction of Croydon could be seen plainly. The rumble of busses and trolley cars was the only sound in the streets, empty save for the tin-hatted air raid wardens and policemen.

The wardens went through the shelters full of Londoners caught on the way home from work and warned those who had no gas masks:

"You'd better have one next time."

Stations Emptied Quickly.

Great stations filled with commuters bound for suburban homes were emptied in two minutes after the first scream of sirens.

The Strand, main thoroughfare between Charing Cross and the newspaper district, was forlorn. There were some Australian soldiers on "London leave," who gazed casually at the skies. When police urged them to go to shelters, they said, "Let the gals and kids fill 'em first," and kept on watching.

As the sirens sounded the all-clear, scores of workers in the city interrupted their rush home in order to enter the ancient portals of St. Paul's for prayer and solace.

Near the brooding old church the roar of traffic began again, like water rushing through a suddenly-opened dam.

and Maidstone, which were lightly defended, the agency reported.

Plane after plane was crashing, DNB said, and the total "must be enormous."

Later, the formation which penetrated west of London returned to report that it had started big fires in hangars and barracks of air fields there.

DNB'S Running Account.

As if it were reporting a horse race, DNB issued its account of this "special action" beginning with the hour—6:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m. St. Louis time) that the raiders reached the English Channel.

"The first British interceptors are already sighted," the agency relayed.

Then:

"The special German air force unit is over harbor installations in the Thames . . . chasers are already engaged in aerial combat . . . now and then a Spitfire or Hurricane fighter swoops down . . . The German pilots make unservingly for their objectives.

"Machine-gunners in the German planes covering the flanks fire at the approaching enemy interceptors and keep them off . . . British anti-aircraft fire is avoided . . . The shells burst far behind the German machines.

"Large fires have broken out on either side fo the Thames . . . Everywhere smoke is arising . . . Hits and bomb craters are visible . . . The wind is driving a black veil across the slums of the London East End . . . The Ferman planes have dropped their deadly loads with the utmost precision. . ."

Britain Bombed All Day.

Before this "sspecial action" began, wave after wave of German planes had thundered over Englan tall day, smashing at industrial nerve centers of the Midlands, at the channel ports again, at airplane factories and armament works up and down and across the besieged kingdom.

The German radio reported 40 British and 15 German planes were shot down during the day in air battles over the County of Kent and the British naval base at Portsmouth alone.

A British destroyer was reported sunk by air bombs at Portsmouth. Heavy damage was said to have been inflicted on Kent airdromes and coastal barrage balloons.

The Austin automobile works at Birmingham, which the Germans say is making plane motors, was bombed and fired, DNB said. Great fires also were reported started at the Blacqburn aircraft factory near Hull, where the British were said to be making dive bombers.

There also was a great attack on harbor and air facilities at Chatham, a ship repair yard on the lawer Thames, DNB asserted. It described great conflagrations in docksX shipyards and coaling stations, barracks seen to collapse and damage to workshops.

On the sea, the Germans said their leveled anti-aircraft artillery had driven British patrol boats away from the French channel port of Cap Griz Nez, scoring several hits. A German submarine reported that it had sunk two armed British merchant ships totaling 14,000 tons.

Returning Bombers' Story.

A bomber unit which returned from the raid said it shot down 19 British planes in the fighting around London, DNB, reported. Six German planes were reported missing.

Recapitulating the results of yesterday's raids, the heaviest in history, the high command said at least 143 British planes were destroyed—106 of them in air battles the rest on the ground—and 21 barrage balloons. Thirty-two German planes were acknowledged lost.

(The British reported 169 German planes were shot down yesterday against 34 British craft.)

Returning to the attack during the night, German planes were reported to have inflicted new blows on harbor facilities on the great Portland naval base, on the south coast; Scarborough, Bridlington, Middlesbrough and Hull, all on the northeast coast; factories and armament works at Birmingham; and "numerous" flying fields in south, southeast and central England.

British planes, carrying out their nightly raids on Western Germany, failed to cause "noteworthy damage," the communique said.

German minesweepers were said to have shot down four of 10 Spitfires in one formation, and the communique noted that "Maj. Galan shot down his twentieth plane."

The German rescue service saved nine Germans and one British flyer in the channel, the high command said.

Informed German sources earlier had said that 520 German bombers and fighters had taken part in the big raids yesterday on Southern and Central England, with an undisclosed additional number in action over Scotland.

Two hundred bombers raided objectives in England, they reported, while 320 Messerschmitt pursuit and destroyer planes protected them from British fighter planes, engaged the British in dogfights, and attacked British barrage balloons.

These 520 planes were said to have operated as far as Newcastle, on England's northeastern coast.

The British plane losses yesterday included a number inflicted in the dark hours in raids which extended far into North England and Scotland, it was said.

Airdrome Raids Stressed.

Germans stressed the significance of blows against Britain's air power on the ground—blows against warplanes and their airdromes. They recalled such tactics paralyzed the Polish air force in the opening of the European war last September.

These sources emphasized the fact that, of the 143 British planes reported destroyed yesterday in a midnight announcement by DNB, 37 were put out of commission on the ground. They commented on the growing number of references to such destruction in high command communiques and pointed further to some of the principal objectives of yestreday's bombing raids:

Airports at Driffield, north of Hull; at Hawkinge and Lympne, on the southeast coast; in the Northumberland district, in northern England, and even in the Aberdeen and Moray Firth districts of Scotland.

There was no direct reference to the attack on Croydon, DNB reporting only that German planes appeared over London.

German pilots report they are able to fly increasing distances into England before encountering resistance and that all sections of Britain, including Scotland, now are within easy bombing range.

Britain's Big Port Is Nazi Target of Wight, causing little damage and an R. A. F. aerodrome was attacked.

"Later a large force of enemy aircraft again entered the Thames Estuary and some of these dropped bombs in the southwestern suburbs of London. A station was hit and shops and houses were damaged.

"Reports so far received indicate that a small number of people were injured, some fatally. During the evening enemy attacks were renewed at a number of points from which reports are not yet available.

"Our fighters have been constantly in action during the day, and it can be stated that more than 50 enemy aircraft have been destroyed. Twelve of our fighters are reported lost, but the pilots of eight of these are safe."

A fierce air battle took place over a Southeast English town early this afternoon. A number of planes crashed and their crews bailed out.

One flyer was dead when he fell in a suburban garden. Another was taken to a hospital seriously injured. No bombs were dropped. Anti-aircraft guns set up a thundering fire.

At a west coast town several bombs were dropped on the grounds of a boarding school, damaging the buildings. The body of one boy was found in the wreckage. Other boys were missing or injured.

An official announcement said 169 German and 34 British planes were downed in yesterday's battles. Seventeen of the British pilots were saved.

The Germans made a three-hour massed attack on one south coast town (presumably Southampton) through a wall of exploding anti-aircraft shells, shooting down two barrage balloons there and two more at a nearby port at a cost of two Nazi planes downed in flames. The British lost one plane.

Bombs dropped on a third town in the same area, caused several casualties, set off huge fires and destroyed two buildings.

In Northeast England an elderly woman died of shock when a bomb struck an air raid shelter, injuring several persons inside.

Beginning before dawn, the Nazi raiders launched the sixth successive day of the mass air attacks by raining bombs on the Midlands, industrial heart of England; the northwest, northeast, southeast, southwest and Wales.

Some casualties, including deaths, were admitted and the German bombs were said to have struck hospitals and a sanatorium during the night.

A German bomber was shot down by British fighters in the northeastern Humber area, it was announced officially.

Revising upward the number of German planes reported shot down yesterday, the Air and Home Security Ministries announced that of yesterday's bag of German raiders, 153 were brought down by British fighters, 11 by anti-aircraft, one by Lewis gun and two by infantry fire.

(Although the communique did not say so, authoritative sources said one German plane was caught in Britain's secret new "plane trap" and destroyed while another crashed from "causes unknown"—making the total 169.)

(The Germans reported 143 British planes were destroyed Thursday, 106 of them in air combat, and acknowledged the loss of only 32 German planes.)

Attackers Barely Visible.

Returning to the attack today the Germans swept across the coast wave on wave, flying at 20,000 feet and barely visible from the ground.

The formations spread in all directions, with the greatest swarms flying over towns in various parts of the southeast.

British fighters challenged the invaders from all sides and anti-aircraft guns kept up a continual din that blended with the thunder of exploding German high explosive, incendiary and whistling bombs.

Sixteen German bombers attacked shipping in the southeast area in a raid quickly broken up by fierce anti-aircraft fire and swarming British Spitfires. One bomber was reported downed.

The Air and Home Security Ministries' communique said that last night's attacks, although not on a large scale, were spread over a wide area.

"In the eastern counties incendiary bombs were scattered over large areas of open country causing no casualties nor any appreciable damage," the communique said.

"In a town in the Midlands some damage was done to buildings, including hospitals and a sanatorium, and slight damage was also done to a factory. Some casualties were caused, a number of which were fatal.

"Bombs also were dropped at scattered points in southeastern, southwestern and northeastern England and in South Wales. Slight damage was done to a factory in southwestern England, but elsewhere very little damage was done and only a few casualties have been reported.

"One enemy bomber was shot down by our fighters in the Humber area in the early hours of this morning."

Heavy explosions were heard in the Southwest — some residents thought they might be from naval gunfire in the English Channel.

Several fires were ...ed in the Midlands but were controlled quickly. The fires and searchlight beams lit the skies and the roar of anti-aircraft fire mixed with the sound of exploding bombs.

Several persons were reported killed also in one area of Southeast England, where British fighters and ground defenses waged a fierce battle with the invaders.

The R. A. F. reported driving the raiders off and continued to patrol the district, retaining their local command of the air which the Germans are trying ...ish.

A German plane was reported to have fallen into the sa off a northeast coast town after being crippled by anti-aircraft fire.

The nation, declared to be prepared for a German attempt at actual invasion and anticipating even greater air raids than those of the last five days, took stock this morning after yesterday's great attack.

The official Government summary as published in a communique this morning was that "little success was achieved" by the Germans "at a high cost."

What the British losses would amount to actually in dead and wounded, splintered homes and smashed buildings remained obscure.

It was reported unofficially that about 100 casualties, including four deaths, were caused at London's southern suburb of Croydon, only eight miles from the heart of the capital, when 20 or 30 Stukas (dive bombers) made a three-mile dive attack on the world-famed airdrome there.

"In the Croydon area a number of buildings were damaged, including a scent (perfume) factory, and fires were caused which were soon brought under control," while on the airdrome itself "no serious damage was done," the Government said.

At least three German planes were brought down over and around Croydon and others were destroyed trying to get back to their bases.

Although the attack on Croydon seemed the most sensational because of the use of dive-bombers and its proximity to London itself, other sections of the country bore their share of the assault, late reports showed.

Reports of ruin and casualties came from Hastings on the southeast coast—landing place of the last successful invasion of England a thousand years ago—from the already hammered naval base at Portland, towns of the southwest and coastal cities of the northeast, and from industrial Rochester.

Throughout the country R. A. F. fighters were in the air for long periods during the day—"often landing just to rearm and refuel," the Air Ministry said. In one battle German planes were shot down at the rate of one a minute, the Air Ministry news service said.

20 Downed in One Fight.

Twenty German planes were shot down in one fight alone over a Southwest English town when 30 Spitfire and Hurricane fighters engaged an attacking force of 200 Messerschmitt fighters and Dornier bombers.

An express train was struck by machine-gun fire from a German raider in a northeast town, several persons were killed and a number injured by bombers in another northeast town, and Wales, Southwest England and other regions were attacked.

British military men kept a tight-lipped silence about details of a "mystery weapon"—a plane trap said to have played an "efficient and formidable" role in blocking the Nazi attacks.

WILLKIE, 'RESTING' FOR TALK, VISITS HIS FIVE FARMS

GOING TOMORROW TO ELWOOD RALLY

To Make Acceptance Address in Community of His Birth — 250,000 Crowd Expected.

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Aug. 16 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie, back home in Indiana, took a "rest" today by visiting his five Rush County farms before the sun was high in the sky.

He arrived here at his wife's birthplace only last midnight, but after a few hours' sleep he rode into the country and inspected his livestock and cornfields.

Miss Mary Sleeth, who manages the 1400 acres, drove him around.

Then they came downtown, and while the car stopped at a principal corner Willkie shook hands with a few old friends.

He had no appointments for the day, but planned to take a final glance over his speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination, to be delivered tomorrow in his home town of Elwood.

Rushville gave him a noisy welcome when he arrived.

"Streets Are Thronged."

The streets were thronged as Willkie and his wife arrived at the head of an automobile caravan from Indianapolis. They had flown to the Indiana capital from Colorado Springs, Colo., where Willkie spent the last month getting ready for his campaign.

Tomorrow noon the Willkies will go to his birthplace—Elwood—for a rally which party leaders hope will draw a quarter of a million persons. Willkie will deliver his keynote speech, giving special attention to his views on national defense and the foreign situation.

But, until then, informality is the watchword. Willkie avoided any speech making at Indianapolis and Rushville last night, but wherever a dozen persons were gathered at crossroads he popped up from his automobile seat, waved his stiff straw hat and flung out his arms in greeting.

Arrival at Indianapolis.

A crowd at the Indianapolis municipal airport, after waiting through a hot evening until 9 p. m., broke through police lines when Willkie's chartered plane landed. Official delegations greeted him. Mrs. Willkie received a huge sheaf of red roses and police cleared a path to an open car.

Just before reaching Rushville, the party passed one of Willkie's five farms in Rush County, where a sign proclaims that he owns 1400 acres of land. There was a brief stop while Mrs. Willkie put on a new, broad-brimmed, black straw hat for the entrance into her home town.

In this county seat of 6000 Willkie's car slowly circled the courthouse square. While he stood, Mrs. Willkie sat at his side, waved to friends whom she recognized, and turned now and then as someone called out, "Hello, Edith."

The Willkies passed underneath a big banner saying, "Rush County presents Wendell L. Willkie," then they turned off to a side street to stop at the home of Mrs. Willkie's mother, Mrs. Cora Wilk. She went to the front porch to greet her daughter and son-in-law and stood with them while Willkie waved goodnight to a yard full of neighbors. It ended a 50-mile ride which had taken nearly three hours.

Lizzie Barber, Mrs. Wilk's Negro cook, had been keeping some fried chicken warm for the guests since dinner time. After a brief visit, Mr. and Mrs. Willkie went to the home of Miss Mary Sleeth to spend the night. Miss Sleeth manages Willkie's farms.

Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, G. O. P. National Chairman, will notify him of his nomination. Willkie's address, which will be broadcast nationally, will start shortly after 3 p. m., St. Louis time.

Elwood has been preparing for its gala day for the last month. The streets are hung with banners, and growing corn has been leveled in broad fields to provide parking space for automobiles.

To Talk at Rushville Monday.

Willkie has not announced his immediate plans following the acceptance program, except for a short talk in Rushville Monday. He may not begin an intensive campaign until early September.

He made only one talk en route to Indiana, that at Kansas City.

Before leaving Colorado Springs, Willkie said he would demand the refund of advertising funds collected by the Republican National Committee in 1936 "as soon as Attorney-General (Robert H.) Jackson agrees with me" that the collection violated the Corrupt Practices Act.

This was in answer to Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn's demand that Willkie state whether he believed the law should be applied to Republican as well as Democratic collections.

Willkie had asserted the Democratic committee should refund about $640,000 which he said had been collected from corporations for advertising in the 1936 and 1940 party campaign books. Flynn replied that the Republicans had collected $150,000 similarly in 1936.

Text of Willkie's Address At Kansas City on Machines

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 16 (AP).—FOLLOWING is the text of Wendell Willkie's airport address here yesterday in which he told a crowd that Kansas City had eliminated one of the "cancers" of democracy by "wiping out the Pendergast machine":

"You see I am under some extra burden. I have to make all the speeches in my family—that is, all of the public ones.

"I can't tell you how much I am touched that so many of you should come out to see me today. When arranging the schedule at Indianapolis they told me we were going to stop at Kansas City for a short rest. I was hopeful that a few of you would be out to see me, but this overwhelming throng of people who have come to welcome me moves me very much. This is very many more people than came out to see me the last time I was in Kansas City, and the first time I came through this town on the rods nobody met me, and I wasn't particularly anxious for anybody to meet me.

"Now we are living in a very difficult time in the course of the world's history. Democracy and this way of life is in test and the question is as to whether democracy can prove itself to be more strong, more effective than totalitarian forms of government. We know it is the best way of life. We must also make it the most effective way of life in order to survive. And in order to make it the most effective way of life we must cut out of it every cancer that has a tendency to destroy its strength, and I am happy to appear on this program with the Mayor of the city of Kansas City who helped to cut out one of the cancers in our body politic.

"America, in order to be strong must be clean. America, in order to be strong must have the full functioning of the democratic process, free from the control of corrupt political machines. And I am glad to be here in Kansas City where you people, in the last few years, have wiped out the corrupt Pendergast machine, because with the Kelly-Nash machine and the Hague machine they have taken possession of the Democratic party and in the Democratic primary in this State last week, with the help of the national administration, they have gained a new foot-hold and I call upon you this fall to join in the crusade that will so smother them with votes that they will never be able to set up their slimy heads any more in this section of the country.

Way of Measuring People.

"You know I grew up in this kind of country, and there were certain basic virtues that we had and certain ways of measuring people that we knew, and that was that we measured them by their deeds rather than by their words.

"Time and time again, in the course of this campaign, on all kinds of issues I shall call attention to the difference between the high-sounding words, the high professions made in Washington, and the low political performances that carry them into effect.

"Now you can readily appreciate that on my way to my acceptance talk, I can enter into no discussion of the detailed issues of the campaign. But when I have concluded that talk and opened by campaign formally in the fall, on platforms like this all over the United States, I intend to present the issues to the people frankly, fairly, free from personalities, if possible, but in no event will I fail to call the turn on the relationship between corrupt political control and the present regime in Washington.

"So my neighbors in Kansas City you being the kind of people I know, I thank you from the bottom of my heart, both for myself and Mrs. Willkie for your generous hospitality. Many thanks to you and God bless you."

STRIKING LASTERS RETURN, MILIUS CO. RESUMES WORK

About Half of Those in Walkout Which Union Agent Called Unauthorized Back on Job.

About half of the 73 lasters who threw 1200 Milius Shoe Co. employes out of work when they went on strike July 23 have returned to work and the concern has resumed operations, a company officer said today. He expected production to be up to 50 per cent by Monday, with at least half of the 1200 employes back at work.

The AFL Boot and Shoe Workers' Union has a closed shop contract with the company and Joseph F. Kizer, business agent, has termed the strike "unauthorized." Kizer said he discussed possible disciplinary action against the lasters in a letter to John J. Marra, national president of the union.

Of the 73 who walked out, 48 were at the plant at 2235 O'Fallon street and 25 at 3437 Locust street. The company's third plant at 2300 Division street also was closed.

ROOSEVELT MAY NOT HEAR WILLKIE SPEECH ON RADIO

President Imagines He Will Be Watching Maneuvers by First Army.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—President Roosevelt told reporters today that he imagined he would not hear Wendell Willkie's acceptance speech on the radio tomorrow afternoon.

At his press conference he said he imagined he would be with the troops tomorrow from the moment he arrived at Ogdensburg, N. Y., to witness maneuvers of the First Army. The President will leave Washington tonight.

After his inspection of the troops Saturday afternoon, Roosevelt intends to remain over to attend religious services in the field Sunday morning. He plans to go then to Hyde Park for several days.

BULLITT TO SPEAK SUNDAY IN WORLD-WIDE BROADCAST

Envoy's First Address Since Return From France to Deal With World Political Situation.

PHILADELHIA, Aug. 16 (AP).—World-wide broadcast of a speech Sunday night by United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt, his first since he returned from France, was announced yesterday by the American Philosophical Society, sponsors of the address.

Bullitt will speak in Independence Square at 5 p. m. St. Louis time, on the world political situation. Roland S. Morris, president of the society, said the address would be broadcast over three United States networks and by short wave to other continents.

5 NON-STRIKERS AT CENTURY CO. BEATEN, THEY SAY

Charge Group of Men Attacked Them —Woman, Who Says She Used Knife, Detained.

Five non-striking employes of the Century Electric Co., 1806 Pine street, reported to police they were attacked by a group of seven or eight men shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon on Locust street near Eighteenth street.

Police reported William Pillsbury, a supervisor in the plant and son of the president, E. S. Pillsbury, had identified three strikers as members of a group of five men who attacked him Wednesday afternoon at Eighteenth and Market streets when he was on his way to his home, 680 McKnight road, Ladue.

Booked on peace disturbance charges, the strikers gave their names as Curtis Kisse, 2609 Rauschenbach street; Raymond Feick, 4827 Olive street, and Albert Vernon, 2420 Prairie avenue. Pillsbury held Kisse until police arrived.

Following the disturbance yesterday in which the five employes reported they were beaten, a knife was found in a pocket of one of the victims when he was searched at City Hospital. He gave his name as Ralph Meyers and said he lived in the 2500 block of Benton street. He was treated for a cut on the head.

Woman Detained.

A woman who gave her name as Mrs. Marie Salisbury and said she lived in the 2700 block of Madison street told police that in the course of the fight she picked up a large knife which she found lying in the street and used it in stabbing one or more of her assailants. She said she also kicked one of the men. After treatment at City Hospital for a cut elbow, she was booked suspected of affray.

Donald Salisbury, who also gave an address in the 2700 block of Madison street, sufferd a bruise on the neck. The other two victims, who declined medical attention, gave their names as Mrs. Helen Meyers and Clarence Harris.

They said they were beaten with bricks, pieces of iron and fists. Police found at the scene of the fight a four-inch piece of rubber with heavy bolts at each end.

Emil Mueller, another non-striking employe, reported to police a small bottle containing creosote was thrown at his home, 811 Fillmore street, last midnight, breaking a window. The bottle fell back on the lawn.

WIDOW OF H. F. NIEDRINGHAUS DIES AT 88, IN HOUSTON, TEX.

Once Active in Church Affairs; Funeral Services to Be Held Here Monday.

Mrs. Lydia B. Niedringhaus, widow of Henry F. Niedringhaus, treasurer of the National Enameling & Stamping Co. in Granite City, died last night of infirmities of age in Houston, Tex. She was 88 years old. She had made her home in the last 20 years with a son, Edgar, who owns a ranch near Angleton, Tex.

Mrs. Niedringhaus, daughter of a Methodist clergyman was active in affairs of the Methodist church and for years taught Sunday School. Besides her son, Edgar, she is survived by another son, Dr. Ralph Niedringhaus, a physician, 500 West Point avenue, University City, and a daughter, Mrs. Lyde Jenks of Houston.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, with burial in Bellefontaine cemetery.

SHOOTS HIS WIFE TO DEATH AS SHE IS LYING IN BED

Erwin Bender at First Reports Death as Suicide, Later Admits Killing After Quarrel.

Erwin Bender, a clerk, shot and killed his wife, Pauline, today as she was lying in bed in their five-room flat at 2402A South Thirteenth street.

At first he reported her death as a suicide, but after questioning at the Lynch Street Police Station he admitted that he had shot her after they had quarreled. Mrs. Bender, 23 years old, was shot in the center of the forehead. She was dead on arrival at City Hospital.

When police arrived at the home soon after 6 a. m., in response to a call from the landlady downstairs, they found Mrs. Bender in bed and a .22-caliber repeating rifle on the floor. Bender, a slight man of 28 years, maintained that his wife had shot herself while he was asleep beside her.

After police pointed out the difficulty she would have had holding the rifle to the center of her forehead, Bender admitted the killing. He accused his wife of going out with other men and said that this led to their quarrel.

He said that when he came home about 9:30 o'clock last night his wife was not there. He went to bed and when he awoke at 5 o'clock this morning his wife was sitting up in bed.

"I asked her where she had been last night," he stated in a written confession, "and she said it was none of my business. Then I asked her when she had come home and she said she didn't know.

"I went back to sleep for a little while and when I woke up she said, 'I'll get you.' I picked up the rifle from under the bed and she said, 'Go ahead and shoot.'

"I was sitting on the edge of the bed and she was lying down. I fired at her head, then I threw the rifle on the floor on her side of the bed."

Also in the flat at the time were Bender's brother-in-law, Arthur Keller, and Miss Hilda Grab of Waterloo, Ill., a housemaid. Bender said that after firing the shot he dressed, then informed Keller and Miss Grab that his wife had shot herself.

HURT, EXPLAINS CRASH IN NOTE

Flying Instructor With Broken Jaw Unable to Talk.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 16 (AP).—Unable to talk because of a broken jaw, Winthrop C. Cantrell, 19 years old, a flying school instructor, wrote a note in a hospital explaining that a sharp turn too near the ground caused a plane in which he and a student pilot were flying to crash into a tree near Liberty, Mo.

Pittman to Ask for Unanimous Consent Monday to Act on Measure.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Legislation permitting American vessels to transport children from European war zones to this country was approved today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Under the measure, already passed by the House, children under 16 years old who are sponsored by American persons or corporations could come to the United States. It would be necessary for the refugee ships to obtain safe conduct from the belligerent powers.

Chairman Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, of the committee said he would ask unanimous consent Monday in the Senate to dispose of the legislation.

The measure was introduced in the House by Congressman Hennings (Dem.), St. Louis.

Children Due in U. S. Soon.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—The first group of 200,000 British refugee children whom the United States Committee for the Care of European Children hopes to bring to America would arrive early next week, committee president Marshall Field said yesterday.

He said the first arrivals would be between 5 and 16 years old, and would enter on two-year visas granted by the Justice and State Departments in co-operation with the committee.

SHOT TO DEATH BY BURGLAR

Kansas City Man Snapped On Light at Wife's Warning.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 16 (AP).—Erwin P. Schwarzenholz, 40 years old, was shot to death by a burglar early this morning when he snapped on the light in his bedroom after he had been warned by his wife of the burglar's presence.

Mrs. Schwarzenholz also was shot in the leg. She said she heard a noise and saw the form of a man between the bed and a window. She described the burglar as a Negro. Police said be obtained no loot.

CITY'S HANDSOMEST ICEMAN TO BE SELECTED THURSDAY

Contest Winner Will Be "Mr. St. Louis" in National Competition in New Orleans.

"St. Louis' handsomest iceman" is to be selected in a masculine beauty contest Thursday night. He will win a pair of silver ice tongs and the privilege of wearing a diagonal sash designating him as "Mr. St. Louis" in a national contest to be held in New Orleans in October in connection with the National Association of Ice Industries convention.

Winner of the national contest will be "unveiled" at the convention, according to an announcement issued by the St. Louis Ice Manufacturers Association, which is sponsoring the local contest. He will then be sent to Hollywood for a screen test.

Contestants will be judged, it was explained, on the basis of "a charming manner, pleasing looks, and the necessary amount of brawn." Judging will be at the Fox Theater.

TEACHERS TOLD THAT MERIT IS BASIS OF APPOINTMENT

Notice Meant to Discourage Those Who Seek Backing of School Board Members.

Applicants for teaching positions in the public school system are receiving information sheets which contain this statement: "Applicants are recommended for appointment on the basis of merit. Those who seek to obtain appointment by any other means are considered unethical and unprofessional."

George R. Johnson, newly appointed personnel director, said today that job-seekers in the past frequently enlisted the aid of School Board members in getting in the system. This practice was condemned by two grand juries which investigated school irregularities.

FIVE MEN KILLED IN JOPLIN POWDER PLANT EXPLOSION

Blast at Atlas Company 62 Miles From City — Retaining Wall Protects Other Units.

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 16 (AP).—Five men were killed today in an explosion which wrecked a small unit of the Atlas powder plant six miles east of Joplin.

A careful check of the plant, which employs about 400 persons, was being made but immediate information was that no others were killed or injured.

The blast demolished the "No. 2 punch house" in which the five victims were working. Each unit of the plant is built in the center of a dirt retaining wall designed to direct the force of explosions away from other units.

A "punch house" in powder plant parlance is a unit in which gelatin-mix or "jelly" is punched into the dynamite sticks.

The dead: Joseph Bates, Joplin; Leroy Crampton, Carterville; Harold Gallagher, Webb City; Sidney O. Deitz, Carthage, Route 4, and Lloyd S. Brown, Carterville.

The bodies of the men were blown to bits. The force of the explosion rattled windows in Joplin, Carthage, Carterville, Carl Junction and other communities over a wide area. The cause of the explosion was not determined. Estimates of the amount of powder lost in the blast ranged from 1000 to 2000 pounds.

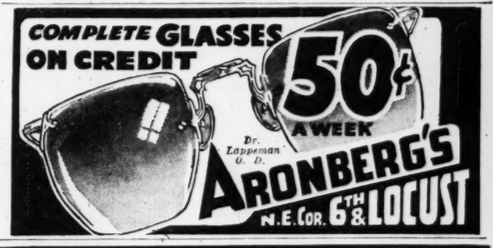

Harry O. Rogers, Jasper County Sheriff, and Dempsey Southard, chief guard at the plant, said there was no indication of sabotage.

Only a small fire followed the explosion and it was extinguished quickly.

Candidate Returns to State Job.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 16 (AP). — Robert E. Holliway returned yesterday to his post as secretary of the Public Service Commission, from which he took a leave of absence to seek the Democratic nomination for State Auditor. He lost his race to Forrest Smith, incumbent.

BEATEN CANDIDATE LAYS LOSS OF CITY JOB TO POLITICS

L. W. Buckowitz Suspended, He Says for Running for Committee Against Administration Man.

Louis W. Buckowitz, unsuccessful candidate for Tenth Ward Democratic Committeeman in the primary election, asserted today that his suspension as a $125-a-month inspector in the street department was the result of politics, ordered because he insisted on running for the committee against the successful administration candidate, Deputy Sheriff Walter C. Orme.

Streets Commissionr L. Jean Gualdoni notified Buckowitz yesterday that he was suspended, with recommendation for dismissal, "due to continuously unsatisfactory services, refusal to carry out instructions and erroneous reports" of inspections.

Chairman George B. Tracy of the Efficiency Board said Buckowitz had 10 days to appear before him, deny the charges and ask for a hearing by the board. If this were not done, he said, the suspension automatically would be made permanent.

Gualdoni's Charges.

Gualdoni said Buckowitz had made erroneous reports on two occasions in June, involving overcharges to contractors for four hours of inspection work on each of the jobs, and had not abided by his transfer in July from outside work to inside duties. Chief Excavations Inspector Roy J. Farrar reported Monday, he said, that Buckowitz had not spent more than 15 minutes a day at his work since the transfer.

In denying this, Buckowitz asserted the fact was that he was transferred from outside work to inside work so that he could not devote working time to the furtherance of his own campaign in opposition to the administration candidate.

He had been devoting considerable time, including some working hours, to affairs of the administration organization in the Tenth Ward, he told a Post-Dispatch reporter, asserting this was in pursuance to an understanding reached when he was first hired April 1, 1939, at a time when it was reported he was preparing to run for Alderman in the Tenth Ward with the support of an organization opposed to the administration.

Backed Sam Priest.

"I had supported Sam Priest for Circuit Clerk, had my organization, the Jefferson Club, in the Tenth Ward, and it got around that I was going to run against the administration candidate for Alderman. We got together and they gave me a job in the House Numbering Section of the Streets Departments.

"I'd report in about 10 a. m. after taking care of the stuff for the administration organization in the ward. Then in a couple of months my boss said he had got complaints that I was spending time here and there, so they got me a job as inspector where I could devote more time to the ward work."

After the death last May 4 of John Tiggard, Tenth Ward Democratic Committeeman, Buckowitz sought to enlist support of the administration for the appointment to succeed Tiggard, he related. However, he learned, he said, that Alderman Denis T. Bahlinger of the Tenth Ward favored Orme, who was appointed by Gov. Stark in June, and so decided to run in the August primary with support of the anti-administration ward organization.

"Then I was called on the carpet," Buckowitz continued, "and told that if I wouldn't run I would get a better job. I said no, I was running regardless.

"On July 5 Gualdoni called me in and said he wanted to transfer me to an inside job as clerk. He said there had been some complaints on my reports being in error and some overcharges resulting against plumbing contractors. I was supposed to charge for four hours too much. I said the men on the job had signed for the work some time ago. However, I told Gualdoni he was the boss.

"After that I reported in to the office every day, five days a week, and asked if there was anything for me, but the clerk would say no and I'd walk out—every day, that is, except the day after election. I didn't feel so good that day."

Recalls "Crack Down" Speech.

Buckowitz recalled that on the night of July 5 Chairman Tracy of the Efficiency Board, speaking at a Twenty-third Ward meeting, had warned that the administration would "crack down" on city employes who supported Alderman Allan E. Ptersen, candidate for the Democratic City Committee in opposition to the administration candidate, Charles M. (Turtles) Reardon.

Gualdoni said the suspension of Buckowitz had nothing to do with politics, but was "purely a matter of unsatisfactory services."

Said Buckowitz: "It's the old story — if you're with them, it's O. K., if you're not, you're a heel."

FORD AGREES TO BUILD 4000 AIRPLANE ENGINES

Motors of Pratt & Whitney Type to Be Made for U. S.

DETROIT, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Ford Motor Co., which has been experimenting for several months with aviation engines, plans to build 4000 air-cooled airplane engines for the United States Government, it was learned authoritatively today. The engines will be of the type made my the Pratt & Whitney Co.

At the Ford offices here it was said that arrangements for the contract had been conducted with William S. Knudsen of the National Defense Commission.

Construction of the 4000 motors, it was added, would not interfere with Henry Ford's plans to produce an aviation engine of his own. The Ford aviation engine is to be liquid-cooled.

FASCIST ADVANCE REPORTED SLOWED BY AERIAL ATTACK

Invaders in Somaliland Also Encountering Stiffer Ground Resistance, British Assert.

CAIRO, Aug. 16 (AP).—British aerial bombardment and machine-gun fire on Italian troop concentrations and communications lines in Somaliland have slowed up the Fascist advance on Berbera, capital of the protectorate, the British reported today.

French crews, operating with the R. A. F., scouted the Italians in the Jugargan Pass area, the communique said, and machine-gunned their lorries.

The Italians were said to be meeting stiffer resistance from British forces, aided by native troops, and from constant bombing of columns attempting to advance from two directions.

One Italian column is using the coast road from Zeila to Berbera, and is aiming first at Burhar, 40 miles west of Berbera. The other is driving from the south through Jugargan Pass.

Today's British communique said Italian motor transports and troops were "successfully bombed and machine gunned."

A naval communique said one person was killed and four were injured last night in an air raid on the Alexandria area. A few raiding planes dropped some bombs, but material damage was negligible, the communique said.

Destruction of a number of flying boats in a raid on Bomba, Italian Libya, also was reported in the Royal Air Force communique.

"A petrol fire was started which ignited a flying boat jetty and also two flying boats," the communique said. "A flying boat petrol tanker exploded and continued to burn alongside the jetty. Two other flying boats in the harbor sank and a majority of the remainder were hit.

"All of our aircraft returned safely.

"In Italian East Africa raids were made on Macaaca, Jijiga and the Dessye district. Hits were registered on hangars at Macaaca and on airdrome buildings at Dessye.

"At Jijiga bombs fell on buildings, causing several fires, one of which was preceded by a loud explosion.

"One enemy aircraft was left burning on the ground.

French Scouting Pilots.

"Our aircraft continued to harass Italian operations in British Somaliland. Motor transports and troops were successfully bombed and machine-gunned on the Burhar-Zeila road, also on the Biyo Fogo-Zeila road and in the Tugarga area.

"French crews operating with the Royal Air Force carried out valuable reconnaissance flights in the Adadleh, Odweina and Hargeisa districts, during which lorries were machine-gunned."

"Air force and naval barracks at Massaua (Eritrea) were attacked by formations of bombers with considerable damage to buildings.

"On Aug. 13 a formation of enemy bombers attempted to attack Wajir (in Kenya), but was driven off before reaching its objective. On the same day an enemy fighter was shot down in British Somaliland and the pilot captured.

"A formation of enemy bombers, protected by a large force of fighters, raided Malta, but there was little damage."

British Admit They May Have to Fall Back on Berbera.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP). — The British military situation in Somaliland remains "rather critical" and the British forces now defending the heights around the town may be forced to fall back on Berbera, authoritative sources disclosed today.

These sources said that the defenders of Berbera were badly outnumbered, faced by two Italian divisions, but declared that "there must be limits to reinforcements sent to Somaliland, limits imposed by the general strategic situation."

The battle for Berbera was understood to be still in progress, with Italian columns advancing on the city, from the west and from the south. Yesterday it was admitted that British units in the south had been compelled to fall back and that Italian progress from the west had been "more rapid than had been expected."

Italians Report Raiding Malta, Kenya Airport, Egyptian Railroad.

ROME, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Italian high command announced today its attack on British positions in British Somaliland "still is in full development."

Summarizing aerial warfare in Africa and the Mediterranean, the Italians announced the official count on Italian and British planes lost since the two countries began war last June 11 now stands at 42 Italian, 250 British. Of the British planes, 127 are said to have been shot down and the rest destroyed on the ground.

Today's communique also announced that direct hits had been scored, fires caused and a British plane shot down when an Italian formation raided Halfar, the airport at the British base of Malta. Stefani, official Italian news agency, said this was a "counter-attack" for Britain's raid on the naval base at Augusta, Sicily, two nights ago.

This was taken by foreign observers to mean that despite almost continuous Italian bombing of Malta since Italy's entrance into the war, the British raid on Augusta had been directed from the Maltese air field.

The communique said:

"An enemy plane was shot down in flames over Zeila (British Somaliland).

"Two enemy air raids on Massaua (Eritrea) and a flying field at Colbolcia caused limited damage. There were four killed and 12 wounded among Italians and natives.

"During air action by our planes against Majer (Kenya colony) two enemy planes on the ground were destroyed. English pursuit planes were shot down in combat.

"In North Africa our planes bombed the railroad between Fuca and Mersa Matruh (Egypt)."

Strong Formation of Bombers and Fighters Raid Malta.

VALLETTA, Malta, Aug. 16 (AP).—Strong formations of enemy bombers escorted by fighter planes raided the island yesterday afternoon, injuring one civilian. No material damage was reported. One British defense plane plunged into the sea.

British Admit They May Have to Retreat to Berbera.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP). — The British military situation in Somaliland remains "rather critical" and the British forces now defending the heights around the town may be forced to fall back on Berbera, authoritative sources disclosed today.

Fleeing French Minister Accused Of Attempt to Seize Government

Morocco Story Says Mandel Called Self Premier and Wanted to Continue War From Africa.

VICHY, Aug. 16 (AP). — An attempt by Georges Mandel, Minister of Interior in the Reynaud Cabinet, to seize power shortly after France's capitulation last June and continue the war from Africa was reported yesterday in a Tangier (Africa) dispatch published in Le Temps.

Mandel now is fracing trial before a military court on the charge of plotting against the security of the state.

The Tangier dispatch alleged that when he arrived at Casablanca from France with former Premier Edouard Daladier and other ex-Ministers aboard the steamer Massilia late in June, he tried to convince military authorities in French Morocco that he had been placed at the head of a new government whose purpose was to continue the war.

After cabling to London an announcement of his arrival, Mandel, the dispatch said, went to the office of a French news agency and dictated an announcement that he had taken over the Government.

Detectives were sent to "take charge" of Mandel and they persuaded him to return to his steamer. Once he was aboard, the Massilia cruised up and down the coast, holding him prisoner.

The next day, Le Temps' article said, Lord Gort (former chief of the British Experitionary force) and Alfred Duff Cooper, Britain's Minister of Information, arrived from England and asked to see "Premier Mandel."

'VICTORY,' NELSON'S SHIP UNDAMAGED BY NAZI BOMBS

Vessel Shown Intact to Reporters to Disprove Statement in German Broadcast.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Aug. 16 (AP).—A naval officer conducted reporters over Lord Nelson's famous flagship Victory here yesterday to prove, despite German radio assertions, that the flag still blew at the mainmast and the ship was undamaged by air raiders.

A German radio broadcast today said the flag and its staff had been sent crashing by a bomb which fell near the old ship, now "ashore" as a memorial to Nelson and his sea victories, and that British sailors viewed this as an ill omen.

Plan Is to Exchange Present Acre Site for 13-Acre Tract and Erect Large Hanger.

The Naval Reserve aviation base at Lambert-St. Louis Airport will be expanded to provide facilities for training a larger number of student pilots, as the result of the approval by the Secretary of Navy yesterday of a $500,000 allocation for the purpose.

It is planned to give up the one-acre site which the unit now rents from the city and rent a 13-acre tract at the southeast corner of the airport, near Natural Bridge road. A large hangar with office spaces would be erected on the site, according to Lieut. James K. Averill, commanding officer. Plans are tentative, pending approval by the Board of Aldermen.

The Naval Reserve unit has been providing preliminary training for about nine students each month, with the best students going to Pensacola, Fla., to continue training. Beginning in January the number will be increased to 30 new students a month.

The reserve unit, which now has about 60 members, probably would be increased in size to take care of the additional students, Lieut. Averill said.

Roosevelt Bargaining For English Defense Bases

The President stressed several times that he was not discussing destroyers. He added that he could not discuss details. He said with great emphasis that what he was trying to do was to acquire American bases and that was all.

After he had made his significant announcement, a reporter protested that yesterday the White House, through Stephen Early, press secretary, had answered reports of a British-American trade of destroyers for air bases with a statement that this was "just another one." Roosevelt turned this aside with a grin, saying that it was probably because of the way in which the reporter had written his story or phrased his question.

Major Concession Obvious.

On the question of what he could offer to the British in return for the concessions which he seemed confident they would make, the President refused to be pressed. Obviously it would call for some major concession on the part of the United States.

Informed opinion here, in spite of Roosevelt's denial that the negotiations for the naval bases had no relation to the destroyers, inclined to the view that eventually the vessels would go to Britain in return for the conceded bases. It is obviously the President's strategy to stress the dire need for bases in the Caribbean.

Yesterday the President conferred at noon with Senator Josh Lee (Dem.), Oklahoma, and immediately afterward Lee took the Senate floor to assert that the President had the power to transfer the destroyers without the consent of Congress. Lee quoted at length from an opinion prepared by four prominent Washington and New York attorneys saying that the President did possess such powers.

At his conference today, Roosevelt was asked about this legal opinion which was printed in full in the letters column of the New York Times. He said he had seen it but had not read it. He also said that he had received no opinion from the Attorney-General with respect to his powers to transfer the vessels in question.

The President prefaced his remarks by saying that he knew he would be asked about the destroyer deal, so he would speak up first with his announcement of the negotiations for the bases which, he stressed at the outset, had nothing to do with destroyers. No assumptions to the contrary would be "safe," he said.

He seemed in excellent spirits as he told reporters that each of his announcements should be a separate and unrelated story. Pressed for details, he stressed the importance of the announcement about the naval and air bases that he had just made.

Air Officer in England.

At the beginning of the conference Roosevelt said that Major-General Delos C. Emmons, commanding officer of the General Headquarters Air Force, was in England as an observer for the United States, as was also Brigadier-General George B. Strong, assistant chief of staff. When a reporter asked if this was related to the later announcement of negotiations for bases, the President quickly stressed that it was also a separate and unrelated story.

Negotiations Said to Center on the Windward Islands.

By the Associated Press.

Negotiations for bases to protect the Panama Canal were reported in one quarter to center on the Windward Islands in the southern entrance to the Caribbean Sea.

In this area are the British island of Barbados, strategically located in the southern mouth of the Caribbean, and British Trinidad, just off the coast of Venezuela.

This is the chief unguarded passage into the Caribbean from the Atlantic, since United States naval bases at Guantanamo, Cuba and Puerto Rico provide protection at the northern entrance.

Barbados is about 1500 miles east of the Panama Canal and is about midway between French Martinique, where an American naval observer is to be sent, and the South American coast line.

Martinique and other French possessions in the Windward Island group are subject to possible seizure by the United States or other American nations under the Act of Havana in event of threats to hemisphere security.

It was reported that the Canadian negotiations might involve Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, which jut out into the Atlantic northeast of New England. Also possibly involved was territory on the Pacific coast between the United States mainland and Alaska.

Reporters seeking information at the State and Treasury departments on whether reductions might be made in Britain's big war debt to the United States as payment for lease of naval and air bases could get no official comment. There were unofficial comments that such a move might be contemplated.

London Says Matter of Bases and Destroyers Cannot Be Linked.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP).—American proposals for leasing air bases on British West Indian islands may be under discussion and will certainly be received "with interest and sympathy," a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

The spokesman emphasizes that such proposals could not be linked with British proposals that Britain be permitted to purchase over-age American destroyers.

Canadian Prime Minister Also Announces Conversations.

OTTAWA, Aug. 16 (AP).—Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King, in a statement similar to that made in Washington by President Roosevelt, said that conversations are in progress between the United States and Canadian governments looking toward defense of the American hemisphere.

MORE THAN 20 HURT IN CLASH OF POLICE AND UNION PICKETS

BAY CITY, Mich., Aug. 16 (AP).—More than 20 persons suffered slight injuries today in clashes between police and union pickets at the Industrial Brownhoist Corporation plant here, where members of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee (CIO) are on strike.

Two policemen, two pickets and a 15-year-old bystander were treated at a hospital. The bystander, Billy Shaw, 15 years old, was hit in the face by bits of a tear gas shell. Thirty policemen used gas bombs to disperse a crowd of about 500 near the plant gates. Nine persons were arrested.

Union men said police clubbed the strikers without provocation. Police Capt. Philip Pelkey said pickets shoved police into the path of cars in which non-strikers tried to enter the plant, and that fighting started when officers attempted to make arrests.

day's night raids caused "much damage."

One pilot who was said to have dropped bombs last night through the glass roof of the Fiat factory reported that "fires followed the explosions."

After the attack at Genoa, one pilot reported, "the blast furnace was much more blasted when we left."

TWO KILLED, 5 HURT IN RAIDS ON ITALY

ROME, Aug. 16 (AP).—British planes flying across Switzerland bombed cities in northern Italy for the second time in three days today, authorities reporting one plane was shot down over Turin and that some of the crew of five were killed and the others captured.

Two persons were reported killed and five injured by bombs in rural districts, with only slight damage reported.

In Wednesday's raids on Milan, Turin, Tortona and Allesandria 22 persons were reported killed and more than 50 injured. The British in those operations dropped leaflets as well as bombs.

The daily communique said: "In the early hours of this morning a new air raid coming from Switzerland was carried out by the enemy on localities in northern Italy with the dropping of bombs, some of which, falling on the rural communes of Merate and Olgiate, caused two deaths, injuries to five and slight material damage.

"An enemy plane was hit by anti-aircraft batteries of Turin and fell near Ceresole d'Alba. Part of the crew of five men was killed and part captured."

Swiss to Protest to London Against Bombers Flying Over.

BERN, Aug. 16 (AP). — The Swiss Government ordered its Minister in London today to protest against violation of Swiss territory Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, when more than 30 warplanes crossed and recrossed Switzerland.

The planes first flew over Switzerland southward and then crossed the country again on a return at a time when British planes admittedly were bombing industrial centers in Northern Italy.

Switzerland is on a direct line from London to the bombed Italian regions.

Last night and early today more bombing planes took the same route, and air raid alarms were sounded in Basel and Bern.

Roosevelt Reported Ready For Transfer of Destroyers

phatically that the navy's policy was to oppose transfer of any material which would require more than six months to a year to replace. Approximately two years are required for construction of a destroyer.

Fisher and Compton told of a discussion with the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Harold R. Stark, at which it was decided that the navy's policy would be to oppose transfer of any vessels. Fisher said in response to questions from Walsh that the then Secretary of the Navy, Charles Edison, was not in favor of disposing of any vessels for two years "under any conditions." Compton said they had "tried to adopt the policy" of not releasing anything that was not "actually in surplus."

Statement in Opposition.

Compton told of a meeting called by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau at which he, Compton, had stated in general terms that the navy would "advise against and resist making anything available that could not be reproduced in six months' or a year's time." This meeting occurred two or three days before Compton's testimony before the Senate Committee.

In response to a question by Chairman Walsh, the Assistant Secretary said that no formal request had been made of the Navy Department for an opinion on the transfer of the destroyers. Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois put this question to Compton:

"Did anyone in the co-ordinating department of the Navy Department discuss with you the question of the disposition of the destroyers?"

"As soon as we heard the rumor," Compton replied, "naturally Admiral Stark and myself discussed the situation and determined it would be inadvisable if we were asked to do it. If we were asked to do it, our answer would be 'no,' we would dtefinitely recommend against it. The fact of the matter is we tried to adopt the policy down there of not releasing anything that has not been approved as actually in surplus or anything that cannot be reproduced within a reasonable length of time. I mean within six months or a year's time."

The testimony about the destroyers came out more or less incidental to testimony about transfer of the fleet of motor torpedo boats. On the previous day Fisher had spoken of the "rumor" of the transfer of 18 destroyers to which the navy was opposed. He made no mention of the motor torpedo boats at that time, but when he returned the following day he explained that he had discussed the whole question with Compton and they had agreed that the facts about the motor torpedo boats should also be given to the committee.

Compton testified that the question of transfer of the motor torpedo boats had also come up at the meeting called by Morgenthau where, presumably, President Roosevelt's intention to transfer these so-called mosquito boats had been made known to the navy official. Compton told the Senators he had not opposed this action because the torpedo boats were "reproducable—in a reasonable time."

Walsh rebuked Compton for not having disclosed to the committee earlier the transfer of the torpedo fleet. The order of transfer was subsequently rescinded by President Roosevelt. Walsh expressed indignation also that Fisher or Compton had not previously disclosed the transfer of navy planes and powder from navy stores.

In effect, he said to Compton that it appeared that navy officials were perfectly willing to tell the committee what they were not doing—that is refusing to transfer the destroyers—but that they had failed to tell the committee what they were doing.

Walsh is strongly opposed to the transfer of any navy vessels or material. On Tuesday he made a vigorous radio speech opposing the proposed action on the ground that it would involve us in the war in Europe. He said also that transfer of the 50 destroyers would "reduce our ability to keep approximately 7000 enlisted men and 350 officers on training duty."

Admiral William H. Standley, retired) Chief of Naval Operations from 1933 to 1937, has spoken in favor of the transfer, as has Gen. Pershing. Naval officers on active duty are, as a rule, extremely reluctant to express any other than an official view, as received from the commander-in-chief, on controversial issues.

initely indicated the Japanese would be unwilling to accept any arrangement except their own demand that the entire British area be handed over to Japanese control.

He said another meeting of the Defense Committee would be called at an unspecified time to consider additional "final proposals" and that in the meantime the Japanese would consider yesterday's committee agreement "only tentative and not final."

The spokesman said:

"In view of the actual situation in this area, Japanese authorities have demanded as a matter of course that the defense sector evacuated by the British be transferred to Japanese forces . . . No arrangement without consent of Japanese authorities will be practical . . . any arrangement to which the Japanese commander objects will not be approved by the Japanese Government."

"In view of the fact the International Settlement is used as a base of operations by Chinese terrorists," he added, "the Japanese hope to take over defense of the entire settlement."

The Defense Committee decision was welcomed in other foreign circles, and the Chinese dollar, which had been reflecting uneasiness, rallied immediately.

Chief surprise of the Defense Committee proposal was allotment of West Hongkew to the United States Marines. It would be the first time the marines would extend their control north of Soochow Creek, in a district which it had been expected would be handed to the Japanese.

Allotment to the Japanese of the extra-settlement Western district, on the other hand, would place under Japanese military occupation a residential district in which are many of Shanghai's finest homes. It also would confront the Japanese with the task of cleaning up the notorious "bad lands."

The Defense Committee's decision was not announced until today.

The outcome of the voting was interpreted by some as a blow to Japanese-Italian friendship. The Italians could have brought about a deadlock by siding with the Japanese.

Siam to Send Military Mission to Tokyo Next Week.

HONGKONG, Aug. 16 (AP). — Chinese reports that Japan is seeking special rights in Thailand (Siam), including air, land and naval bases, were revived today by the projected departure next week for Tokyo of a Thailand military mission.

These reports said that among the things Japan sought were the use of Thailand's railways, a mutual assistance pact and close economic and military collaboration.

U. S. Marines to Replace British in Tientsin, Japanese Report.

TOKYO, Aug. 16 (AP via Radio). —Domei (Japanese news agency) broadcast today a report that United States marines on Aug. 18 would take over "the rights and duties" of the British garrison in Tientsin, North China. The British are to leave that day.

(The United States maintains two companies of marines at Tientsin.)

HEARING ORDERED ON BARRING OF FILLING STATION IN COUNTY

The St. Louis County Court was restrained from taking any further action on its injunction to prevent the erection of a filling station at Spoede and Ladue roads, under a temporary order issued by Circuit Judge Peter T. Barrett at Clayton yesterday. The County Court was ordered to show cause next Friday why a temporary writ of prohibition, requested by the owner of the property, Joseph H. Roth, should not be issued.

The court's action in granting the injunction last Saturday. Roth alleges in his petition, was without authority of law. Members of the County Court, who granted an injunction without a petition having been filed, said they had acted following complaints of residents of the vicinity.

Injunctions were also issued last Saturday halting the construction of another filling station and home for convalescent and crippled children at Lindbergh boulevard and Ladue road.

PAISH SEES PRESIDENT ON AID FOR BRITAIN

Economist Sure England Can Hold Out With 'Reasonable' Assistance From U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Sir George Paish, British economist, told President Roosevelt today he was convinced that Great Britain could hold out against German attacks if the United States gave "reasonable" assistance.

He told reporters after his talk with the President that he had come to this country to place his information at the disposal of the American people. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, head of Columbia University, had written both President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie, the Republican presidential candidate, asking them to see him.

He said there was no question of the United States' sending soldiers to Europe but that he was pretty sure Britain could hold out with "reasonable" assistance.

Asked how Britain could hold out against such mass attacks from the air as the Nazis have made in the last few days, Paish said:

"We're doing more damage to them than they are doing to us. England is prepared for air raids. They won't shake our morale; the people are determined to win."

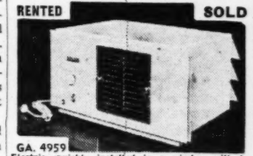

He said he had not discussed with President Roosevelt the proposal that this country sell 50 destroyers to Britain but he expressed the opinion that such destroyers would be enormously valuable to his country to convoy ships.

OLD FORT LARAMIE, WYOMING, DEDICATED AS U. S. MONUMENT

Important Army Post in Expansion of West Abandoned for 50 Years.

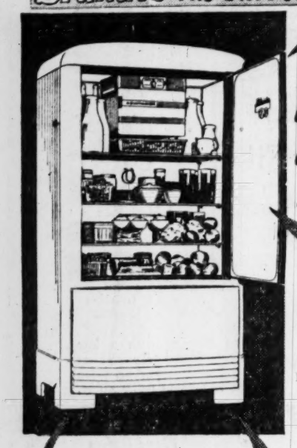

OLD FORT LARAMIE, Wyo., Aug. 16 (AP).—Once a vital army outpost of the wilderness but now only an historic landmark, old Fort Laramie was dedicated yesterday as a national monument marking the end of the heroic 236-mile horseback ride of John Portugee Phillips to bring warning of Indians on the warpath.

Fort Laramie was the army's major post in the territory crossed by the Oregon and Santa Fe trails. It was abandoned 50 years ago.

Robert Ellison of Tulsa, Ok., first president of Wyoming Historical Landmark Commission, said the fort was the most important post the Federal Government ever established west of the Mississippi River in the light of its ultimate effect on the settlement of the West.

"Portugee" Phillips rode here from Fort Phil Kearney in midwinter to bring news of Indian massacres and to warn of the impending danger. Phillips' horse dropped dead of exhaustion as the rider dismounted outside the fort.

GREEK WARSHIPS AIR-BOMBED, BUT ESCAPE DAMAGE

Commanders of Two Destroyers Reported to Have Declared Attackers Were Italian Aircraft.

ATHENS, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Greek destroyers Vasilevs Georgios I and Vasilissa Olga were attacked by planes today as they steamed toward the island of Tinos where the Greek cruiser Helle was torpedoed and sunk yesterday by an unidentified submarine.

A high authority said here tonight the commanders of the destroyers had reported by radio to the Navy Ministry that the attacking planes were Italian. The Government refrained from any comment, insisting the planes were of "unknown nationality."

The two destroyers, according to reports reaching Athens, escaped damage by zigzagging at full speed. They did not open fire on the planes. The ships, each a 1350-ton vessel, were scheduled to arrive at Piraeus, the port of Athens, tonight.

It also was reported that a Greek merchant ship identified as the Frin was bombed by "unknown" planes while lying in an unidentified Greek harbor.

The destroyers were en route to Tinos island to escort merchant ships returning thousands of pilgrims to their mainland homes. Many of these pilgrims, who had gone to the island to observe the feast of Our Lady yesterday and to bathe in the health-giving waters of a famous Greek shrine, were on the quay when the Helle was torpedoed. One was killed and several injured.

Greek-Italian Tension.

Diplomatic observers expressed belief that the secret attacks left Greece virtually with an undeclared war on its hands.

Partial mobilization of Greek reservists has been set for Tuesday, it was officially announced tonight. Military informants said the category called embraces anti-aircraft gunners and observers.

Officials earlier had declared the Government hesitated to take any defensive military measures because it felt that the Power which was secretly attacking Greek ships was seeking just such "provocation." The Government appeared to be alarmed by this situation and the growing strain on its relations with Italy.

(An Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, dispatch broadcast today from London and heard at New York said Italian troops were concentrating near the Greek border of Albania.)

Press Assails Torpedoing.

The Greek press unburdened itself—in limited fashion—by calling the torpedoing of the Helle a "disgraceful and cowardly blow at Greece," but no speculation was permitted as to the possible identity of the submarine. The death toll of the incident rose to five today.

All Greek merchant ships were under orders to remain in port as the Government sought to eliminate the possibility of further incidents.

The Government's investigation of the Helle's sinking continued and Premier-General John Metaxas held further conferences with his army and navy chieftains.

News that the Greek steamer Appeti had not been heard from for four days added to the tension over the relations with Italy, already strained last week end by Fascist charges growing out of the reported killing by Greeks of an Albanian nationalist. The last message from the Appeti said it had been stopped by an Italian warship and ordered into Palermo, Sicilian port. The ship was bound from Lisbon to Pireaus with many American citizens of Balkan origin among its 400 passengers.

ITALIANS ACCUSE BRITISH OF SINKING

ROME, Aug. 16 (AP).—Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, today accused the British Admiralty of sinking the Greek light cruiser Helle yesterday and calling it an attempt to precipitate a crisis between Italy and Greece.

Gayda, editor of Il Giornale d'Italia, denied British suggestions that an Italian submarine had torpedoed the Helle in Tinos Island harbor yesterday and declared it was evident this was "a new plot."

The sinking of the cruiser, he wrote, was "obviously a new blow struck by the British Admiralty which, in perfect agreement with the propaganda services, thought it could surely lay the responsibility on Italy, profiting from the present diplomatic phase of the Italian-Greek conflict with the obvious aim of provoking Greek reaction."

Other authoritative Italians also charged Britain with attempting to perpetrate a "second Athenia" case on the world in the sinking of the Helle. Throughout the war the Italian press has supported German contentions that the British liner Athenia, torpedoed with a loss of 113 lives on the first day of the war, was sunk by the British themselves to cast blame on the Germans.

Announcing that no Italian submarine was in the vicinity of Tinos Island, Greece, when the Helle was sunk, Italian authorities asserted none of their commanders had reported such an attack.

Fascists said there was no connection between the sinking of the Helle and the decapitation of Daut Hoggia, Albanian "patriot" near the Greek border, and that Italy would persist in its demands for "justice" for Albania and Albanians despite the newest British "maneuver."

TURKISH PREMIER SEES GREEK ENVOY

ISTANBUL, Aug. 16 (AP).—Premier Rafik Saydam conferred with the Greek Minister today and then held long conferences with army and navy leaders as Turkey took an increasingly serious view of the Italian-Greek situation.

The Turkish press hinted strongly that any open Italian move against Greece might see this country involved in fulfillment of the British-Turkish mutual assistance pact.

President Ismet Inonu of Turkey conferred with Franz von Papen, German Ambassador, apparently about Germany's attitude toward the mounting tension between Greece and Italy.

Diplomats recalled that Greece and Turkey signed a mutual assistance agreement in September, 1933.

Many newspapers asserted that Italy's accusations against Greece merely were a shield for an ambitious Italian program soon to be divulged. Deputy Husein Djahid Yaltchin, a widely read commentator, wrote that "any attack against Greece will have the consequence of British assistance and Turkish intervention."

NAZIS REPORTED USING 2500 PLANES IN RAIDS ON BRITAIN

said the trap was Britain's "latest hush-hush defense weapon" — a strict military secret, at least for the present.

German radio reports described the "weapon" as metal mesh nets fired into the air by big-throated cannon. They said it amounted to no more than a "plaything."

The British announced last night that on Wednesday night and early Thursday morning British bombers in an extensive attack on the channel coast of the German-held section of France destroyed large supplies of oil.

Some returning pilots were reported seeing the glow of oil fires nearly 200 miles away.

The hardest bombings were reported in the Gironde River estuary section, at Blaye near the Gironde, and at Ambes, where stored oil supplies, huge refineries and great tanks were ripped to pieces by direct hits.

The supplies and refineries hit were described by the Air Ministry as "among the most important in France," and doubtless used by the Germans to bolster their own fuel resources.

Crews of bombers who attacked at Blaye for an hour said they spotted 18 tanks and dive-bombed them all.

The first bombers on the scene plunged down to a height of only 300 feet before loosing their bombs. Later, apparently afer ground defense batteries got into action, bombs were dumped from 10,000 feet—nearly two miles above the targets.

The British flyers said the smoke pall from the ruin beneath them finally became so thick they could hardly find their objectives.

British Air Raid Warning Heard In U. S., London Briefly Off the Air

No Bombs Fell in City, Broadcaster Says—German Radio Asserts England Is Using Entire First-Line Force of Planes.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—In a National Broadcasting Co. broadcast from London at 3 p. m. today (2 p. m. St. Louis time) John McVane, the broadcaster, said no bombs had fallen in London.

(It was not clear whether the broadcaster referred to the center of the city or to the entire London area. Germans have announced bombing east, north and west sections of London.)

England is "employing her entire (first line) air force of 3000 planes to stave off German bombers and fighters," a German broadcast, heard here said.

The London Broadcasting Station GSV went off the air at 11:11 a. m. today (10:11 St. Louis time), NBC reported, after the NBC listener heard air raid alarm sirens in the background of the program then being broadcast.

After several minutes of silence the London station came back on the air and continued its news broadcast.

Broadcasts heard shortly before 6:30 a. m. today (5:30, St. Louis time), indicated an air raid alarm was in progress in London at that time also, but censorship prevented telegraphing any details.

At 6:21 a. m. (5:21 St. Louis time) in the middle of the B. B. C. overseas French news bulletin, Station GSP suddenly stopped its transmission, NBC said, but the announcer concluded the news broadcast six minutes later, excusing himself for the interruption.

MISSOURI HAS MANGANESE DEPOSITS, SENATE IS TOLD

Ashurst Protests Against Importing the Metal, Says U. S. Supply Is Abundant.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Manganese deposits, used in manufacturing of pig iron, is found in abundance in the United States and it is unnecessary to import the metal for national defense purposes, according to Senator Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona. He cited two Missouri counties as having rich deposits.

Ashurst protested in the Senate against expenditure of any United States funds to build railroads in Brazil to reach manganese deposits there and to import foreign manganese.

"For many years I have pointed out there are abundant deposits of manganese in the United States," he said. "Powerful interests have for years opposed the levying of a protective tariff on manganese because these interests preferred to obtain manganese from Brazil or other foreign lands."

In a statement showing areas in which manganese deposits are available, he listed Pilot Knob and Arcadia in Iron County, Missouri, and Cornwall in Madison County.

Deposits also are found, he said, in Oklahoma in Johnston and McCurtain counties, and in Independence, Polk and Pike counties, Arkansas.

WITNESS IN RACING SERVICE INQUIRY ORDERED TO TESTIFY

J. J. Fogarty Faces Contempt Citation If He Fails to Answer Questions at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP).—John J. Fogarty of New Orleans, former manager of the Nationwide News Service, was ordered by United States District Judge William H. Holly today to give testimony before the grand jury or be cited for contempt of court.

Fogarty and two others were named in a presentment as contumacious witnesses after, it was alleged, they refused two weeks ago to answer questions before the grand jury. Subsequently the others agreed to talk.

The court directed Fogarty to tell the jurors what proportion of scratch sheets were sold on newsstands as compared with those sold direct by bookmakers, and to make known what were the regular fees paid him by two New Orleans newspapers for his horse racing service.

NELSON ROCKEFELLER GETS '$1 A YEAR' JOB

Roosevelt Makes Him Coordinator of Relations Among American Republics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—President Roosevelt today appointed Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, son of John D. Rockefeller Jr., to the newly created position of Co-Ordinator of Commercial and Cultural Relations Among the American Republics.

Stephen Early, the President's press secretary, told reporters that Rockefeller would be "another $1 a year man."

In his new position he will work for the Council of National Defense.

Early said that Rockefeller was resigning as director and officer of enterprises with which he had been associated in South America and that he had obtained a leave of absence from Rockefeller Center, Inc., in order to devote his full time to his new duties.

PRESSES, WIRELESS, ARMS ARE FOUND IN RAID IN DUBLIN

PICKETS HOLD 'BOOK DAY' FOR INSURANCE FIRM AGENTS

19 Employes of John Hancock Mutual Life Reported in Bad Standing.

About 75 pickets representing various AFL unions surrounded the Spivey Building at 417 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, this morning and intercepted employes of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. who are not members in good standing in Local 21,571 of Industrial-Ordinary Insurance Agents' Union.

Union officials said that when the local was formed 18 months ago 38 of the 39 company agents joined, but memberships have since lapsed until there are now but 19 in good standing. It was decided to have a "book day."

After six of the inactive members were prevented from going to their offices on the eleventh floor, those who arrived later made no effort to enter the building and stood around on the sidewalks.

500 CHINESE DEAD REPORTED IN RAIDS ON TWO CENTERS

Belated Accounts Tell of Toll in Szechwan Cities — 90 Japanese Planes Bomb Henyang.

HONGKONG, Aug. 16 (AP).—Japanese naval bombers ranged in full force over widespread areas of China today, subjecting Henyang, industrial, military and railroad center 270 miles north of Canton, to what a Japanese communique said was one of the war's severest aerial attacks.

Other Japanese planes pounded Chinese bases in the Yangtze Valley, near the Southern coast and in the Far Western province of Szechwan.

The Japanese said 90 planes blasted munitions depots, wrecked loaded railroad trains and strafed junks at Henyang, a supply center for the South China armies.

Belated reports reaching Chungking said 500 persons were killed Monday when Japanese planes raided Chiang Kai-shek's Western Szechwan bases at Lushien and Tseliutsing.

Japanese said their navy planes bombed the Kwangtung coast a hundred miles southwest of Hongkong, enabling Japanese marines to land to plug a minor gap in the coastal blockade.

"DEATH SENTENCE" DINNER BY 60 MERRY FRENCH FIGHTERS

Group in London Had Been Given Till Last Midnight to Return to France.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Sixty French soldiers, sailors and airmen made merry at a "death sentence" dinner here last night at which Vice-Admiral Emile Musilier, Chief of the French naval forces fighting with Britain, was the principal guest.

The Vichy Government had given them until midnight to return to France before being indicted for treason.

Admiral Musilier said the "free Frenchmen" all "had full confidence that the British Empire would conquer."

SCHOOLS MOVE TO PROVIDE TRAINED DEFENSE WORKERS

Ask Manufacturers to Furnish Lists of Employes Needing Special Instruction.

A further step in the Board of Education program to train workers required by the preparedness program was taken recently when about 100 St. Louis manufacturers likely to receive defense contracts were asked to furnish the board lists of employes needing special technical training. The invitation was made in a letter from F. J. Jeffrey, assistant superintendent.

When replies from manufacturers are received, a series of night classes will be arranged at Hadley Vocational School to meet the needs of the workers enrolled. Cost of the program will be met by allotments from the $15,000,000 preparedness training appropriation made by Congress in June.

About 280 men are already attending classes at the vocational school to acquire or improve skills required by defense industries. About half of these are unemployed. An advisory committee of 10, composed of representatives of employers and labor, assists in the direction of the program.

DINNER PARTY FOR WINDSORS AFTER THEY REACH BAHAMAS

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 16 (AP).—An exclusive dinner party the night of their arrival will give the Duke and Duchess of Windsor their first taste of Bahamian hospitality.

A few hours after he takes an oath as Governor to "well and truly serve" his King-brother, the Duke is to escort his wife to the fashionable Emerald Beach Club, where they will be guests of the colony's highest ranking officials and their wives.

The Duke and Duchess sailed from Bermuda yesterday, but the name of the steamer they boarded and the time of their arrival are secrets because of possible danger in the Atlantic Ocean from German raiders.

Present at the dinner, in addition to Edward and his wife, will be members of the executive council—equivalent to a cabinet, the Chief Justice, the Speaker of the Assembly and their ladies.

TALKS ON DEFENSE PLANTS IN MID-WEST 'SATISFACTORY'

Congressmen From Nine States Confer With Commission Officials.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Nine House members representing as many states held what they described as "eminently satisfactory" conferences today with National Defense Commission officials regarding the expansion of the defense program into the Midwest.

The group, chosen yesterday as an Executive Committee by 63 Congressmen from the nine states, met with William S. Knudsen, Chester C. Davis and Donald M. Nelson of the defense commission. States represented were Missouri, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

BRITISH SHIPS DRIVEN FROM FRENCH COAST

Patrol Vessels Hit by Anti-Aircraft Fire Across From Dover, Nazis Say.

BERLIN, Aug. 16 (AP).—British patrol vessels were driven away from the French coast at Cap Griz Nez, directly across from Dover, by German anti-aircraft artillery last night, DNB, official German news agency, said today.

The agency said several hits were scored by the Germans, causing fires on the vessels. The ships, it continued, disappeared in a northwesterly direction.

Authoritative sources said anti-aircraft batteries of all calibers as well as searchlights are stationed along the entire coast occupied by the Germans as far south as Biarritz.

These batteries were established, it was explained, to defend ports and cities and to fight ships which might approach close to the shore.

East Side Police Executive Quits.

Leroy Mallett, chief of the juvenile division of the East St. Louis Police Department since February, 1939, has resigned his position, effective Sept. 1. Mallett will then take over a job as District Supervisor for Delinquency, a State position, with headquarters at Macomb, Ill.

BOOKSELLER FAILS TO GET INJUNCTION AGAINST POLICE

Testifies He Was Threatened With Arrest for Planning to Sell Handwriting Analysis Books.

An injunction sought by John More to prevent police from interfering with the operation of a book store at 319 North Grand boulevard, was refused yesterday by Circuit Judge Joseph J. Ward.

More testified police had threatened to arrest him if the store was opened, although, he said, handwriting character analysis, the type of books he meant to sell, was not covered in the city ordinance prohibiting fortune telling, mind reading, and other occult practices. Police Capt. Bernard Heggeman of the Ninth District testified that More would not be molested unless he violated city ordinances.

GREENVILLE (ILL.) CITIZENS DEMAND NEW PROSECUTOR

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

GREENVILLE, Ill., Aug. 16. — Five members of the Christian Citizens' League of Bond County returned yesterday from Springfield, where they presented to Attorney-General John E. Cassidy a request for the appointment of a special prosecutor to replace Stanford S. Meyer, State's Attorney of Bond County, whom the league accuses of failure to perform his duties and malfeasance. The charges against Meyer are based on his alleged refusal to take action against tavern keepers named in a civil suit as having sold liquor to minors, against gambling houses in Greenville and against the management of a local motion picture theater which conducts "bank nights."

The committee reported that the Attorney-General promised to make an investigation.

Greenville is dry, but taverns are licensed in the county. One of these, on Highway 127 south of town, is named the Dutch Mill, but is usually spoken of as Fricker's place, a reference to Victor Fricker, its reputed owner, although its license has been issued in the names of other persons.

Charges Filed in June.

Unverified complaints of sales to minors culminated June 25 in the filing in the Bond County Circuit Court here of a damage suit based on such an alleged sale. John Cornish Sr. and his wife, Ethel, and their son, John Jr., sued for recovery of $154 expenses, claimed to have been incurred by reason of the latter's acts while intoxicated, and for $5000 damages. Defendants named were Wilmar Welchlen, in whose name the Dutch Mill license was issued; Victor and Elsie Fricker and Oresto Biantoni. The petition alleged that on April 6 Fricker sold John Cornish Jr. beer and gin and that later on the same date Biantoni sold him liquor at the Moonlight Y, another tavern, which so affected the young man that he went to Hillsboro and caused damage for which his father had to pay $154.

The Christian Citizens' League, organized three years ago, has as one of its major aims law enforcement in Bond County. Members of all the churches in the county are counted as members of the league. It functions through an executive committee composed of the minister and two laymen of each church. The committee met after the filing of the civil suit and the Rev. Clyde Todd of the Methodist Church and the Rev. R. Shepley of the Baptist Church were designated to call on the State's Attorney. They demanded that Meyer, availing himself of the information in the civil suit, take steps against the tavern, and that he also stop gambling and bank nights.

Basis of Refusal.

Meyer refused on the ground that the allegations in the civil suit did not constitute evidence in a criminal case. Besides, he said he didn't believe Fricker was guilty.

The two reported at a meeting at the Baptist Church and a committee composed of Edward Bettis, C. W. Holcomb and E. E. Andrews was named to ascertain what steps the organization could take. The committee reported at a general meeting at the Presbyterian Church recommending that the Attorney-General be asked to send a special prosecutor to inquire into alleged malfeasance in the office of the State's Attorney. Meyer and Sheriff C. L. McCracken were at the meeting. So were Victor Fricker and several persons reputedly interested in taverns and gambling. Meyer demanded in a speech that the charges of malfeasance be made specific. The president of the league, the Rev. C. D. Loehr, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, was authorized to appoint a committee to call on the Attorney-General. He later named the Rev. Clyde Todd, Marion Files and E. E. Andrews.

Brick Hurled Through Window.

The night after the meeting a brick was hurled through a window of the Presbyterian manse and another against the windshield of Andrews' automobile standing in front of his home.

The night after that Meyer is reported to have called on Jack Latzer, manager of the Greenville plant of the Pet Milk Co., where Bettis is employed as a chemist, and discussed Bettis' activities with the league. Bettis said he later went on request, to Meyer's office where the three talked. Bettis said that Meyer hinted at libel actions and the possible loss of his job and harassment of the company. Latzer, although granting Bettis full freedom of action, suggested that he dissociate himself from the league's action. Bettis agreed, saying that he felt that his work as chairman of the committee was finished anyway. The following statement, typed on a letterhead of Meyer's office, was signed by Bettis and addressed to the league:

"Being convinced the action of this league on the night of Aug. 5, 1940, was wrong, I therefore request that the record of said meeting show that I hereby withdraw my name from the resolution adopted and that said record further show that I change my vote and register said vote against said resolution as I see no reason for a special prosecutor to be requested at this time."

Bettis has protested since that the statement did not represent his sentiments.

The charge of malfeasance against Meyer is based on his action in collecting fines and costs from four youths without a court trial. On June 16, Carl Baumgardner, Albert Oldfield, Clarence Purtilar and Clifford Henager of Vandalia, after visiting taverns, came to Greenville after midnight and drove noisily up and down Stephens street without a muffler on their car. Deputy Sheriff Jake Heckmann stopped them and called Policeman Ed Donaldson, who arrested the boys and locked them up. The next morning, which was Sunday, the mothers of the four arrived and the boys were taken to Meyer's office. They have said that Meyer, in the presence of Sheriff McCracken, asked them how much money they had. The boys and their mothers counted their money and found they had $42.20.

Meyer is alleged to have told them the amount was $3.40 short of what it would cost them, on the basis of a fine of $3 and costs for each, the costs consisting of $5 for the State's Attorney, $2 for the Justice of the Peace and $1.40 for the warrant. No justice of the peace was present and no warrant was drawn.

Meyer is alleged to have accepted the $42.20, on the promise that the $3.40 would be sent to the Sheriff, and released the boys.

When members of the league heard reports of the affair, Todd and the Rev. Mr. Shepley went to see Meyer. They said Meyer told them that it was nothing to complain about; that he had made such arrangements before, and termed the whole thing insignificant and childish.

Under the law, fines and costs collected are required to be reported by the State's Attorney to the County Treasurer and the money turned over to him. Meyer said recently he had the money and would turn it in to the Treasurer.

Ready to Act on Complaint.

Replying to other charges, Meyer said that if there was a gambling house across the street from the courthouse he did not know it. He had never been in the place, he said, adding that if anybody would sign a complaint against the place he would proceed against it. Regarding the alleged sale of intoxicants to minors, he said that if evidence in the civil case justified it, he would take action. As to the bank night at the theater, he said he understood that the theater people had an opinion from their attorneys that the way they were operating was legal. On April 29 he filed a complaint against the Frisina Amusement Co. and a warrant was issued, but in June the case was dismissed by his order.

Meyer termed the whole affair a political effort to "smear" his character. He has been State's Attorney for four years and is a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket.

POLAND TO BE GERMAN FOREVER, NAZI SAYS

Unannexed Area Considered Part of Greater Reich, Governor Announces.

BERLIN, Aug. 16 (AP).—Hans Frank, German governor-general for occupied Poland, told a Nazi mass meeting today in Krakow that "we are in this land and as Germans we will never again leave it."

"The swastika will fly over this land forever," Frank said in his speech, which was carried by radio to 30,000 Nazi party members active in Poland.

Referring to a decision that the "government-general"—that part of German-occupied Poland not formally annexed by the Reich—in the future would no longer be treaded as an occupied area—that is, foreign territory—but as a part of Greater Germany, Frank said the Polish people again, as they were 700 years ago, are under the protectorship of the German nation.

Whether this meant that this part of Poland now is raised to the status of a protectorate similar to Bohemia and Moravia was not made clear.

Congressman Says He Understands Leavenworth is to Get Contract for 300,000 Pairs.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Representative Flaherty (Dem.), Massachusetts, protested to Secretary of War Stimson yesterday against award of army shoe contracts to Leavenworth prison, saying "a shoe worker should not be forced to commit a crime to get work at his trade."

Flaherty demanded in a letter that army shoe contracts be awarded to private shoe manufacturers. He said that 45,000 shoe workers were unemployed or working only part time, including 1500 in and around Boston.

He said he had learned the army Quartermaster was about to award a contract for 300,000 pairs of shoes to Leavenworth in addition to a contract for 120,000 pairs already awarded on behalf of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

BILL FOR CALLING MILITIAMEN NEARS FINAL APPROVAL

Senate Concurrence in Minor Changes and Signing of Measure by President Only Steps Left.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Overwhelming House approval of the National Guard mobilization bill all but cleared the way today for the calling of an estimated 396,000 men to the colors for a year's active service.

The passage of the measure by a 242-to-33 vote late yesterday left progressive mobilization of the guard and reservists only two steps short of actuality—the Senate must first concur in some minor changes in the legislation it previously approved, and then President Roosevelt must sign it into law.

The army meanwhile marked time, with plans ready to call up the first contingent of 55,000 guardsmen Sept. 15, and reports from war-game areas where the militia is now training said the weeding out of physically unfit already was under way in the units to be summoned first.

Militia Bill Changes Lose.

House approval of the bill empowering the President to mobilize the National Guard came after a turbulent session which saw a series of modifying amendments decisively rejected. The major restriction defeated was a proposal to limit service of mobilized men to the continental United States, instead of permitting their use in the country's territories and possessions, and in the Western hemisphere.

The final roll call found 215 Democrats, 124 Republicans, two Progressives and one Farm-Laborite voting for passage, and five Democrats, 27 Republicans and one American-Laborite against. The Senate vote last week was 71 to 7.

The Missouri members of the House all voted for the bill. They are: Anderson, Bell, Cannon, Cochran, Duncan, Hennings Nelson, Romjue, Shannon, Williams, Wood and Zimmerman, all Democrats, and Short, Republican.

In the Illinois group, 17 voted for and five against the bill:

Democrats for—Barnes, Beam, Fries, Keller, Kelly, Kocialkowski, McAndrews, McKeough, Maciejewski, Martin, Mitchell and Schuetz.

Republicans for—Arends, Church, Dirksen, Reed and Sumner.

House Changes Minor.

Leaders regarded House changes in the bill of such minor character that there would be no difficulty in obtaining Senate concurrence. With the Senate in recess for the week end, however, action was delayed.

Army officials said the men covered by the legislation were: 227,000 National Guardsmen; 116,000 reserve officers; 38,000 enlisted reserves; 3700 retired officers and 12,000 retired enlisted men.

While the House disposed of the guard bill, the Senate yesterday continued its debate on the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill. After the session Senator Burke (Dem.), Nebraska, said he was not willing to accept the amendment of Senator Maloney (Dem.), Connecticut who proposes to defer the draft until Jan. 1. Burke said the country could not afford even that delay.

Other Defense Activity.

Other defense developments of the day included:

The army gave the Chrysler Corporation a contract to build a $20,000,000 tank arsenal at Detroit and placed an initial $33,500,000 order for 1000 medium tanks of 25 tons or more.

The plant is expected to start mass production in 13 months. Delivery dates on the order were not announced. The Chrysler Corporation contracted to procure the site, build and equip the plant on a cost-plus-fixed-fee basis. The corporation then will lease it from the Government, during an undisclosed period of the contract, for a nominal $1 a year. It will build tanks at a fixed price in accordance with army designs.

The army also completed arrangements for a $250,000 advertising campaign to accelerate its drive for voluntary enlistments.

U. S. Power Board to Look Into Effect of Seller's Affiliations on Cost of Fuel.

The Federal Power Commission will hold a public hearing Oct. 7 relating to the ownership and affiliations of the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation, which sells Louisiana natural gas to the Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis.

In its order for the hearing, issued in Washington yesterday, the Power Commission stated that corporations holding the voting stock of the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation were: United Gas Corporation, 46.65 per cent; Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, 22.39 per cent; Columbian Carbon Co., 17.02 per cent, and United Carbon Co., 13.43 per cent.

The commission said the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation bought natural gas from the United Gas Pipe Line Corporation, controlled by the United Gas Corporation; from the Southern Carbon Co., controlled by the Columbia Carbon Co.; from the Interstate Natural Gas Co., Inc., 53.97 per cent of the voting stock of which is held by Standard Oil; and from the Hope Producing Co., controlled by Standard Oil. Contracts between these concerns and the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation are "identical in terms, conditions, rates and charges," the commission found.

A petition for an inquiry into the gas prices of the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation was filed with the Power Commission last March by L. Wade Childress, president of the Laclede Gas Light Co. He said that an increased rate for natural gas, which the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation sought to charge the Laclede Co., was unjust and unreasonable. The natural gas is mixed by Laclede with manufactured gas for sale to consumers.

A hearing on the proposed rate increase was held May 20, and the Power Commission June 5 ruled against the proposed increase in price. In the hearing set for Oct. 7, the effect of the Mississippi River Corporation's affiliations on the cost of gas will be examined.

MECHANIC PUTS OUT CLIPPER PLANE FIRE WITH HIS HANDS

Credited With Averting Disastrous Fire—British Flying Boat Nearby.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—A quick-thinking mechanic who smothered with his hands a blaze that threatened to destroy the Yankee Clipper and the British flying boat Clare was the hero of La Guarrdia Field today.

Richard E. Ditty, 32 years old, leaped to the port sea wing of the clipper and placed his hands over a ventilation aperture from which flames spouted shortly after midnight as a crew was making routine repairs of the ship following its arrival yesterday from Lisbon.

He stifled the blaze so thoroughly that the aluminum paint on the wing was unscorched.

The blaze was attributed to a spark of undetermined origin which ignited fumes from gasoline tanks in the wing of the plane.

A few yards from the Clipper was the Clare which also arrived yesterday, a small plane used by Pan-American as a training ship and an 18-passenger flying boat. The hangar also houses motor and plane supplies.

Thomas Reid, night superintendent at the hangar, said there was no evidence of sabotage.

He credited Ditty with averting a disastrous fire. Ditty was taken to a hospital with burns on his hands, face and neck. Another mechanic suffered superficial burns of the face.

LARGEST NEWSPRINT STOCK ON HAND IN U. S. SINCE '38

Supply of Publishers Built Up This Year to 363,288 Tons on Hand or in Transit.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—United States newspaper publishers had larger stocks of newsprint on hand at the end of July than at any time since April, 1938, figures released today by the American Newspaper Publishers' Association indicate.

Stocks have been steadily built up this year and totaled 363,288 tons on hand or in transit, an increase of 58,286 tons during July and a gain of 66,940 tons over the total of a year ago.

In April, 1938, publishers started of liquidate tremendous stocks of newsprint built up during 1937 in anticipation of the $7.50 a ton price increase which became effective Jan. 1, 1938.

SWEDISH STEAMER HIT OFF NORTH IRISH COAST

S S S Message Indicates Submarine Attack—Loss of British Freighter Reported.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Swedish steamer Hedrun was reported torpedoed today off the Irish coast in a message picked up from England by Mackay Radio.

An SSS message indicating an attack by a submarine said, "Hedrun torpedoed." Mackay said the message came from the Portishead radio in the British Isles.

The ship gave its position as 400 miles west of Londonderry, at the north tip of Ireland.

Built in 1920, the Hedrun is listed in Lloyd's Register as 2325 tons and 317 feet long. It last was reported in the South American trade.

British Tanker Sinks; 3 Killed, 35 Missing, 15 Reach Azores.

VILLA FRANCA DO CAMPO, The Azores, Aug. 16 (AP). — The 8406-ton British tanker, British Fame, was torpedoed and sunk Monday 200 miles south of Sao Miguel Island, The Azores. Fifteen surviving sailors reached here yesterday.

Three sailors died in the explosion and 35 others in two lifeboats still are missing. The submarine took the captain prisoner.

BRITISH BOMBER HITS CABLE

Several Killed in Crash of American-Made Plane.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Several persons were killed last night when a Lockheed-Hudson (American-made) bomber flying over a southeast town collided with a balloon cable and crashed on a house.

NEW CHIEF OF STAFF NAMED FOR RED ARMY

Gen. K. A. Meretskov, Reported Dismissed for Failures in Finland, Gets Post.

MOSCOW, Aug. 16 (AP).—Soviet Russia's army has a new chief of staff, Gen. K. A. Meretskov, replacing Marshal B. M. Shaposhnikov, who asked to be relieved because of ill health.

The retiring chief was named Deputy People's Commissar of Defense by the Council of People's Commissars.

Gen. Meretskov formerly was chief of the Leningrad military district.

Marshal Shaposhnikov, chief of staff since May, 1937, was decorated last January during the Finnish war for "successful guidance of operations of the Red army."

Marshal Simeon Budyenny, former chief of the Moscow military district, also was named a Vice-Commissar. His successor to the Moscow post was not announced immediately.

Gen. Meretskov was reported dismissed last December because of the poor initial showing of the Red army against Finland.

These reports were not confirmed by Moscow, but Meretskov's replacement was generally credited at that time.

WALTER LIPPMANN

TODAY AND TOMORROW

He Suggests Cool Appraisal of Nature and Requirements of Hoover's Proposed System of Feeding Millions in Europe.

MR. HOOVER has proposed that the United States intervene in Europe in order to assure supplies of food to some 27,000,000 inhabitants of four nations—Norway, Holland, Belgium and Poland—and possibly also to some of the 40,000,000 inhabitants of France. On the basis of information avalable to him, Mr. Hoover describes the situation as follows:

He says that, if Germany allows the four little nations to keep their stocks of food and this year's harvest, their situation "will not begin to be acute until some time in the fall," but that their situation "will become fatal in the winter and spring next year—as domestic supplies are exhausted."

It follows that their situation will become acute immediately only if the occupying German armies draw upon the existing stocks of food and do not allow the invaded nations to use what this summer's harvest produces.

Mr. Hoover does not say whether in fact the Germans have been taking from the existing stocks and from the present harvest. But he implies that they have. For in the plan which he proposes he stipulates that Germany shall "furnish an equivalent of any food already taken." This would suggest that he believes the German requisitions may make the position in some of these countries very desperate even sooner than the autumn.

Mr. Hoover's plan calls for the setting up in these four, possibly five, invaded nations of "an adequate control of distribution" by a "neutral, non-governmental organization." This, of course, means an American organization.

Mr. Hoover then defines what he means by an adequate control. He does not mean merely, as some may suppose, that Americans in these four or five nations shall see to it that food from the Uniteds States reaches only the inhabitants of the invaded countries. Mr. Hoover means much more than that. He means that the American controllers are to see to it that the occupying German armies "take none of the domestic produce." For, obviously, if the American controllers do not do this, then the equivalent, or more, of what is sent in from America may go out to Germany.

If, therefore, Mr. Hoover's American controllers do not supervise the administration of the whole food supply of these four or five countries, the net result of the vast humanitarian effort would be to finance and facilitate the import of food into Germany by the use of Norwegian, Belgian, Dutch, Polish, and American funds.

But Mr. Hoover's plan does not end with the proposal to establish a control, administered by Americans, of the relief shipments and of the domestic stocks and the harvests of these four or five nations. His plan also requires the American controllers to get back from Germany "an equivalent of any food already taken."

Nor is that all. His plan also requires the American controllers to see to it that these four or five invaded nations are able to import food "from Russia and the Balkan states"—in other words, that Germany and Italy do not monopolize all the exportable surpluses of Central and Eastern Europe.

This program, as Mr. Hoover describes it, is no simple undertaking. An organization of private citizens is to distribute relief in four or five nations. It is to administer the whole food supply—the stocks, the harvests, and the imports—of four or five nations. It is to supervise the requisitions of the occupying army in four or five nations. It is to prevent the exports of food supplies from four or five nations. It is to recover from Germany the equivalent of food taken out or consumed by her armies during several months of occupation. It is to make sure that four or five prostrate nations are able to buy their proper share, as against their conqueror, of the exports of Russia, Hungary, Rumania.

Only if all these things are done by the American controllers, "only so long" as these "guarantees are fulfilled," does Mr. Hoover suggest that the British let food ships pass through the blockade.

It does then seem a bit premature, to say the least, for anyone to begin talking as if a fine humanitarian plan of relief was being opposed by the British and the American governments. Mr. Hoover's plan calls for a very large American administration set up to supervise and control and inspect the actions of Germany over a large part of the European continent.

Is there any good reason to think that Hitler would permit Mr. Hoover to exercise any such control as Mr. Hoover proposes? If, as has already been indicated in Berlin, what Hitler would allow is what he has allowed the Red Cross to do in Poland, then obviously what the Nazis mean and what Mr. Hoover means are two totally different things.

For while the Red Cross has supervised the distribution of relief in Poland, it has never controlled the food supplies of Poland or done any of the other elaborately difficult things which are called for in the Hoover plan. Nor could such a control be exercised by the few Americans who have been permitted to work in Poland. It would require a very great organization with vast powers to begin to do what the Hoover plan calls for.

In fact, Mr. Hoover is proposing to have the British open the naval blockade to four or five nations on the basis of a guarantee that Americans will establish in its place an administrative blockade—a blockade not only on the frontiers between Germany and the invaded nations, but also inside all these nations—as between the occupying armies, the Nazi officials, the Gestapo on the one hand, the local inhabitants on the other.

What point is there, then, in developing a passionate argument now about whether the American Government ought to ask Britain to let food ships pass, or whether Britain ought to let them pass? For Mr. Hoover has not said, and evidently does not believe, that the United States should compel Great Britain to open the blockade and let food pass unconditionally to the invaded and occupied nations. On the contrary, he has proposed that Britain be asked to open the blockade only "so long as the guaranties are fulfilled."

The guaranties, for which Mr. Hoover stipulates, would have to come from a gigantic system of control, supervision and administration by Americans in a vast territory occupied by German armies. A cool appraisal of the nature and the requirements of Mr. Hoover's proposed system is, therefore, not only morally the fairest, but in practice the only sobering and enlightening introduction to the study of this great problem.

3 MEN HURT, PLANES DAMAGED AT AIRPORT IN RAINSTORM

Two Mechanics, Lashing Aircraft to Moorings, Stunned by Lightning.

Two light airplanes were damaged seriously and three men were injured slightly at Skyhaven Airport, on United States Highway 66 near the Meramec River, when a violent wind and rainstorm struck the vicinity late yesterday.

Marshall Hasson, one of the airport operators, suffered bruises when he was blown from a hangar roof. Two mechanics who were attempting to keep the smaller planes lashed to their moorings were stunned temporarily by lightning. Damage to the two planes, both owned by Hasson, was estimated at $3000. Four larger planes escaped damage.

Traffic on Highway 66 was tied up temporarily when drains near Bowles avenue became clogged and water covered the highway to a depth of six inches. A barn on the farm of Ben Pfeiffer, and several trees in the vicinity, were blown down.

GERMAN GETS 15 YEARS FOR INSULTING BRAZIL

Predicted Nazis Would Win War and Take Over South American National as Colony.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 16 (AP).—A Brazilian tribunal of national security sentenced Ernest Fuches, a German, to 15 months' imprisonment last night on a charge of insulting Brazil.

Fuches last May publicly expressed the belief Germany would win the European war and thereafter take over Brazil as a colony.

WHEELER RIDICULES PLEA DRAFT IS NEEDED FOR DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, ridiculed last night the plea of the advocates of conscription that it is necessary for national defense.

"Why do high administration officials and financiers with international connections urge it upon us?" he asked in a broadcast. "I am afraid that only the future will reveal this to us—but I say to you now that it is not because they believe our shores or skies are in danger of invasion. For these men there is an entire hemisphere to be 'defended.' When men begin to envisage the defense of their country in terms of an entire hemisphere, then—of course—millions upon millions of men are necessary.

"It was in the name of defense of Germany that Hitler invaded Czechoslovakia. It was in the name of defense that Hitler invaded Poland, Belgium, Holland—and Norway. In the name of defense Russia invaded little Finland. To what corners of the world is it now proposed or intended to send these millions of our men—in the name of defense?"

HUNGARY OFFERS RUMANIANS NEW DISPUTE SOLUTION

'Extremely Severe,' Say Carol's Representatives of Proposal for Settling Transylvania Issue.

TURNU-SEVERIN, Rumania, Aug. 16 (AP).—Rumanian delegates to a conference on Hungary's claims to Transylvania returned to Bucharest tonight to report to King Carol on what was described here as an "extremely severe" Hungarian proposal.

Hungary's delegates earlier had submitted "a completely new" plan for settlement of the dispute for the rich province. Details were kept secret but the proposal was believed to be based on a Magyar minimum demand for three-fourths of Transylvania.

The conference then adjourned to permit the Rumanians to return to Bucharest to discuss the proposal with their government.

Hungarian spokesmen described their plan as "radically different from anything heretofore proposed as regards Transylvania." Details were not disclosed.

As the conference adjourned, delegations of both countries expressed the opinion that success of the negotiations depended now on the Bucharest Government's action.

DE LA ROCQUE PARTY CHANGES NAME AT GOVERNMENT ORDER

Now Called French Social Progress; Internal Organization Revised Under Rules.

VICHY, France, Aug. 16 (AP).—Col. Francois de la Rocque's French Social Party, successor to his rightist semi-military Croix de Feu organization of a few years ago, changed its name and its by-laws today to conform with rules of the new Government of Premier Petain, but, in the words of Col. de la Rocque himself, "nothing has been changed in our permanent ideals."

The name was changed to French Social Progress, keeping the same initials but eliminating the word party. The by-laws were changed to replace the party's parliamentary group with committees.

Col. de la Rocque, a strong supporter of the new Government, ordered his adherents to maintain a "patriotic vigilance."

LAUNDRY STICKERS TO CALL VOTERS TO GO TO POLLS

They Will Be Posted on All Bundles in State for Five Weeks Beginning at End of Month.

Slogan stickers urging citizens to vote in the November election will be posted on laundry bundles throughout the State for five consecutive weeks beginning the end of this month, it was made known today in a letter to the Post-Dispatch from H. H. Milligan, president of the St. Louis Laundry Board of Trade, and unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator in the recent primary election. The Missouri Laundry Owners' Association will co-operate in the program.

"The laundry industry," Milligan wrote, "accepts the challenge to democracy. It stands ready to work for the overthrow of tendencies which may wreck representative government and our system of free private enterprize. It will do its part to impress upon people the importance of the franchise."

Two slogans chosen for the program are: "All citizens should vote. All good Americans will vote." And "Government by the people means you must vote."

VOLUNTARY ENLISTMENT FAILURE, SAYS ARMY OFFICER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Voluntary enlistment has been "a miserable and almost fatal failure in every national emergency from the American Revolution to date," said Maj. Lewis B. Hershey, executive of the joint army-navy selective service committee, in a broadcast last night.

Those who advocate increasing the armed forces by this method, he said, "are unfamiliar with American history.

"Every national emergency in our history has been an indictment of the volunteer system. Selective service is the only method by which we can procure the men necessary to complete our national defense program."

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER WED TO FATHER AND SON

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Aug. 16 (AP). — Nettie Lorene Clark and Stephen E. Kensworthy Jr. were married Wednesday. The ceremony also made them stepsister and stepbrother.

Mrs. Agnes Bertha Clark, mother of Nettie Lorene, became the bride of Stephen's father at the double wedding.

5-DAY WEATHER FORECASTS

New Service to Supplant Bureau's Weekly Outlook.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Forecasts of weather conditions five days in advance will be offered under an experimental, long-range forecasting program to be inaugurated tonight by the Weather Bureau.

Such forecasts will be offered twice weekly—Saturday morning covering a period extending through Wednesday of the following week, and Tuesday morning covering a period ending Saturday night. The new service will supplant the generalized weekly "outlook" forecasts issued formerly. It will give trend predictions for regional areas, but not for individual states or cities, the Bureau said.

15 Taking Course in Police Garage.

Fifteen young men went to work today in the Police Garage, 3919 Laclede avenue, for a three-month course as part of the vocational training program of National Youth Administration. They will put in 60 hours a month and get $16 a month from NYA. The Police Board, if it finds the tryout satisfactory, may continue or extend the plan.

INDIANS 6, BROWNS 3 (7 Innings); PIRATES 6, CARDS 5 (FIRST GAME)

RIP RADCLIFF GETS FOUR STRAIGHT HITS; FELLER, AUKER HURL

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16.—Bob Feller, seeking his twenty-first victory of the year, got off to a shaky start as the Browns and Indians opened a four-game series here this afternoon, but six St. Louis hits in the first two innings resulted in only two runs. Elden Auker hurled for the Browns and also yielded two runs in the first two rounds.

It was Ladies' day and a crowd of 10,000 attended, 6000 of them women.

Basil, Quinn, Grieve and Geisel were the umpires.

The game:

FIRST—BROWNS—Heffner flied to Chapman. Feller tossed out Grace. Radcliff smashed a single off Feller's glove. Judnich singled to right, Radcliff stopping at third. Clift singled to center, scoring Radcliff and sending Judnich to third. Cullenbine walked, filling the bases. Berardino flied to Bell. ONE RUN.

INDIANS — Chapman tripled to the center field fence. Weatherly lined to Heffner. Heffner threw out Boudreau, Chapman scoring. Trosky lined to Heffner. ONE RUN.

SECOND — BROWNS—Keltner threw out Swift. Auker struck out. Heffner singled to right. Grace singled to left, Heffner stopping at second. Radcliff singled through the box, scoring Heffner and sending Grace to third. Judnich flied to Bell. ONE RUN.

INDIANS — Bell walked on four straight pitches. Keltner singled to center, sending Bell to third. Mack flied deep to Judnich, Bell scoring. Hemsley forced Keltner, Berardino to Heffner. Feller popped to Heffner. ONE RUN.

THIRD — BROWNS — Clift struck out. Cullenbine flied to Weatherly. Berardino tapped to Feller.

INDIANS — Chapman was called out on strikes. Weatherly was out, Cullenbine to Auker, who covered first. Heffner tossed out Boudreau.

INDIANS — Clift threw out Feller. Chapman walked. Weatherly singled to center, sending Chapman to third. Boudreau hit into a double play, Berardino to Heffner to Cullenbine.

SIXTH—BROWNS — Berardino doubled to center. Swift flied deep to Weatherly, Berardino taking third. Auker popped to Trosky. Heffner lined to Trosky.

INDIANS — Trosky singled to center. Bell flied to Grace. Keltner doubled off the right field screen, scoring Trosky. Mack walked. Hemsley doubled past Clift, scoring Keltner and sending Mack to third. Feller flied to Judnich, Mack scoring. Berardino threw out Chapman. THREE RUNS.

Joplin Coach Named Maplewood Assistant

Claude Mikkelsen, coach at the Joplin (Mo.) high school for the last four years, has resigned to become assistant football mentor at Maplewood High, school officials announced today.

Mikkelsen is a graduate of Springfield Teachers' College and while at Joplin his basketball teams were rated among the strongest in that area, winning 68 games against 20 defeats. Mikkelsen will also teach a commercial subject at Maplewood.

"Grand" Attendance.

Average attendance for the first 85 games in the Northern League was 1000. If a club's average attendance equals the population of the town the season is considered successful.

Aubuchons Win Again

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Aug. 16.—The Aubuchon-Dennison Post team of St. Louis, Missouri champions, nosed out Knoxville this morning, 2 to 1, to advance to the finals of the regular Junior American Legion tournament.

The pitching of Harold Kline, big St. Louis flinger, who struck out 11 and gave only five hits, was the feature of the game.

St. Louis tomorrow will meet the winner of the East Chicago-Louisville game this afternoon.

Score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis — — 000 110 000—2	6	1
Knoxville — — 000 000 100—1	5	1

254 Entries in Maplewood Swim

Twenty-three events will comprise the third annual Maplewood swim carnival tomorrow afternoon and night at the Maplewood pool, with 254 individuals to compete for trophies. Awards will be given to the first four finishers in each event.

There is a big out-of-town entry among the 24 organizations who are seeking the team championship, with Shaw Park of Clayton defending its title, but likely to be pressed by the Bloomington (Ill.) Country Club.

Bloomington was runner-up to Shaw Park in the recent University City meet, but has a much larger entry in the Maplewood carnival.

Stephens Out Of Tennis Meet

Howard V. Stephens Jr. will not defend his title in the St. Louis District men's singles tennis championship which opens at the Triple A Club on Aug. 22. The former Yale University player will leave tomorrow for several months' training in the United States Naval Reserves and will not be here for the competition.

Frank Keaney and Allen Carvell, two top ranking players, may not be able to play in the district event this year. Keaney has an injured shoulder, while Carvell will be playing in the National Public Parks event at Cincinnati next week and may not return in time.

Frank Thompson, district indoor champion, and Wayne Smith, former county and Municipal titleholder, are entered. Other entries include Gus Boehmer, Howard Bland, William Bascom, Russell Hadden, Dr. A. J. Fries, Monroe Lewis and Monroe Lewis Jr.

Gives A's Good Practice.

Dave Keefe, batting practice pitcher of the Athletics, is minus a finger on his throwing hand. He can throw as good a curve as any of Mack's regulars.

THEY inherited the name of the Giants. . . . But at the box office they're merely pigmies today. . . . Their turnstiles are not clicking in the same old way.

The Giants are having a bad year. . . . After 40 home games they were 115,000 behind last year's attendance. . . . In 45 games on the road they had attracted only 396 276 fans. . . . On one home Saturday only 3988 attended and on the following Sunday only 6575. . . . That's a big drop for the Giants.

Other club owners don't like that any more than Horace Stoneham does. . . . Formerly the crowds knocked at the gates to get in to see the Giants. . . . And at New York visiting owners walked off with plenty of swag. . . . But this year they'll lament with President Stoneham. . . . And perhaps realize that a bad New York year is a bad one for the league.

Larry MacPhail paid a pretty high premium for what he called "pennant" insurance when he paid $150,000 for Joe Medwick. . . . Recently his insurance polished the bench.

The Yankees were 3 to 5 with no takers last April. . . . The Tigers and Indians were around 8 or 10 to 1. . . . And likewise no takers. . . . Great chance to clean up was booted by all except a few long-shot punters. . . . The sports experts have been extremely consistent in all their picking. . . . They've hardly overlooked a single lemon.

Well It Might Work Out O K.

THERE isn't much doubt about it—right here in St. Louis we have the makings of a big league pennant winner . . . Yes, we remember we said the same thing about the Cardinals last winter.

But this is a sure shot . . . All you have to do is to sell the idea to Sam Breadon and Don Barnes . . . Then induce one of them to sell his club to the other . . . That would make it possible to weld the two squads together. . . . The combination might do for a pennant winner.

Sure it would . . . Add Heffner, McQuinn, Radcliff, Judnich, Clift and some Brownie pitchers to the Cards . . . Result a pennant winner.

At least it ought to be in the National League.

Of course the idea is nuts . . . Perhaps we had better steer clear of those Carondelet Park squirrels . . . But it's no more nutty than telling us they're going to sell one of our clubs down or up the river and leave us with one team.

The main idea is that there are enough good players on the Browns and Cardinals combined to put St. Louis over as a winner . . . And that's probably more than could be said of Philadelphia.

High Cost of Night Ball Games.

WHEN Don Barnes estimated that it cost about $2000 a game to hold flood-light contests, they gave him that "you don't say so" sneer . . . Lights and other operating costs for one night figure around $600.

Now comes the New York Giants' treasurer, who says that the cost of amortizing its light plant on a seven-year basis, plus operating costs, make a night game nut of about $3255 . . . Pretty soft when you can figure in your investment as part of your expense, eh Bo?

After seven years, you are sitting pretty with your plant paid for and charged off as expense . . . And then you can begin to charge off all over again the cost of an unbuilt new plant, although the amortized one is still alive and doing well, thank you.

We'll have to go to some of these baseball magnates and take lessons in budgeting . . . Maybe we can charge three squares and a place to sleep as operating costs.

Lain a Redskin.

BIRDS BUNCH 6 HITS FOR 4 RUNS IN EIGHTH; BOWMAN IS ROUTED

By J. Roy Stockton

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Aug. 16.—The Pirates took an early lead and defeated the Cardinals in the first game of a doubleheader here this afternoon.

The score was 6 to 5.

Elbie Fletcher, who had been out with an injury, returned to the Pittsburgh lineup at first base.

About 2500 attended.

Klem, Ballanfant and Campbell were the umpires:

The first game:

SECOND—PIRATES — Vaughan doubled to left. Fletcher fouled to J. Brown. Van Robays beat out a high bounder over second, Vaughan stopping at third. Gustine singled to center, scoring Vaughan, Van Robays stopping at second. Davis flied to Koy. Lanahan singled to right, scoring Van Robays and sending Gustine to third. L. Waner walked, filling the bases. Elliott singled to left, scoring Gustine and Lanahan, L. Waner stopping at second. Lanier replaced R. Bowman on the hill for the Cardinals. Garms grounded to Mize. FOUR RUNS.

CARDINALS — Orengo walked. Owen doubled to left, scoring Orengo. Vaughan threw out Marion, Owen going to third. Lanier sent a short fly to Elliott. J. Brown popped to Gustine. ONE RUN.

THIRD — PIRATES — Vaughan doubled to right. Fletcher singled to center, scoring Vaughan. Van Robays forced Fletcher, J. Brown to Orengo. Gustine flied to Moore. Davis singled to right, sending Van Robays to third. Lanahan flied to Moore. ONE RUN.

CARDINALS—Moore beat out a grounder on which Gustine made a fine stop, and took second on Gustine's wild throw. J. Martin flied to Elliott. So did Mize. Koy walked. Slaughter ran for Koy. Orengo flied to Elliott.

CARDINALS — Owen singled to center. Marion lined to Vaughan. Lanier hit into a double play, Vaughan to Gustine to Fletcher.

CARDINALS — DiMaggio played left field for the Pirates. J. Brown flied to DiMaggio. Moore fouled to Davis. J. Martin singled to left. Mize was called out on strikes.

CARDINALS—Slaughter popped to Vaughan. Orengo was called out on strikes. Owen walked. Marion singled to left, Owen stopping at second. Gutteridge batted for Lanier. Owen took third and Marion second on a wild pitch. Gutteridge struck out.

CARDINALS — Vaughan threw out J. Brown. Moore fouled to Davis. J. Martin bunted safely toward first. J. Martin stole second and continued to third on Davis' lo wthrow. Mize flied to Elliott.

NINTH — PIRATES — S. Martin went to third and McGee pitched for the Cardinals. Elliott doubled to right. McGee covered on Garms' grounded to Mize, Elliott taking third. Shoun replaced McGee on the hill for the Cardinals. Vaughan walked. Fletcher singled to center, scoring Elliott and sending Vaughan to third. DiMaggio fouled to Owen. Justin fouled to S. Martin. ONE RUN.

CARDINALS — Orengo bunted safely toward third. Owen hit to Gustine, who tagged Orengo and threw to Fletcher for a double play. Padgett batted for Marion and fouled to Davis.

30,000 Ladies Day Crowd in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP).—Battering three pitchers for 14 hits, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Chicago Cubs today, 9 to 4, in the first game of a doubleheader before a ladies' day crowd of 30,000. Whitey Moore held the Cubs scoreless until the eighth inning, when Hank Leiber banged out his fourteenth homer with one runner on base.

Kovacs and McNeill Are Finalists in Newport Casino Tennis

Joe Hunt Strong to Fourth Set

Oklahoma City Ace Defeats Frederick Schroeder in Straight Sets in Semifinal Contest.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16 (AP).—Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Cal., seeded No. 3, gained the final round in the twenty-fourth annual Newport Casino invitation tennis tournament today by defeating Joseph Hunt of Annapolis, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2.

Don McNeill, national clay court champion from Oklahoma City, gained the opportunity to meet Kovacs in tomorrow's final by beating Frederick Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., 6-3, 6-4 and 6-2.

Hunt's defeat was considered by some as retribution for his one-sided victory yesterday over Bryant (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta. Until the final set, the midshipman's chances looked good but Kovacs wore him down and forced him to lose his aggressiveness.

New York Printers Are Eliminated

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16.—The champion Washington Typos defeated the New York Typos, 7 to 5, in the semifinals of the Union Printers' International Baseball League tournament, in the first game of a doubleheader at Crosley Field here this morning. New York was eliminated.

First-baseman Eddie Albrecht of the St. Louis printers baseball team, who was injured in the game with New York here yesterday, was released from the hospital this morning. Hurt in a collision with a runner, he was carried from the field. X-rays showed only bad bruises.

Cullop Keeps Going.

The veteran Nick Cullop, famous minor league home run hitter and Texas League most valuable player last year, is again leading the loop in homers. He plays with Houston.

A Story of College Athletics

Mangrum In Lead With 138

TORONTO, Aug. 16 (AP).—Ray Mangrum, Oakmont (Pa.) professional, jumped into the lead in the Canadian Open golf championship today when he scored his second two-under-par 69 for a 36-hole lead of 138.

Dick Metz of Chicago, who was one under par yesterday, equalled par 71 to hit the half mark with 141. Metz had a great chance to take the lead when he shot the outgoing nine in 34, two under regulation figures, but he faltered coming home, taking a 37.

Ted Bishop, Boston amateur, assured himself of finishing well up among the qualifiers for tomorrow's final 36 holes when he posted a 73 for a two-round total of 145.

Cedar Rapids Ties For Three-I Lead

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 16 (AP).—Cedar Rapids had a share of the Three-I League lead again today.

Engaged with Clinton in what was to be a battle for second place, the Red Raiders won last night, 4 to 2, and climbed into a deadlock with Springfield when Moline again upset the pace setters, 3-2. Clinton's loss dropped it three games back of the leaders.

A Strong Missouri Flavor

By Jimmy Conzelman

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.

THE twisting paths of football fortunes show many cross roads and up here at Chicago, two former Missouri University coaches have joined hands to develop the All-Star Collegians, who meet the Green Bay Packers on Aug. 29.

Frank Carideo and Don Faurot, who each served four years as head coach of the Tigers, are on the staff of assistants to Dr. Eddie Anderson.

Faurot was selected by Midwest pigskin followers in a newspaper poll while Carideo received his invitation from his boss, Coach Anderson, whom he serves as backfield assistant at Iowa University.

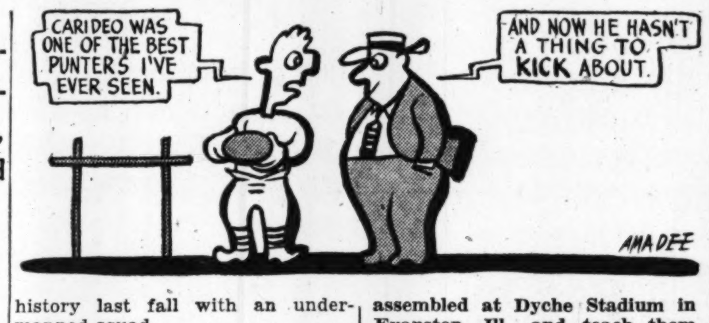

With the teaching of a shift to a polyglot group of running stars from every football system under the sun, Anderson decided to call in Carideo to handle the delicate timing and steps of the Notre Dame system.

Carideo is chatty and full of pep and why not? After four tough years at Missouri he stepped into an assistant's job at Mississippi State and helped turn out successful teams.

When Iowa's tall corn lured Anderson away from Holy Cross, Carideo stepped into a place on the coaching staff that made football history last fall with an undermanned squad.

Carideo in Tough. Spot at Missouri.

DURING his regime at Missouri, Carideo found little material. He followed the popular Gwinn Henry into the coaching seat on a wave of alumni indignation at the latter's dismissal. It was a rough spot for any coach and Carideo took the bumps.

I don't recall another football coach who could demonstrate punting like Carideo. The ex-Notre Dame quarterback and Harry Kipke of Michigan probably were the greatest kickers of all time where accuracy provided the measuring stick.

One of Carideo's favorite demonstrations was to line up several punt receivers and, as they ran down or across the field, send sharp spiral punts into their outstretched hands, much as a forward passer would hurl his aerials. He timed his kicks to lead the receiver as you would throw a ball.

Yes, it's been a pleasant comeback trail for the former quarterback of one of Knute Rockne's greatest teams.

If he can co-ordinate the various styles of the backfield stars assembled at Dyche Stadium in Evanston, Ill., and teach them the finesse needed to slip through the rugged professional defense, Carideo will get his share of personal satisfaction. It's been a long comeback trail.

Waldorf, Former Tigeer, Voted In.

WALDORF, Missouri guard, was voted into the All-Star squad but Captain Haas, Tiger tackle, got a hurry-up call to headquarters when the roster of the Collegians showed thin coverage at the tackle positions.

Several of the tackles voted into the group failed to show up at the opening day of practice and Haas was brought in to provide reserve strength.

Haas said he was undetermined as to whether he would try out for the Detroit Lions pro eleven that drafted him last December. An opportunity in another field may keep him out of the paid football circles.

Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern coach, looked glum in his office yesterday. Reason . . . Bill Decorrevont just had a troublesome appendix removed and Waldorf says he will be out of the early games.

Weygandt On Night Fight Card

Vernon Weygandt, Golden Gloves open welterweight champion, and Lou Kostich, an unknown featherweight at the start of the summer season of boxing, will be bidding for their sixth straight victories in matches on Ollie Russo's fistic card tonight at the National Nite Baseball Park, Kingshighway, near Arsenal.

The first of nine bouts will start at 8:30. Eight of the battles are intercity affairs. Scrappers from East St. Louis, Kansas City, Jacksonville and Herculaneum are furnishing the opposition.

Weygandt will take on Grover Shelton of East St. Louis, in the feature five-rounder. Vernon has scored five straight victories, four before National Nite Park audiences and one in Belleville. Two of his conquests came via the kayo route.

Shelton is the champion welterweight on the East Side. He is a clever boxer and packs a hard wallop. He owns a victory over Griffen Ivy, who in turn has defeated Weygandt three times.

Kostich will mix with Elmer Blum of Herculaneum, as he attempts to run his streak to the six mark. He has fought on every National Nite Park card this summer and each time he won.

In the heavyweight feature, Larry Kline of Sullivan, Mo., who now resides here, will tackle "Red" Thomas, Kansas City Negro. Thomas comes here rated as a puncher.

Joie DiMartino, Golden Gloves open bantamweight champion, and George Haskins, Negro welterweight star, will appear in other intercity bouts tonight.

Tickets for last Friday night's boxing card, which was rained out, will be honored tonight.

Starting time, 8:30.

Finals in Badminton Tourney

Six more of the ranking stars, including two defending champions, will view the finals of the St. Louis District Badminton tournament tonight from the sidelines. Their elimination last night marked a continuation of the series of upsets. The finals in 10 divisions of play will begin at 8 o'clock on the center courts of the University City Badminton Club, 6805 Olive Street road, with the boys' and girls' matches first on the evenings' card.

Foremost among last night's upsets was the one in which Irmgard Mahlings, an unseeded player, defeated Bee Slater, who was defending her women's championship division singles title. Miss Slater was seeded number one, but she was no match for the hard-driving Miss Mahlings. After losing the first game, 3-11, Miss Mahlings went on to win her second and third semifinal games, 12-11, 11-9.

Dorothy Jane Knupp furnished the second upset of the evening as she ousted Defending Champion Elsie Lee Beck from the girl's division semifinals, 11-2, 12-10.

Marvin Schoenfeld, No. 2 seed in the boys' tourney, was the next to fall by the wayside, as he fell before the fine stroking of Herbert Koberman, 11-4, 11-9, in a semifinal match.

Virginia Summa then went to work and relegated second seeded Angeline Johansson to the side lines in the women's championship singles, 12-11, 9-11, 12-10.

Miss Johansson was on the short end of another upset as she and her partner, Rose Baroody, were defeated by Alice Welch and Lynn Rowland in the women's championship doubles. The victims were second seeded, while the victors were fourth seeded.

Paul Pollock, one of the bright stars of the tournament, put up a great battle before he lost to Carl Lange in a men's championship semifinal. Pollock had eliminated Karl Johansson Wednesday night and was a slight favorite over Lange, but netted too many shots last night. The scores were 12-15, 18-13 and 15-11. Lange will meet Jim Tancill in the final. Tancill defeated Dick Suevers, 15-2, 15-1, to enter the round of two in easy style.

Tonight's Schedule.

8 p. m.—Girls' Singles—Dorothy Jane Knupp vs. Marilyn Rowland.
Boys' Singles—Bob Norwine vs. Harold Koberman.
8:30 p. m.—Jim Tancill and Roger Stallings vs. Karl Johansson and Bernard Goldwasser.

Whitney Sells Woof Woof.

Browns to Ask for 14 Night Games Again.

BILL DeWITT, vice-president of the Browns, will ask the American league to give the club permission to play 14 night games, instead of seven, again in 1941, and there are many persons who think the circuit again will make an exception in the case of the St. Louis club.

DeWitt doesn't think 14 night games too many and inasmuch as the extra floodlight contests have enabled the Browns to draw more cash customers than they have drawn in many years they will have a strong argument to present with their December request.

Clubs inclined to offer objections will be asked if they would prefer fat checks or pin money for their visits to Sportsman's Park. Several clubs in the league have carried away, after a series including a night game, more money than they received last year for playing 11 games in St. Louis. And when that point is emphasized at the December meeting the reported opposition to more than seven games for any one club may fade out of the picture.

National to Stick to Seven-Game Limit.

NATIONAL LEAGUE club owners, on the other hand, will stick to the rule limiting each club to seven floodlight games at home. When the Browns announced they were going to play 14, instead of seven games, Sam Breadon asked the National League to make a similar exception in the case of the Cardinals. But the league voted down the request and the strongest advocates of night baseball were loudest in their refusal to give Sam the extra games.

Opponents of an increase in the number of night games insist that the competition under the floodlights must be maintained as a novelty if the customers are to be attracted in large numbers and many observers now are pointing to the fact that the attendance in St. Louis has not been up to expectations. The Browns drew several night crowds only a few thousand over what might have been expected in the daylight.

Coming home from a long campaign in the enemy's country, the Cardinals attracted a crowd announced by the front office as 11,077. Boosters of night baseball had predicted that the owl contests would draw an average of 20,000 a night.

Pirates Do Well at the Turnstiles.

PITTSBURGH apparently likes the baseball played by the Pirates under the fiery Frank Frisch. Playing about 50 games, the Buccaneers have attracted approximately 400,000 persons at home and if the club can continue in the first division, the attendance easily will go over the half million mark, despite a poor start by the club and miserable weather during the early weeks of the season.

No question about it, Frisch has the Pirates fighting, but most observers wish that Frank would learn to speak more academically to the umpires, so he wouldn't be forever taking an early shower. You would think a college man (Frisch went to Fordham and you should have him tell you how he hit against the Yales) would learn from experience. But every time there is a decision that Frisch doesn't like—and he likes no decisions against his Pirates—he storms the nearest official and soon gets a telegram about a fine.

A little of that is all right, but Frisch is overdoing it. Occasionally there is sound reason for a protest, but the effect of Frisch's legitimate complaints is lost because he squawks at everything. He might remember a lesson from John McGraw.

In his later years McGraw didn't fight the umpires on the field. And he ordered his players to refrain from baiting the officials. But he was firm when the time was right. One day an umpire missed a decision that McGraw knew the other umpires had seen. He sent out word to the obstinate umpire that he wouldn't let the game go on until the other umpires were consulted. The umpire didn't want to assume the responsibility of forfeiting the game. He knew McGraw wasn't bluffing. He consulted the other umpires and the decision was reversed. That complaint won a ball game. Frisch complains so much he couldn't get away with a thing like that.

Sees the Light

President Donald Barnes of the Browns—He likes the floodlights so well he'll ask for fourteen games again next year.

Chicago Faces Minneapolis in Regional Final

Lawndale-Crawford post team from Chicago or the Firemen-Policemen post team of Minneapolis will advance to the sectional American Legion junior baseball tournament tonight. They meet at the Belleville Athletic field in the regional championship game, starting at 8 o'clock.

The Minnesota champion moved into the final game with an impressive 7-1 victory over Cedar Rapids last night at Belleville. The game had been scheduled Wednesday but was postponed due to rain. Lawndale-Crawford won over Milwaukee in its first round game of the "sudeen death" tournament.

Immediately after the championship game the winning team will entrain for Rock Hill, S. C., where the sectional tournament is scheduled to start Monday afternoon.

Bernard Morel, on the mound for Lawndale-Crawford in the Illinois champion's first regional victory, will be back on the hill tonight. The Minnesota hurler is indefinite, but Charles Glutski will get the call if he feels his arm is in good shape. Glutski allowed but three hits in beating the Iowans last night.

Miss Marble on Way to a Title

MANCHESTER, Mass., Aug. 16 (AP).—Alice Marble and Pauline Betz, both of Beverly Hills, Cal., became the finalists today in the Essex County Club's sixteenth annual women's invitation tennis tournament. Miss Marble first hurdled her doubles partner, Sarah Palfrey of Reno, Nev., 6-1, 6-3, and then Miss Betz defeated Mary Hardwick of England, 6-1, 6-1.

Miss Palfrey couldn't cope with her tandem teammate, simply because she couldn't handle a man-speed serve. She could win only 14 points in the first set against 26 for her nemesis. She finally did solve that serve, but too late. She broke through at love in the second last game, but Miss Marble simply followed by crashing through her adversary's offerings in the next game to close the match.

Miss Hardwick, top-seeded on the foreign list and England's second ranking star, was similarly outclassed by Miss Betz. The unseeded California youngster left the Wightman Cup player flat-footed repeatedly on daring placements. It was the fifth time in seven meetings this year that Miss Betz had beaten Miss Hardwick.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP — MOVIES — AMUSEMENTS

Slaps and Socks

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.

MARY BETH HUGHES of St. Louis, husky-voiced blond bombshell who is just now causing Twentieth Century-Fox forces to wonder whether they haven't at last uncovered a successor to the late Jean Harlow, has just emerged—somewhat slap-happy —from a grueling experience opposite John Barrymore in "The Great Profile."

MARY BETH HUGHES OF ST. LOUIS . . . SHE SAYS BARRYMORE CARRIES A HEAVY PUNCH.

"I've begun to wonder," she moaned, rolling up her sleeves gingerly to display a choice assortment of welts and bruises, "whether I've been in a moving picture or a prize fight."

"Look at 'em—they're all over my body. I'm so sore I can hardly sit down. Yes, I've been slapped and socked and stepped on by the great Barrymore — all for art's sake. Don't get me wrong. It was a swell role, my best chance to date and a wonderful experience working with him. But if I had to do it all over again I'd come into the ring prepared. I guess I just wasn't in condition."

Barrymore, the actress relates, becomes so aggravated when he musses up a line of dialogue—which isn't infrequent according to Hollywood tradition—that he bangs away at the person in closest proximity to his despair. Unfortunately, Mary Beth shared a great many close-ups with Barrymore. So, she was "it."

"Toward the end of the picture," Mary Beth went on, "it developed into a sort of brawl. I couldn't stand by, taking all those slaps without trading in a few myself. I got in some pretty good licks. If you don't think so, feel that arm."

Here Mary Beth flexed her right arm. A muscular development, about the size of a big California orange, popped up just below the shoulder. It was evident that Mary Beth might be able to take care of herself in a pinch.

"Well, we went into a scene where John takes me in his arms and pulls me tightly to him," Mary Beth continued. "His line read, 'come fly to my hungry heart.' He muffed it and I ducked—but not in time. He socked me so hard on the side of the face that my ears rang. It made me mad. I pulled my right back and swung, to the pit of his stomach.

"I guess he must have begun to realize then that his blows had plenty of sting behind them. He apologized profusely. 'I'm terribly sorry, darling,' he said. And then do you know what he did? He pulled his left and socked me on the other side of the face! I know it's just habit with him and he doesn't mean the slightest harm. But how can a girl act when she has to keep her guard up all the time?"

Would Mary Beth rebel if the studio assigned her to another role opposite Barrymore?

"Not me," the platinum siren responded quickly. "It isn't every actress who gets a chance to play with him, and, as I said before, it was a wonderful experience. Only next time, I'd know what to do. I'd ask for a month's advance notice and do plenty of gym and road work."

No actress in town has made greater strides in 1940 than this same Mary Beth. Ten months ago she was cast off the MGM lot. After 18 months the talent wizards over there said she was a hopeless prospect. Darryl Zanuck snapped her up and put her into a "B" picture. She looked so promising in it that the title was changed to "Free, Blond and 21," just to point her presence up. As a reward for that, Mary Beth was cast as the nasty Czech spy in "Four Sons." She didn't like that, but it continued to focus attention upon her. "The Great Profile," in spite of her boxing ordeal, is expected to make her one of the top stars on the lot.

Seeking "Debutantes" Studio Buys Comedy

"The Father Takes a Wife," an original comedy by Dorothy and Herbert Fields, has been purchased by Lee Marcus, production executive at RKO Radio Pictures. Fields also has been signed to adapt the story to the screen, when he and B. G. de Sylva are through putting the finishing touches on their new play "Panama Hattie." Fields will write the RKO Radio script in New York.

African Railroad Thriller at St. Louis

Geography and authenticity mean little to the producers of "South to Karanga," which opened last night at the St. Louis Theater. They mean to give thrills and whether their story could be true or not makes no difference. Anything can happen in Central Africa and does, in the picture.

So the film makers send a modern express train on its first trip along a railroad that already has block signals for its entire length, water towers and scenery that looks very much like California. The locomotive, too, is typically American and the savages are the Georgia and South Carolina kind. But there is murder aboard the train and a fight with the natives strangely reminiscent of a scene in "The Lady Vanishes." Charles Bickford, as an American consul, is in charge of bravery.

On the same program is "Gaucho Serenade," in which Gene Autry, the singing cowboy, saves an English lad from would-be kidnapers. Gene and his pal, Smiley Burnette, ride around in a trailer, spend their time in night clubs and finally have a running fight with the crooks aboard a train. A Merrie Melodies cartoon on the St. Louis program is better than average. C. Mc.

Exercise to Keep Fit, Advises Florence Rice

POSSIBLY influenced by her father, Grantland Rice, famous sports authority, Florence Rice is a firm believer in athletics for women as a means of keeping physically fit.

The actress, currently portraying the featured feminine role in Paramount's "Cherokee Strip," produced by Harry Sherman and starring Richard Dix, plays tennis and golf at least three times a week when not working in a picture and rides horseback on alternate days.

"It is a mistake to diet to preserve the figure," declares Miss Rice. "Good healthy exercise is much better. I eat what I please and never give a thought to reducing. My weight doesn't vary more than a few ounces a day when I stick to my regular exercise in which I find pleasure as well as physical benefit."

COAL MINES JOINING ANTI-SMOKE PROGRAM

Franklin County, Ill., Firms Will Process Fuel to Meet Ordinance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Aug. 16.—In contrast to the retaliatory measures started in some Illinois coal-producing counties near St. Louis as a means of expressing displeasure with the fuel restrictions imposed by the city's smoke abatement ordinance, Franklin County coal companies are directing their activities toward co-operation with fuel requirements.

The Old Ben Coal Corporation, for example, has doubled its facilities for the preparation of stoker coal and now is shipping to St. Louis 12 to 15 train carloads a day. General Superintendent R. L. Adams said no shipments are being made of ordinary bituminous coal, which, if hand-fired, would violate the St. Louis ordinance, although last year sale of this type of coal constituted 40 per cent of the business.

Construction of a briquetting plant near the company's No. 14 mine at Buckner was begun early this summer and is being rushed to completion, with expectation it will begin to turn out about 480 tons daily of the smokeless fuel in October. The briquettes are made by a secret formula, which includes use of coal dust.

DATE FOR COAL MINIMUM POSTPONED UNTIL OCT. 1

Delay Granted Because Time for Filing Appeals Has Been Extended to Aug. 30.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Interior Department Coal Division ordered today a postponement until Oct. 1 of the effective date for minimum prices for sale of bituminous coal at the mines.

The postponement came with announcement by Secretary of the Interior Ickes that time for filing appeals from the price findings, which range from 10 cents a ton for low grade Indiana coal dust to $5.25 for best Washington lump coal, had been extended to Aug. 30.

Under the extension of the appeal date only three days—one a Sunday—would have been left before Sept. 3, the original date for the effectiveness of the minimum price schedules.

EUROPE'S CROP PROSPECTS 'AVERAGE GOOD,' NAZIS SAY

BERLIN, Aug. 16 (AP). — Europe's 1940 crop prospects were described as "average good" today by German agricultural experts, who said the Reich's food situation was excellent with record root crops (potatoes, beets and the like), expected.

These experts said the rationing system had greatly helped Germany to reduce cereal consumption, and declared there was absolutely no cause for worry since the Reich's grain supplies were still plentiful.

Figures were unavailable, it was said, because statistics on Germany's food supplies are regarded as a military secret.

U. S. ADMIRAL, TWO GENERALS IN LONDON AS OBSERVERS

Report to Ambassador Kennedy for Special Duty as War Watchers.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Three high ranking American officers—Rear Admiral Robert L. Ghormley, Major-General D. C. Emmons and Brigadier-General George V. Strong—reported to Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy today to act as special observers of the attack on England.

The three established offices in the American Embassy.

FERGUSON BENEFIT TICKET SALE DRIVE CALLED ILLEGAL

A telephone campaign to sell tickets to a dance sponsored by the Ferguson Police and Firemen's Benefit Association is being conducted in violation of a city ordinance, James M. Rohan, chariman of the Municipal Charity Solicitations Committee, said today. No application has been made for the necessary permit to solicit funds within the city limits, he said.

Chief of Police Al Montrey of Ferguson said the ticket sale is being handled by Clovis McComy, who has promoted similar benefits for other St. Louis County municipalities. The first $1500 net profit is to be given to the Fire and Police Departments to pay premiums on accidents and life insurance carried on the four firemen and 10 policemen in Ferguson, he said, with McComy retaining any profits over that amount.

Tickets for the dance, to be held Oct. 18 at Joe Davies Country Club in Ferguson, are being sold at $1.

4 NORSEMEN CROSS ATLANTIC IN 18-FOOT BOAT IN 41 DAYS

Escape From Nazi-Dominated Homeland by Sail and Oar to Newfoundland.

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Aug. 16 (AP).—Four Norwegians—three demobilized soldiers and a sailor—reached here in an 18-foot boat yesterday after crossing the Atlantic by sail and oars to escape from their Nazi-dominated homeland.

They said they set out from Kristianiafjord July 5.

U. S. SENDING NAVY OFFICER TO MARTINIQUE CONSULATE

Move Said to Show Nation's Interest in French Island as Possible Danger Spot.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—The United States showed continued interest in Martinique as a potential danger spot by announcing yesterday that a naval Lieutenant-Commander was to be attached to the American Consulate on the French island in the West Indies.

Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, said he had no information on reports that British and French officials had reached a working agreement regarding French warships at Martinique.

A French aircraft carrier put in there with about 200 American-made planes after France sued for an armistice. This was followed by the arrival of British warships, which caused fears among officials here that hostilities might develop within the American neutrality zone.

C. M. HAY ASKS GOOD CITIZENS TO GIVE SERVICE AT POLLS

Urges More of Standing in Various Organization to Make Themselves Available.

An appeal to "citizens of standing" in clubs, churches, civic and other organizations to make themselves available for service as election officials was made by Charles M. Hay, president of the Board of Election Commissioners, in an address at today's luncheon of the Civitan Club.

Hay said that the board is getting up a list of persons willing to serve in advance of the selection next month of officials for the next four years.

He declared that "making democracy work," depends on election of good public servants, and that in turn on the integrity of elections, so that "the man or woman who serves honestly, faithfully and competently" in elections is "a vital servant of democracy."

$600,000,000 IN DEFENSE COMMITMENTS BY R F C

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Jesse Jones, Federal Loan Administrator, said today the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had made "formal and informal" commitments for loans aggregating approximately $600,000,000 in connection with the national defense program. He declined to give any breakdown on the loans.

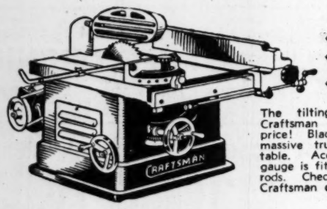

So far the RFC has made 18 formal loans aggregating $283,378,250.

BRITISH EDITOR SAYS "THERE WILL BE BLOOD AND TEARS BUT ENEMY SHALL NOT PASS"

All Thought of Appeasement Passed With Test at Oran When English Navy Fired on Its Old Ally—Spirit of Unity Greater Than in Last War.

By JAMES BONE

London Editor, The Manchester (England) Guardian, Who Is on Assignment for His Papers in America.

THE news is pretty grim. What was expected when I was in England about a month ago seems coming at last. It was being awaited with confidence. The grapple with Hitlerism and all it means is here. Now is the day and now is the hour. Listening to the wireless stories and analysis of the fight as one sat in a Cleveland household, it was all different from watching the struggle at home. Great Britain here seems remote and small and as the news comes in from the centers of our enemies one senses the darkness that has spread all over free Europe, leaving the only spot on which the light of freedom is shining, battling alone as it did against Napoleon's skill and fury. It is not a time for heroics, but Campbell's lines can be recalled today as then:

The meteor flag of England
Shall yet terrific burn.

No one in England has any doubt of the result of the battle of England.

Until I got aboard the Clipper to take me to New York I had never heard anyone discuss or even mention a possible defeat. Since then I have heard so much of it that I thought the only way to be enheartened would be to go home. It will be the same there today, and the defense of the country is now stronger and readier.

Hitler's policy of mobilizing fear, begun at first when he was weak by domesticating the enemy as he persecuted and tortured the Jews, brutalizing the youth of Germany in carrying out the persecutions; then by the merciless punishment of all who fled to other countries and, if they could not be reached, their inoffensive families and relatives offered; then in the Low Countries and elsewhere by his threats that made men's knees as water so that their rulers feared to make any contacts with the Allies and exchange plans that might have saved them.

Massacres From Air.

Fear he used, too, by his massacres from the aid of the civilian fugitives on the open roads of France. Nearly all the British soldiers who were in France had seen or knew of these horrors. They have told their people at home and the whole country knows. Whatever temporary successes, if any, Hitler's blitzkrieg may gain, there will not be those scenes in England. The roads will be kept clear for the defense columns and the people will bear what comes to them. In many offices and homes in Great Britain you will see a card, sometimes framed, of the final part of Churchill's speech in the Commons last June:

"We shall not flag or fail, we shall fight on the seas and oceans, we shall fight with growing confidence and growing strength in the air, we shall defend our island, whatever the cost may be. . . . We shall never surrender."

How fortunate is England in these hours of her destiny that she should be led by a man with Pitt's dogged courage and his power to give winged words to the spirit of the nation!

The ordinary man in England is perhaps less imaginative and so less apprehensive than the Continental, as would be natural enough in a country with no land frontiers and no memories of invasions and massacres. And so you find as you go about the land a frivolity of mind and disposition to joke about the horrors, a mood that, however trying it may be to some, is a buffer and a safety valve. The much-quoted remark of the workman to his mate, who was distressed by the fall of France—with Britain now alone in its fight with Germany—"what more dost tha want—don't tha see we're in the final?" was how it would appear to many Englishmen.

Soldiers' Reaction.

The other national trait is the almost inhuman separation of mind that many show in times of stress. One soldier told of how he had come through all sorts of terrible happenings until he reached the beach at Dunkerque, "but when I say all them little boats and the Margate Belle and the Saucy Susy, I tell you I could hardly help me laughing."

Another soldier on the Dunkerque beach was found naked washing his underwear when the officer was getting his men together. He explained: "Well, you see, sir, I got them all in the oil when I was in the water and I didn't know what my old woman would say if I took them home like that."

Legends of Dunkerque are all over the land. Green-grocers' boys and butchers' boys you used to meet on the stairs are now hard-looking soldiers coming up to show the maid servants their steel helmets dented with bullets at Dunkerque. Although the Belgium surrender uncovered their flank and they had to retreat, they were never broken and they believe themselves to be better men than the Germans. At a Surrey inn an old laborer with a mustache like a piece of rope was handing around the room his son's helmet, pointing out the dents, while the boy was preparing to rejoin his unit after hospital treatment.

Scenes like that must have been seen in that ancient room in the French wars of Cressy and Agincourt. It was also characteristic that in this inn, even when the news was dark as it is this week, the old men were discussing what was to be done with Hitler. "They've got to 'and him over," one said. "It ain't no good talking—they've got to 'and him over —same's Napoleon. We'll put him where he won't do no harm." This may be the stupidity against which the Gods rage in vain but its very far from the predisposition to fear on which the Reich command counts.

Unity and Sacrifice.

The spirit of unity and sacrifice in the country is greater I think than in the last war. The trade unions have given up privileges gained through years of hard struggle; the business men following their newspapers, cried out that Sir John Simon's income tax increase to seven-sixths per pound was not enough and did not squeal when the supplementary budget put two-sixths on that, although most people will be paying their taxes on a heavy year with their reduced income, so that some will be paying all that they make.

A brilliant young costumer in Bond street, who had established a promising business, told me that she had shut her shop and was taking a two months special course in nursing work, after which she would be in it till the end of the war, and several young Bond street designers were also putting their clever fingers to this use.

The middle-aged Fleet street messengers are in the balloon barrage. A goodly portion of the conscientious objectors in the North have given up their registration and gone to help the country. Elderly ladies are working in the canteens for soldiers with the A. R. P. staff.

All this went on in the last war, but it seems more prevalent this time. There is little grousing, although the sand-bagging of the street fronts and the occasional scarcity of torch refills produced a population of scratched noses and broken shins before the raids started at all. Beer and whisky have risen and the Scotman's complaint of the cost of living going up to 16-6 a bottle was a cry from the heart. The greatest hardship to many is the petrol ration, which cuts off people from the country and curtails all social life, and there are other scarcities, of which food, however, is not one, so long as you don't expect all the pre-war standards.

Quality of Airmen.

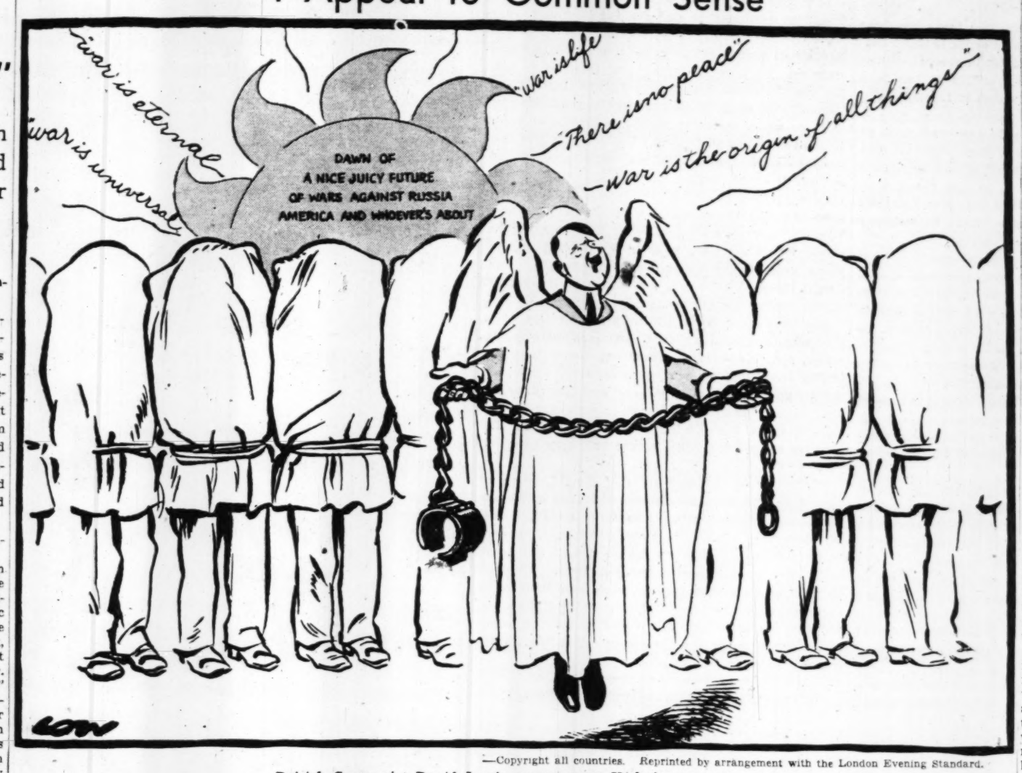

Our casualties in the air are always serious for every airman is a picked man, and the country and the Dominions mourn young heroes. The first fighters quickly established their prestige over the Germans, and their successors have maintained it. With such reservoirs of adventurous, inventive young men as Canada, Australia and New Zealand produce, as well as our own islanders, we have now, I am told, a force of the same quality as our first contingent (many of whom of course are still in the fighting line) while the Germans, who have no such recruiting ground, save, if any, in subjected countries, are said to be mainly in their fourth line of quality.

With the island crowded with soldiers, English, Scottish, Welsh and Irish—you have only to read the casualty lists to see how large a proportion of Irish names is still in the army—the Canadians, Australians, New Zealanders, South Africans and other free men from over-seas, with our air men above and the navy on the waters, Herr Hitler and his men are awaited on and over the shores of Britain.

There will be blood and tears but he shall not pass. He may have some surprises for us. We may have some nasty ones for him. The weeks will show.

There are some in America who still think that appeasement or a peace reply to Hitler's "appeal to treason" may be in the minds of some British statesmen. In England we thought all that was ended by the blood test of Oran. To fire on the ships and men of our old ally then was the most grievous decisons a British cabinet has ever had to take and the most terrible thing the British navy had to carry out. But it had to be done and it was done; and it could only have been done if there were no thought of appeasement.

Blockade Stirs French Feeling Against British

Hope for Nazi Victory Expressed in Press—Famine in Some Places.

By PAUL GHALI

VICHY, Aug. 16.

WITH France on the verge of experiencing the efficiency of the British blockade, a new wind of anti-British feeling is passing over this country today. Last week, hopes of an understanding with Great Britain were high and there was talk of the exchange of official emissaries, but with yesterday's British refusal to permit three Greek ships laden with corn from the Argentine to enter the unoccupied zone of France, these hopes were dashed.

Foreign Minister Paul Baudouin was rather pessimistic in the public declarations he made yesterday in the Paris-soir. Strangely enough he used the same arguments as the German Propaganda Ministry.

"The blockade strikes at innocent women and children," stated Baudouin. "It is a harshness this country will never forget. The blockade will not hurt Germany, whose capacity for resistance is enormous, but will chiefly injure France.

"Formal guarantees have been given Britain that any food shipped to France would be for the French people alone," the Minister asserted. He concluded by saying that he was still hopeful.

Hope for British Defeat.

Much more violent is the comment of Marcel Deat in today's L'Oeuvre.

According to Deat, the only chance that France will not starve this winter is the quick defeat of Great Britain. He avers that all Frenchmen must wish for the British defeat because it will be its possessions, not France's, which will be taken by the conquerors.

French military circles still think that British defeat is inevitable. A French air expert told this correspondent that it was his personal conviction, from figures available here, that Britain could only oppose 2000 first-class planes against 5000 German and an unknown number of Italian planes.

Another indication of the general feeling here was the place given in French newspapers this morning to the speech of United States Navy Secretary Col. Frank Knox, which apparently expressed the fear that Britain could only hold out two months—which Germany is playing up in its propaganda.

Famine in Some Areas.

Undoubtedly the indignation expressed here today against Britain is genuine. By the blockade of France, England overlooks the fact that every increase of difficulty for France means a tightening of the German grip on this country.

Famine is already apparent in some districts. The Germans are likely to find this a good opportunity to put the responsibility on the Vichy Government, with the motive of lessening the popularity of the Petain ministry. Famine in every country leads to revolution. In case of social troubles, the Vichy Government might be declared incapable of maintaining order.

Egypt Still Balks, But Cotton May Force It to Fight Italy

British Have Offered to Buy 1940 Crop and Country May Have to Enter War to Protect Most Vital Interest.

By RICHARD MOWRER

CAIRO, Aug. 16.

WILL Egypt fight if invaded? This is still a moot question. Yet, since the outbreak of the war, Great Britain's political relations with Egypt have undergone a distinct change for the better. More than anything else Britain's offer to buy up Egypt's 1940 cotton crop is responsible for this.

In June it was all the British could do to get the Egyptian Government to break off relations with Italy. Egypt is not bound by treaty to go to war if its British ally is involved in conflict with a third party. Egypt is held only to furnish all assistance to its ally in the matter of communications and maintenance of order in the country. And, it has complied with the treaty to the letter.

Reluctant to Fight.

Before the war continues much longer, however, Egypt's vital problem may not rest so much on the treaty as on whether it can further its own interests by helping Britain keep the Italians out of the country.

In June the Aly Maher Government stated that it would not go to war unless the Italians actually bombed Egyptian towns, invaded Egypt and attacked Egyptian troops. This statement was indorsed by Parliament. Yet, when the Italians bombed the Egyptian border town at Sollum and killed Egyptian troops there and in other places, Aly Maher suggested that such incidents could be settled diplomatically.

Since then the Aly Maher Cabinet has been changed to a cabinet headed by Hassan Sabry Pasha; Great Britain has agreed to buy Egypt's cotton crop; the possibility of an Italian invasion is being publicized, and the press and some politicians are suggesting that Egypt will go to war if the Italians invade the country.

Cotton's Importance.

For the first time since Italy's entry into the war, Egypt feels it has a real community of interest with Britain. Cotton is the source of Egypt's wealth. Ninety-five per cent of the population is affected one way or another by what happens to this crop. Italy's entrance into the war cut off Egypt from its various cotton markets and most of its trade routes and for the past few weeks Egyptians have shown more concern over the cotton situation than the war itself.

Last week Britain came to the rescue. The cotton is not yet picked and it will not be ready for shipment before October. Britain's purchase offer stands until April. With immediate worry over the cotton crop removed, the Egyptians are more aware of the war. The popular tone is, "What will happen to us (and the cotton Britain has offered to buy) if the Italians come?"

By the cotton deal Britain is assured of more political and popular support than it has enjoyed in the past and increases the chances of getting Egypt's military support as well. Coming events may compel Egypt to face a decision on the matter of fighting Italy. However, this correspondent hesitates to say that the decision will be in favor of war.

BRITISH GIVE NAVAL LOSSES IN WAR SO FAR AS 47 UNITS

Admiralty Puts Figure Against Enemy Claims That 269 Ships Have Been Sunk.

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP). — The Admiralty said today Britain had lost in the war to date only 47 naval units as against German and Italian claims that 269 British battleships, battle cruisers, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines had been destroyed.

British, Allied and neutral merchant losses up to Aug. 4 were 2,514,199 tons, compared with German claims of 5,078,038 tons, it declared.

BRITISH SALVAGE SCRAP IRON FROM WRECKS ALONG COAST

About 1000 Tons a Week Recovered So Far, Ministry of Supply Announces.

(Copyright, 1940.)

LONDON, Aug. 16—Approximately 1000 tons of scrap iron are salvaged each week from the shipwrecks off the British coast for use in war industries, it is announced today by the Ministry of Supply.

Since the outbreak of war, 13,140 tons of railings have been removed and 10,000 tons of tramway lines have been taken up, and instructions have also been issued for the collection of 800 World War cannon and 21 tanks.

RAIDS ON ITALY SHOW R. A. F. STILL RETAINS EFFECTIVE STRIKING POWER, PRATT SAYS

Nazis Yet to Make Big Dent in British Air Force—Channel Action Involving New Destroyer a Sign That England Has Stepped Up Construction.

By FLETCHER PRATT

Author, Historian and Contributor to Military Journels.

THE British raids on the Italian factories are the most encouraging news yet for those who want the Allies to win, and they are reinforced by another piece of news hardly less so—that two British destroyers, one of which was H. M. S. Malcolm, engaged German light craft at night in the channel and sank a motor torpedo boat.

It was obvious from the beginning of the great air battle that the Axis would have to get rid of the R. A. F. before it had any chance of real victory. The raids on Italy are good evidence that they have not got rid of the R. A. F. yet or even made a sizeable dent in it.

The planes that struck into Mussolini's land (early Wednesday and today) could only have flown all the way from England. These are the longest serious bombing raids yet attempted in the war, for an earlier raid on Italy, just after the Fascists entered the conflict, was more of a warning and demonstration than serious business.

Wednesday, it was evident both from the British accounts and from the anger aroused in Italy, the raiders really hit something and really hurt. It is not likely that the Italian aircraft factories were seriously crippled on any permanent basis, but they have at least been slowed up on production, there seems to have been a good deal of damage, and, most important of all, the Italian plans have been upset.

Diversion of War Effort.

Italy now will have to call some of its air squadrons home and take defensive measures of all kinds.

That is, the total result will be a considerable diversion of the Italian war effort over and above the actual damage caused by bombs.

The news is also encouraging from two other points of view. If the British nighthawk bombers can reach that far, they also can go deep into Germany. The next thing we hear of from that quarter may well be a raid on Prague or Vienna. That is, the British have demonstrated they have the machines and pilots to strike at a distance at which German raids have been notably ineffective. In the fighting in Norway, German raiders operating from as near as Stavanger were unable to conduct effective bombing operations at Narvik.

The little action in the channel is also enocuraging. H. M. S. Malcolm is a very recent destroyer, only laid down in 1939. The fact that it is in service and fighting already means that British destroyer construction has stepped up very fast, for this particular ship was not supposed to be finished before 1941, and after being completed had to go through a training and shakedown period. If England can turn out destroyers this rapidly and can hold the pace, it may not be necessary to send those 50 old American destroyers.

Nazi Claims Contradicted.

There is also the fact that this news comes at the very height of the aerial blitzkrieg, when the Germans are claiming they have complete control of the channel, and the air over the channel. If there is anything that the war in the air has demonstrated thus far, it is that destroyers are peculiarly vunerable to attack from the skies. If the Germans really had the complete aerial control of the channel they claim, it would be extremely dangerous for destroyers to venture in there. But we hear of no German airplanes attacking the Malcolm and its consort.

That is, the British destroyers were conducting their patrol in perfect ease; they shot up and drove off German light craft.

While this sort of thing goes on, there is little chance that an invasion will be successful.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Schools Should Practice Democracy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial on the necessity of teaching democracy in our schools strikes a responsive note. It is certainly true that we must first understand democracy in order to practice it successfully, and the place to begin is in the school.

That means teaching a real appreciation of tolerance, the right to let the other fellow have his way, even though we may think what he says is downright dangerous, a defense of minorities, and, of course, complete religious freedom. Superintendent Anderson and his associates have an opportunity to render a lasting service to St. Louis and to America.

I hope also that there will be a practicing of democracy in the schools, as well as a teaching of it. This is equally necessary. Examples are always more forceful than mere words. A good start could be made by reinstating Robert Reed, who was fired as a teacher because he is a member of an unpopular religious sect, Jehovah's Witnesses.

I have had the opportunity to make some investigation of that case, and I find the action unprecedented, and thoroughly unjustified. If such action stands, the teaching of democracy would soon tend to become mere lip service, in my judgment.

I hope the Post-Dispatch will continue its campaign and that, as a starter, it will insist that religious views are no bar to a job in the public schools.

VICTOR B. HARRIS.

On Looking at a Certain Billboard.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SEE even the Republicans agree, according to their posters, that a man who says a democracy is "America with Willkie" is a man who isn't using his head. M. Q.

A Four-Point Program.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE preservation of our institutions clearly demands, it seems to me:

1. Enactment of a compulsory military service law. It is important that this be not delayed by too protracted argument regarding details.

2. Authorization for the sale of 50 destroyers to Great Britain. Here again, speedy action is in the interest of the people of the United States.

3. Facilitation of increased commerce and common action by this country with the other American republics.

4. Examination of the possibility of cooperating with the British commonwealths in establishing a federal union of democracies as soon as possible.

If these proposals seem fantastic and terrifying, they are not as fantastic and terrifying as the kind of world in which we may reasonably expect to find ourselves.

Senator Norris made the best argument against conscription yet offered when he said that he would prefer the end of our civilization to the interferences with democratic processes resulting from conscription.

But it is inconceivable that our country will risk suicide in comparison with taking whatever measures are necessary to defend the democratic way of life.

WILLIAM W. BURKE.

A Democrat Rebels.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IF my vote means anything at the November election, I will cast it as many thousands of dissatisfied Democrats will —in favor of the Republican candidates to beat the St. Louis Democratic political machine. A. FREEMAN.

Compliment for Highway Department.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT is indeed gratifying to see the Missouri Highway Department following the worthy example of several other states by marking with yellow lines, denoting a no-passing zone, those parts of our main traveled highways where visibility is poor. If motorists will heed these lines, the Highway Department will be repaid many times for this extra thoughtfulness through the lives saved and accidents prevented.

A Comment on Cudahy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

HOW different it would have been if Cudahy had told us that the German soldiers cut the Belgian children's hands off. (Propaganda from the World War.) We would have celebrated him as a great hero. J. L. SMITH.

Fears Another 1920.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE people of the United States are being asked to turn out a Democratic administration and accept leadership of the Republican party. The last time the people turned out a Democratic administration and accepted Republican leadership in place thereof was in 1920, when they discarded Woodrow Wilson's idealism and his plan for world peace.

And what did the people get? The Harding administration scandals and Hoover's depression.

GEORGE L. PAYNE.

GUNS AND BUTTER, TOO.

There is no doubt but that the tax concessions which the administration is granting war-expanded industries are causing President Roosevelt some sharp pangs. They are being granted only after weeks of study by William S. Knudsen, chairman of the National Defense Commission, and upon his assurance that they are necessary to get the defense program under way.

On the part of some corporations there has been what closely resembles a sit-down strike to wring concessions from the Government. But in general, capital is simply showing the same timidity it has been showing for several years in respect to investment in peacetime industries.

The suspension of the 8 to 10 per cent limit on profits from the manufacture of airplanes and warships, and permission for the cost of new armament plants to be written off in full in five years, were seemingly required to persuade investors to risk their money in factories whose value might be seriously impaired if the war crisis subsides.

President Roosevelt seems to have considered that he had the choice of either granting private capital the tax concession in question or putting the Government itself into the business of manufacturing armaments. Upon the advice of Mr. Knudsen, he chose the former alternative.

There is room to believe that he may be going further than necessary in the direction of "appeasing" the arms industry. Certainly this is the effect of removing from the naval construction bill the clause which would have permitted the Government to take over and operate the shipyards whose owners seem bent upon profiteering.

In the pending excess profits bill, the top rate of 40 per cent seems mild by comparison with the maximum rate of 80 per cent collected in the World War. But this comparison does not tell the whole story.

For many corporations, the difference between a narrow and a broad interpretation of the amount of invested capital may mean more than the difference between a top rate of 40 and one of 80 per cent.

For another thing, the attitude of the Bureau of Internal Revenue in interpreting the regulations may be of equal importance with the law itself. There is a great deal of difference between tax laws administered by a bureau headed by easy-going "Uncle Dan" Roper, who was in charge in World War days, and a New Deal bureau operating under the strict code evolved by the late Herman Oliphant.

In a sense, the New Deal is paying the price for failing before now to provide conditions under which capital would feel free to flow into new enterprises. If there were a healthful and confident feeling in business as a whole, defense industries might be created, as they were in the World War, without Government coddling.

One of the worst errors—perhaps the very worst—of the New Deal has been in failing to take steps to promote the flow of our 50 billion dollars' worth of idle capital into new enterprises, to create new jobs and a higher standard of living.

From such contrasting sources as Stuart Chase, the unorthodox economist who writes for the liberal weeklies, to Fortune, which prides itself on being the economic mentor of Wendell Willkie, have come proposals for taxes to force idle capital to flow into productive enterprises.

Fortune has given the accolade of "progressive" to schemes to "tax equity income at lower rates than bond or mortgage income; to tax cash balances; to allow corporations to make deductions for money invested in new enterprises; to tax idle capacity, and so forth."

With more directness, Mr. Chase inquires, in a recent issue of the New Republic, "Why not slap a good, stiff income tax on those of us who save and have no outlet for investment—on both individuals and corporations? . . . Spend it for defense; make it perform the real function of money, which is to move."

In Germany, and to a lesser extent in France and Britain, rearmament has been a question of "guns or butter." In the United States, this choice is not necessary. If we can put our idle men and idle money to work, we can have guns and butter, too.

MR. WALLACE TURNS IN HIS RESIGNATION.

Henry A. Wallace's resignation from the Cabinet takes out of the campaign any issue arising from having the Secretary of Agriculture and administrator of the agricultural benefit program a candidate for the vice-presidency. This is both good government and good politics. The Democrats will be as well advised to get rid of their campaign book nuisance. It will plague them just as a refusal by Mr. Wallace to resign would have done.

PRESIDENT EAGLETON'S INDORSEMENT.

The letter of President Mark D. Eagleton of the Board of Education, printed in the Post-Dispatch yesterday, brings strong support to the movement to establish an integrated, cumulative program for teaching democratic principles and practice in the St. Louis schools.

His support of the idea, coupled with that of Superintendent Homer W. Anderson and various members of the board, assures a serious study of the problem by local school authorities. More than that, it augurs well for the adoption of a program which will start in the first grade and carry on through the last year of high school.

Nothing else, we are convinced, will suffice. The new arrangement of high school courses, announced this week as drawn up by a committee headed by Assistant Superintendent John Rush Powell, doubtless will help. But democratic teaching must begin before high school if it is to bring the improvement in the quality of citizenship that is so sorely needed. The first grade is none too early to start.

St. Louis, as Mr. Eagleton says, has "a great opportunity." Every thoughtful citizen will hope to see it realized to the fullest.

PROTOCOL IN THE BAHAMAS.

The experts on protocol are all a-dither. Nassau has gone to the unprecedented extreme of building a dais for Wallis Warfield in the throne room of the Governor of the Bahamas.

Tradition decrees that the lady of Government House should take her place with the officials of the colony. But the rank of Mayfair's Marvelous Maid obviously indicates a clean break. So an exclusive little red-covered platform, one foot higher than the floor and one foot lower than the Governor's throne, has been built.

This would seem to be a very adroit compromise, worthy of the very major-domo of St. James's. But there are a few questions. Is this a scheme on the part of the island dowagers to purchase exemption from the curtsy that might be expected of them? Will the Baltimore Belle stand for that? May she not demand that the canopy over her husband's throne be stretched to cover hers, too? May she not demand that extra foot, too?

It's a delicate and dangerous situation. But such crises are not unknown in democratic Washington. Remember Dolly Gann?

TO REPLACE THE NATIONAL GUARD.

Now that both houses of Congress have voted the President authority to call out the National Guard for active service, this important part of the defense forces will soon begin to receive some badly needed training. High as its morale and spirit have been, the militia could not be other than inadequately trained with only 48 drill periods a year, plus two or three weeks annually in camp. Now, with intensive instruction and practice, its members will soon become capable teachers for new recruits, or efficient soldiers in emergency.

It is planned to call 55,000 men Sept. 15, and to have the full 220,000 in service by next January. This raises the question of what will take the National Guard's place in their home communities. Plans already are under way for creating Home Guard units, to take over the duties of the regular militia during its absence.

One proposal is for enrolling private police units, such as mine guards, railroad detectives and company police, for this service. Their experience in police duties is offered as a recommendation. However, private guards have often gone beyond their duties of safeguarding property and bear an unsavory reputation in many states. They are distinctly not the type for the work a Home Guard unit may be called upon to do.

Far better is the suggestion of Gov. Lehman of New York and Adjutant-General Erickson of Massachusetts, for building this new force around World War veterans in the various communities. These ex-soldiers have had military training, and the great majority are citizens of sound judgment. It might be well to go a step further, also, and include in these units younger men, subject to conscription under the proposed law, who could be getting some training and a sense of responsibility while awaiting a possible call to service.

THE GREATEST HUMANITARIANS OF THEM ALL!

By the overwhelming vote of 69 to 3, the picture theater operators of Milwaukee have decided to put an end to double-feature bills. On and after Sept. 3, the people of the Wisconsin metropolis will be able to go to the movies without gulping their dinner and skipping the dessert, and they will get home before bedtime. Further, they will have seen just what they went to see. They will not be wearied, bored or exasperated by the added feature.

As might have been expected; this great reform originates in a city long famed for its leisurely good living. If it spreads to the rest of the country, Sept. 3 will be printed on the calendar in ink almost as red as that used for July 4, for this bold action gives new meaning to our constitutional title to the pursuit of happiness.

If this idea spreads, those Milwaukee theater owners must and will be hailed as the greatest humanitarians of them all!

FIVE-STAR HOLLYWOOD WITCH HUNT.

Los Angeles can always be trusted to put on a good show, whether it is on a Hollywood set or at a murder trial under the direction of the redoubtable District Attorney Buron Fitts. They have been so well drilled by the press agents out there that they just can't help doing things in a way that is sure to make the headlines.

The latest five-star feature is a charge of Communism against a dozen or so film notables. Of course, it is strange that grand jury testimony should be made public even before the jurors have reported their findings. It is a little odd, too, that it should be the testimony of a house painter who has admitted accepting money so that he might be a witness against Harry Bridges, the labor leader.

Such considerations obviously are trifles when a man is up for re-election, as is Mr. Fitts. And the Dies Committee, which is hurrying to the scene, is not to be deterred by punctilio when there is such a splendid opportunity to perform before the 85,000,000 members of the movie audience.

Those advertised Hollywood salaries would hardly lead one to expect it, but, for all we know, there may be any number of Reds and fellow-travelers among the Beverly Hills cocktail sippers. However, the current three-ring investigation is not going to make it easier for us to believe it.

HITLER PUTS OUT ANOTHER LIGHT.

The Grand Duchy of Luxembourg appealed to American sentiment because its flag, too, was red, white and blue. But we admired it more because it was a welcoming way-station for the refugee fleeing the Nazi terror.

That terror has now overtaken the little country. As of Aug. 15, the Germans have decreed the end of its customs and currency union with Belgium. Its Constitution has been declared invalid. It must not even be mentioned by its official name. Henceforth, it is to be nothing more than a helpless vassal of the Reich.

"One by one, the lights of Europe are going out."

IMPROVING SOCIAL SECURITY.

Senator Wagner's bill to extend old-age and unemployment insurance to some groups not now covered is a forward step in the social security program.

This bill, which has administration backing, will extend contributory old-age insurance to approximately 10,000,000 agricultural and domestic workers, employes of state and local governments, non-civil-service Federal employes and employes of religious, charitable and educational institutions. All these groups, except agricultural and domestic workers, will also be brought under the unemployment insurance program, as will employes of firms hiring fewer than eight workers, who hitherto have been ineligible to unemployment compensation.

So increasingly irregular and uncertain is farm employment that there seems no feasible way to bring workers in this field into the unemployment insurance program. We may even wonder whether, for the same reason, contributory old-age insurance may not be of doubtful value for this group. Regrettable though it is, the main dependence for protecting this group may continue for some time to be direct relief and non-contributory old-age assistance.

Mr. Willkie, it is reported, no sooner arrived in Indiana than he lost his hat. Surely not the one he threw into the ring?

RED GARTERS IN HOLLYWOOD.

To an Honest Opponent of Conscription

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Name-calling in draft debate is decried by Baltimore writer; finds motives of most opponents sincere and honorable; calls for patience, to preserve unity; says volunteer system is inadequate, and wrong men will enlist; early training may avert butchery if war occurs.

Gerald W. Johnson in the Baltimore Evening Sun.

THERE is an unfortunate disposition in some quarters to brand everyone who opposes conscription as either an extreme pacifist, who would rather see this country surrender than fight, or an extreme coward, who would rather crawl in the dirt than fight, or a secret friend of the dictators, who wants to see this country beaten.

I think this is both unjust and untrue; but I am bound to admit that I don't think it is unnatural. People who have any real appreciation of the fix this country is in are too much alarmed to be patient with those who still do not understand exactly where we are.

However, they should attempt to muster patience, for, if their own estimate of the situation is correct, the one thing this country will need above all else during the next 12 or 18 months is unity. Disunion among his enemies is Hitler's best weapon. In Norway, in Belgium and, above all, in France, disaffection counted for as much as tanks.

In the United States, there is very little outspoken admiration for Hitler and his regime. Doubtless we have our Quislings, our Leopolds, our Lavals, but they are pretty small fry. If disaffection arises in this country, it will be attributed far less to treason than to sleepiness.

Take, for example, such a man as Senator Vandenberg. Any suggestion that the loyalty of the Senator from Michigan is questionable would be silly. Yet he has declared publicly that the army can be filled up with volunteers, and he has certainly implied that it will be quite all right to fill it that way.

There isn't a high military authority in the country who believes it possible to get a million volunteers for service before war has broken out.

But if it were possible to get them, that isn't the way to fill up an army of national defense. There are several reasons why this is true. The first is that when you take in masses of volunteers you are sure to get a great many of the wrong men.

For example, the Martin airplane company here in Baltimore employs thousands of skilled aircraft workers, many of them young and high-spirited, and therefore likely to take a notion that they ought to join the army. Not a man of them should be permitted to do so voluntarily, and for the simplest reason in the world—the individual worker does not know and cannot know whether his services are needed worse in the army or in the factory.

The army needs a certain number of aircraft mechanics, to be sure, but only the high command knows exactly how many, and those not absolutely essential to the army ought to be kept where they are.

The American Medical Association has recognized the fact that it is as necessary to draft some men to stay at home as it is to draft others to go to war. It has recently set up committees in all the states who are charged with a double duty, (a) to designate certain doctors who may serve with the army and (b) to designate certain others who are not to be taken into the military service, but must stay at home to look after the civilian population.

Draft or no draft, doctors will not be permitted to do as they please. They will go where they are sent, and I have yet to hear of a doctor who thinks there is any disgrace in promptly and cheerfully obeying orders.

To some extent, the same thing applies to the whole population. The average American is willing to do anything that is necessary to defend his country. He knows it is his duty, and he will do it.

Most of us know that it is the duty of something like a million men to set themselves at once to intensive study of the profession of arms—but which men? Obviously, not the old and feeble. Obviously not half-grown kids. But between those limits there are something like 20 times the number needed at once. Should John Jones go, or Bill Smith, or both, or neither? It isn't fair to put that question up to John and Bill because the answer depends on any number of things they do not know—the needs of the army, the needs of the supply service, the needs of the civilian population, the needs of the national economy.

About these things the Government does know. Therefore, the Government should tell the boys what they are to do.

But there is another objection, voiced in Baltimore last Sunday by three Methodist ministers, all of whom in their sermons, asked, Why take men now? None of them denied that a man should fight for his country in case of need. None denied the country's right to resort to conscription if it must. But all of them asked, Why draft men in time of peace when there is no prospect that an enemy is going to invade us immediately?

Part of the answer to that is that it is a mercy to the men. If there is a war, they will have to go; and if they have to go without knowing how to take care of themselves, a great many will be killed unnecessarily. If they have spent a year learning the rudiments of warfare, they will not only be able to hit the enemy harder but they will also know how to keep the enemy from hitting them.

Take, for example, one of the simplest and one of the most frequent operations in modern warfare—an infantry attack on a machine-gun position. Raw troops would simply walk up on the gun and be killed to a man. Half-trained troops would attempt to take cover, but, knowing little about it, would be killed in large numbers. Skillful troops would know how to take advantage of every least fold in the ground as they crept up on the gun, and the gunners would find them extremely difficult to hit.

Skillful troops would take the position with the loss of only a man or two, where raw troops would not take it at all, and half-trained troops would take it only after appalling losses.

We may have to fight. There is no getting around that obvious fact. Then why risk the butchery of hundreds of thousands of fine American boys when, by giving them a year's training, we can give them a chance to take care of themselves?

A year's training will not make a competent, finished soldier; but even one year's training would cut down enormously the percentage of casualties. To oppose it, under present conditions, is to oppose a measure that protects not only the nation but the lives of the men who must defend the nation.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

From the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

A boom between now and Nov. 5 will be ascribed to (A) the New Deal and its works, or (B) the expectation of a Republican victory. Vote for one.

The Collapse of France

Books in the News

BEFORE the Battle of France, there appeared in Germany an estimate of France's strength that showed to the prophet's satisfaction that she must lose the war. This book, by A. Reithinger, proved so tragically accurate that it has been translated and renamed "Why France Lost the War" (Veritas Press, New York).

The book, naturally, mentions no treachery or intrigue of any kind; nothing more melodramatic than France's zinc supply. It is an objective story, not bitter in spirit, told chiefly in graphs and statistics. It lists the lack of men to fight the war and the lack of money to finance the war as the primary reasons for defeat.

That Germany, without Italy's help, could muster almost as many soldiers in the important 20-to-30-year age class as France could in the three classes from 20 to 50 is indicative of the Nazis' strength.

But then the mobilization of 5,000,000 men would almost annihilate France's commerce. It would remove 40 per cent of all employed males from their previous occupations. This removal would cripple the most important branches in a war: the mining and chemical industries which employ men of the age needed to fight the war.

Although Mr. Reithinger says he wishes to avoid the "danger of too pessimistic an estimate," he manages to convey a grim impression of France's wealth in foreign investments, which had sunk from 45 billion gold francs, before the first World War, to four or five billion gold francs before the second World War.

This was plainly, on its original appearance, a propaganda volume, designed to rouse optimism in German readers over the chances for conquering France. Nevertheless, it is a carefully documented study, and many of its assertions have been uncannily verified. Shortly after his surrender, when he still spoke as a defeated Frenchman and not as a Nazi puppet, Marshal Petain said: "Not so strong as 22 years ago, we had fewer friends, too few children, too few allies. There is the cause of our defeat."

The book closes with a pessimistic outlook for France's future, "no matter how the military events are decided." Reduced from a one-time major Power to a small state, it will present "a biologically greatly undermined national body, an exhausted economy, and a financial economy stripped of its last reserves." J. J. F.

The Dutch: Indomitable but Naive.

ADRIAAN J. BARNOUW, a native of The Netherlands and now a language professor at Columbia University, draws an affectionate portrait of his people in "The Dutch" (Columbia University Press, New York). Since the book was written before the Nazi invasion, many of the facts about Dutch institutions are now history rather than news, but it is scarcely conceivable that the people's character as here described can have altered. Surely a nation that patiently fought the sea for 400 years, and proved its right to be called indomitable, will not be easy to subdue permanently.

The Dutch are also described by Prof. Barnouw as realistic. Yet they were certainly naive in their steady refusal to accept the treaties offered by Britain and France. This writer explains their reasoning: "A protective alliance with one of the Powers called Great would not protect but would rather endanger the Dutch nation." So the Nazis had an easy victory. F. LAST OF HAY FEVER SEASONS HERE BEGUN

Low Count in Ragweed Pollen in Final of Three Annual Onsets of the Disease.

The third and worst of St. Louis' three hay fever seasons began "officially," as the allergists have it, with some encouragement for the afflicted in its first 24-hour pollen count, at 9 a. m. today, showing only 10 grains of ragweed pollen to the cubic yard of St. Louis atmosphere.

Specialists in allergy sonsider that 25 grains to the cubic yard may cause symptoms. Beginning today, in response to repeated suggestions by hay-fever sufferers, the Post-Dispatch will publish pollen count in the daily weather report on the front page. It is considered that the actual figure may obviate needless fears when the "official" season is on but the actual count is low.

In addition to physicians who make a daily count for use in their own specialized practice, it is made for St. Louis and many other cities by the research botanist of a manufacturer, whose laboratory is in North Chicago. Microscopic slides exposed for 24 hours by the local Weather Bureau are collected daily and sent each week to the botanist.

Sampling the Atmosphere.

The atmospheric sampling which is the basis of the figures printed by this newspaper is taken on an upper window ledge of the Missouri building. Pollen adheres to a microscopic slide covered with a sticky material. The slide is changed every 24 hours, at 9 a. m., and the pollen grains are counted microscopically on an area of 1.8 square centimeters. The resulting figure is equivalent to the average pollen concentration to the cubic yard during the period of exposure.

Earliest of the annual hay fever seasons here, Dr. French K. Hansel of St. Louis reports this summer in the Missouri State Medical Journal, is the "tree" season, early March to early June, to which the pollen of elm, cedar, maple, willow, poplar, sycamore, pecan, hickory and walnut are contributors.

Second is the "rose fever" season, which has nothing to do with roses but rather with grasses, beginning in May, heightened in mid-June by timothy—from which hay fever got its name in 1873—and kept going by red-top and other hardened offenders until Aug. 1. In mid-August the ragweed season is under way, and it continues ordinarily through September, although last year it went on for another month.

Less Pollen This Season.

This year's ragweed season is expected to be comparatively light. The daily pollen counts so far have remained less than 10, generally less than five. Dr. Hansel attributed the low counts to lack of early rain, dwarfing the growth of ragweed in comparison to last year's bumper crop.

With that crop, peak counts extended from Aug. 18 to Sept. 9 last year, in comparison to the usual eight to ten days, comprising the last three to five days of August and the first five days of September. An extreme of nearly 1300 grains to the cubic yard was reached on the Sunday before Labor day—just when hundreds of St. Louisans were returning from vacation for the beginning of school.

This sudden drastic exposure after weeks in climates comparatively free of pollen is expected to be noticed even in the prospective-ly light season, in recurrence of symptoms in patients who had been free of them until then. Some tolerance is developed by exposure, explained the Journal article; so that equal pollen concentation produces comparatively lighter affects in the declining latter part of the season than in the early stages, when it is climbing toward the seasonal peak.

PERSHING'S PICTURE ON LADIES' AID COOK BOOK COVER

By the Associated Press.

LACLEDE, Mo., Aug. 16 (AP).—A new cook book, compiled by the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church here, has been placed on sale. The cook book contains the most prized recipes of members, and attractive illustrations, but the greatest pride of the Aid is in the cover illustration. It is a photograph of Laclede's most illustrious native son, General John J. Pershing, put there not merely with his permission, but with his cooperation.

When it was first suggested that a picture of General Pershing would make the best cover design, the idea was considered as entirely too ambitious. It was feared he could not even be reached, because of his position, with a request for permission.

However, Mrs. Lee Wilson, president of the Ladies' Aid, who lives on a farm near here, volunteered to undertake the task. She wrote to Pershing, including the request in a reminiscence of his Sunday School days, and his mother's membership in the same Ladies' Aid.

Instead of the mere letter of permission which at best was hoped for, General Pershing promptly agreed to the request with the announcement that he was having a special photograph for use forwarded from Washington.

POPE BLESSES QUINTUPLETS

Cables Benediction on Occasion of First Communion.

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 16 (AP).—The Dionne quintuplets received the cabled blessing of Pope Pius XII yesterday as they received their first communion in their nursery.

The Papal blessing was read in French to the girls by Bishop Leo Nelligan of the Diocese of Pembroke. The sacrament was administered in the chapel in the nursery dining room. The quintuplets are 6 years old.

PASTOR SAYS WINDSOR SHOULD GO TO INDIA

The Rev. R. A. Jardine Asserts Ex-King Is Best Man for Viceroy Post.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16 (AP).—From his virtual ecclesiastical exile, the English Episcopal clergyman who officiated at the marriage of former King Edward of England and the American divorcee, Wallis Warfield Simpson, today wished them every success in their new post as Governor and first lady of the Bahamas.

But the 62-year-old Rev. Robert A. Jardine, on whom the doors of the Church of England closed because he performed the ceremony three years ago in defiance of church tenets respecting divorce, believes the Duke and Duchess of Windsor are destined for far greater services to the British Empire.

"The Duke should have been given the post of Viceroy of India," said the Rev. Mr. Jardine. "There quite likely will be serious trouble in India as a result of the war, and Edward, in my belief, is best qualified for that post.

"But it may be that his new post may be but a stepping stone for something eventually much better."

The Rev. Mr. Jardine says he has not heard from the Windsors for some time. He expects to go to Florida, however, in October in connection with his motion picture enterprise, and may fly over to Nassau then.

He has become interested in the development and circulation of religious motion pictures for educational purposes now that he finds even American churches have imposed a virtual boycott on him.

The former vicar of St. Paul's at Darlington, England, has written his autobiography, and hopes to publish it shortly. He lives in a modest apartment here with his wife. They closely follow news of the Royal Air Force, in which their two sons are fighting.

"England will win—and Hitler will meet his Waterloo there in the English Channel," the Rev. Mr. Jardine believs.

Files Separate Maintenance Suit.

Mrs. Margery Hocker yesterday filed suit for separate maintenance against her husband, Trew Hocker, 4576 West Pine boulevard, an artist. They were married June 25, 1938, and separated last March 28. She says he has refused to provide for her and has told her he wants a divorce.

HOG TOP LEVEL BEST SINCE LAST OCTOBER

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP).—Advancing 10 to around 30 cents, top hogs in early trade today were lifted to $7.10, the highest level since last October. Hog values were $1.90 per hundredweight above the low point in the June price slump reached on June 20, and 55 cents above the top reached during the same week a year ago.

The previous high for the year, reached on July 8 after an outstanding eight-day price rise from the low of June 20, was 10 cents below today's top. Chief factors attributed to the high hog prices are moderate receipts and active consumer demand for pork cuts. Best wholesale pork loins were quoted at 21 cents a pound, the highest level of the year.

Other markets reported higher hog prices for the day also. Buffalo reported a top of $7.30 upwards to $7.40, Pittsburgh $7.15 and East St. Louis $6.80.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 5 TO 8 POINTS LOWER

Pressure came from scattered liquidation, local selling and light but persistent hedging.

Late prices were 2 to 5 points lower; October, 9.24; December, 9.21; July, 8.73.

Initial prices were: Oct., 9.27; Dec., 9.25; Jan., 9.18A; March, 9.12; May, 8.94; July, 8.74b.

a—Asked. b—Bid.

Cotton opened slightly lower and then held steady in early dealings as a light demand from professionals and trade interests offset scattered hedge selling.

Prices around the end of the first hour held 1 lower to 1 higher; October, 9.28; March, 9.13; July, 8.76.

Little activity appeared in the second hour. Scattered price fixing orders for domestic mill account met limited Southern offerings and prices around midday were unchanged to 2 points lower; Oct., 9.27; Dec., 9.26; May, 8.94.

Futures closed 5-8 lower.

BOND PRICES LOWER IN NEW YORK TRADE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—Desultory selling dragged most bonds down fractions to more than a point today in a market plainly uneasy over the big-scale bombing of England.

Many traders, rather than operate in the dark, stayed out of the dealings awaiting fuller disclosure of the effects of the aerial fighting and British chances of holding out.

British Empire bonds generally were in a narrow range, with minor gains and losses showing in late trading.

Rails slipped and losses of more than a point were recorded in Mobile & Ohio 5s of 1938, Pittsburgh & West Virginia 4½s and New York Central 4½s of 2013.

Among the losers were Commonwealth Edison Convertible 3½s of '58, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s of '61, N. Y. Steam 3½s, Portland General Electric 4½s, Firestone Tire 3½s, Illinois Central 4¾s, and Southern Pacific 4½s of '68.

Gainers included International Paper 5s, Goodrich 4¼s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s of '62, Frisco 4½s of '78, Texas Corp. 3s and Western Union 5s of '65.

German, Japanese and Canadian loans inclined downward while Australian issues improved.

U. S. Governments floated through narrowly mixed price territory.

A few loans carried gains to the close. Ending fractions to around a point higher were Walworth 4s at 69, Loew's 3½s at 103, Armour (Delaware) 4s of '55 at 102, and Nickel Plate 5½s at 63¼.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

STOCK TRADE PICTURE IS DARKENED BY WAR DOUBTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP). — War doubts darkened the stock market picture today and leading industrials slipped fractions to 2 points. There were a few wider declines.

Transfers totaled 312,300 shares.

Bulletins telling of thousands of Nazi bombing planes sweeping over England, with even London itself threatened, tended to chill Wall Street's sepculative ardor, although the strong fighting resistance of the British in the past five days of air battles kept alive the spark of hope that the latest onslaught would be overcome.

Among Day's Movers.

On the side of bullish contingents was the better than ordinary run of business developments at home. All this, though, provided only a small cushion for nervous selling. At the same time, lightness of offerings served to support opinions that the worst that can happen abroad may have been discounted to some extent marketwise.

In arrears were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, American Telephone, Great Northern, Anaconda, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse, du Pont, Union Carbide, Standard Oil of N. J., International Paper preferred and Loft.

Utilities, rails, oils and rubbers were relatively narrow throughout.

Bonds retreated along with commodities. Wheat at Chicago broke 5 cents a bushel but retrieved a portion of this at the finish. This cereal closed down 2⅞ to 3⅝ cents a bushel. Corn was off ⅛ to ⅝. Cotton, in late trades, was 10 to 30 cents a bale lower.

The London Stock Exchange was reported to have shut down for an interval during the sounding of air raid signals, but eventually reopened and prices ended fairly steady.

News of the Day.

Chrysler managed to contest the trend for a while in the wake of announcement the corporation had received a big order for army tanks and would construct a $20,000,000 plant for their manufacture.

A brisk rebound in automotive production this week was in line with expectations and failed to stimulate motor shares.

Rails were subjected to less pressure than other groups as predictions of higher revenues for the main transportation systems were revised upward because of the gigantic armament spending plans of the administration. Tax-wise, it was suggested, outlok for the carriers was bright inasmuch as most will be invulnerable to proposed excess profits imposts.

Some comfort was derived from action of the House Ways and Means Committee in approving a provision in the tax bill permitting corporations to choose any three of the four years in the base period (1936-1939) in determining payments they will have to make on excess net. This gesture toward relaxing tax burdens of major industries was interpreted as generally constructive.

Those who follow the machine tool index as a financial barometer noted that the composite of the Machine Tool Builders' Association for July suffered a recession for the third successive month. The latest drop was blamed partly on vacation suspensions.

Overnight Developments.

The survey of Dun & Bradstreet placed the country's retail spending this week at 6 to 10 per cent above the corresponding 1939 period. The increase was said to be better than seasonal. The review, though, added that retailers' commitments in wholesale centers continued to lag behind improvement in public consumption.

WEEK'S AUTO OUTPUT

DETROIT, Aug. 16 (AP). — The seasonal autumn upturn in automobile production began this week, Ward's reports said today in estimating current output of cars and trucks at 20,475, compared with 11,635 in the preceding week.

For the same week a year ago the nation's automobile plants assembled 15,105 units.

The upturn will continue probably through all September, the survey stated.

Odd-Lot Stock Trade.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Securities Commission reported today these transactions by customers with odd-lot dealers or specialists on the New York Stock Exchange for Aug. 15: 1387 purchases involving 33,861 shares; 1411 sales involving 32,156 shares, including 69 short sales involving 1523 shares.

LONDON STOCKS RISE DESPITE AIR RAIDS

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Security prices pointed up again today in the face of air raids of such ferocity the exchange was temporarily closed. Activity, recently at record low levels, even showed signs of broadening. Government bonds closed with outside gains of one-fourth point. Industrials wavered near the finish, ending with mixed changes. Coppers attracted good support and demand for kaffirs increased. Renewed buying developed in oil stocks and rubbers held steady.

COMMODITY MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—A crash in Chicago wheat echoed in other major futures markets while the air battle over England reached new fury.

Wheat broke as much as 5 cents a bushel to the lowest levels since August last year. Final quotations were off 2⅞ to 3⅝ cents a bushel. Corn lost ⅛ to ⅝ of a cent.

Declines in other staples were more moderate but "wait-and-see" was the attitude of most buyers.

Cotton at New York lost 25 to 40 cents a bale, hides about ½ cent a pound, zinc as much as 1-5 cent and wool tops 1.4 cents.

Also trimmed were coffee, world sugar and cocoa. Rubber, domestic sugar and cottonseed oil were irregular while copper and silk crossed to the plus side.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 wholesale spot commodities, based on 1926 as 100, skidded to a new low for the year at 69.03. This compared with 69.40 Thursday.

WASHINGTON BUSINESS NOTES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—July sales of variety stores, the Commerce Department says, were about 2 per cent larger than June's, and about 6 per cent higher than July, 1939.

A survey by August Maffry, finance expert of the Commerce Department, indicates that foreign insurance companies received $426,000,000 worth of net premium from United States policyholders last year. The 1938 estimate was $429,000,000.

Guatemala—U. S. aid sought for fair.
Canada—South Africa buys cotton goods.
Chile—Dairy development planned.

CORPORATION SHARE EARNINGS IN DOLLARS AND COMPARISONS

Corporation earnings in dollars and cents per common share in most instances with corresponding periods in the preceding year, reported by the Associated Press, will be found in the following table:

	6 months	1939
Vanadium Corp	2.43	1.01
Am Machine & Fdy	.57	.31

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—Consolidated Oil Corporation and subsidiaries, nation-wide marketers of petroleum products, reported for the six months ended June 30 net income of $2,080,027, equal to 15 cents a share on the common stock, contrasted with a loss of $872,671 in the first half of 1939.

The Mexican Government petroleum agency in May announced an initial payment of $1,000,000 had been made toward a total of $8,500,000 agreed as compensation for the Sinclair properties taken over by Mexico.

Harry F. Sinclair heads Consolidated as chairman of the executive committee.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Caterpillar Tractor Co., Peoria, Ill., today reported net profit for the month of July of $666,406 as compared with $394,462 for July, 1939. Net sales for July were $6,129,562 as compared with $4,518,620 a year ago. Net profits for the seven months ended July 31 were $4,175,920, or $2.22 a share, on common stock, as compared with $2,709,842, or $1.26, on common for same period a year ago. Net sales were $40,738,636 as compared with $33,979,634 a year ago. No provision has been made for any excess profits tax in net profit figures.

TEXTILE MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP). — Worth Street reported considerable demand for gray goods today at about ⅛ of a cent a yard under the current market price. Actual transactions, however, were light.

Woolen goods trade was highlighted by substantial Government purchases of wool stocks. Silk prices remained firm in anticipation of a seasonal upturn in business. Some of the more popular acetate blends of rayon goods moved briskly.

Hides.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Raw hide futures closed 47@49 lower. Sales 10,280,000 pounds. Close: September, 8.05; December, 8.22-23; March, 8.42n. Spot No. 1 Western light native cows, 9½n.

12 STEEL MILLS IN 1939 NETTED $121,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Securities Commission reported that 12 steel corporations, each with assets of more than $100,000,000, had a combined profit after all charges of $121,000,000 last year, compared with a loss of $8,500,000 in 1938.

The figures were made public in the third of a series of supplements to the survey of American listed corporations.

The steel companies studied were the American Rolling Mill Co., Bethlehem Steel Corporation (Delaware), Crucible Steel Co. of America, Illinois Steel Co., Inland Steel Co., Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, National Steel Corporation, Republic Steel Corporation, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Co., United States Steel Corporation, Wheeling Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

The combined volume of business was $2,255,000,000 in 1939, an increase of $596,000,000 over 1938.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—The free British pound climbed 1 cent to $4.03½ today, only ½ cent below the price at which official sterling may be purchased from local banks. The current free price is the highest since last fall.

Business commitments calling for payment in free sterling have almost vanished, money dealers reported. Within a month, observers prophesied, free sterling will have disappeared and all dealings will be made at official rates established by London financial authorities.

Far Eastern currencies such as the Hongkong and Shanghai dollars improved in relation to the U. S. dollar. Other major free currencies were unchanged.

Rates are to noon or so.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Foreign Exchange. Late rates follow (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents): Canada: Official Canadian control board rates for United States dollars; buying 10 per cent premium, selling 11 per cent premium, equivalent to discounts on Canadian dollars in New York of buying 9.91 per cent, selling 9.09 per cent. IDLE FUNDS UP $60,000,000 ON TREASURY GOLD PURCHASES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Federal Reserve Board said today lendable excess reserves of banks increased $60,000,000 to $6,390,000,000 in the week ended Aug. 14.

The increase was due almost entirely to Treasury gold purchases.

The board's statement said:

"During the week ended Aug. 14 member bank reserve balances increased $54,000,000. Additions to member bank reserves arose from increases of $121,000,000 in gold stock, $24,000,000 in reserve bank credit and $2,000,000 in Treasury currency, offset in part by increases of $17,000,000 in Treasury deposits with Federal Reserve Banks, $15,000,000 in money in circulation, $5,000,000 in Treasury cash and $57,000,000 in non-member deposits and other Federal Reserve accounts. Excess reserves of member banks on Aug. 14 were estimated to be approximately $6,390,000,000, an increase of $60,000,000 for the week."

New York Reserve Bank.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—A rise of about $4,000,000 in Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation was reported by the New York Federal Reserve Bank in its weekly condition statement today.

Reserve balances of member banks increased around $11,000,000 and gold certificates on hand and due from the United States Treasury were up about $47,000,000.

Holdings of the U. S. Government securities were unchanged.

St. Louis Reserve Bank.

Reserve account deposits of member banks increased $10,045,000 in the week of Aug. 14, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reports. General account deposits of the U. S. Treasurer increased $2,718,000. Gold certificates on hand and due from the U. S. Treasury increased $7,560,000. Total reserves increased $8,666,000.

BAR GOLD, MONEY AND SILVER

Local bank clearings for Aug. 16 were $16,400,000. Debits to individual accounts for Aug. 15 were $25,900,000.

Coffee.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Coffee, spot quiet; Santos No. 4, 6¾@7; Rio No. 7, 5⅛. Cost and freight offerings included Santos bourbon 3s and 5s at 5.95@6.80. Santos No. 4 "D" futures closed 9 lower. Sales 3000 bags. September, 5.11; December, 5.30; March, 5.49n. Rio No. 7 "A" futures 1 lower. Sales 500 bags. December, 3.57n.

Dun-Bradstreet Weekly Tabloid Business Review

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—Holding at better than seasonal levels, the week's retail trade throughout the nation ran 6 to 10 per cent ahead of the corresponding period last year, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

An increase in unit volume as well as a slightly higher average of prices contributed to the expansion, the survey pointed out.

"Retailers' reports," it continued, "commented frequently on the evident willingness of customers to buy better-grade merchandise. A mild 'trading-up' tendency was noted particularly in industrial sections and included not only ready-to-wear, but durable home furnishings, radios and electrical appliances.

"Transactions in wholesale markets indicated that retailers' unwillingness to make commitments continued to lag behind the actual improvement in retail trade. Under current buying procedure spot demand has a more prominent place than usual in almost all lines of merchandise.

"The frequency of requests for hurried deliveries reflects the narrow stock margin on which operations are being conducted."

ST. LOUIS AREA TRADE SURVEY.

Weekly tabloid trade review of St. Louis area:

Retail volume last week remained seasonally low. Most active lines noted were summer apparel which is being cleared, furniture and white goods. Retail movement of fall goods, which is being displayed now for the first time, is slow owing to continued high temperatures.

Manufacturing in virtualy all divisions is on a comparatively high level considering seasonal factors. Among producers of paints, building and paving materials, hardware, household goods and electrical appliances, sales volume is generally ahead of 12 months ago. Inventories in most cases are normal and are being well turned. Plant expansion is widespread, even though in many quarters on a small scale.

In the wholesale division, there is a noticeable gain also over a year ago. Women's wear jobbers report orders on a higher level than the average of the past five years. Lumber dealers report less than the usual August decline. Packer and food product sales at least are holding even with a year ago.

WEEK'S NEW FINANCING

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—The new securities market dawdled along at a slow pace again this week, new issues during the week ended yesterday totaling $33,671,925, compared with $39,562,031 the previous week and $76,649,393 in the same period last year, Poor's Publishing Co. reported today.

Corporate bond financing was at a standstill for the fourth successive week. Large offerings of preferred and common stock by Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. and preferred stock by Consolidated Gas Electric Light and Power Co. of Baltimore, however, boosted the total for stock financing to the second highest level of the year.

Comparison of the week's new issues follows:

Alabama Mill Operation.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 16 (AP).—Steel operations in Alabama will remain unchanged next week at 88 per cent of capacity. Pig iron output will remain at 100 per cent.

Demand for some products has declined since Aug. 1, but orders are keeping pace with shipments and no progress has been made in cutting the backlog of orders piled up since June 1.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Cocoa futures closed 5-7 lower. Sales, 1420 tons. Close: Sept., 4.02; Dec., 4.19 nominal; March, 4.32 nominal.

BRITAIN AIR RAID BREAKS WHEAT PRICE 5 CENTS

Lowest Level Since August 31, Day Before War Started, Reached—Final Basis Off 2 7-8 to 3 3-8 Cents.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP).—Crashing as much as 5 cents a bushel, wheat prices today plunged to the lowest levels since late in August a year ago as the market reeled under the impact of a heavy selling movement that accompanied increasing intensity of the war over Britain.

September wheat tumbled as low as 66⅞, more than 11 cents below the minimum level at which it was pegged for three weeks following the price break of mid-May. This figure was about 14 cents below the Government loan rate for deliverable grade of wheat here.

Although the market rallied after the midsession break, wheat closed 2⅞@3⅜ lower than yesterday, September 68½@⅝, December 70¼@¾. Corn closed ⅛@⅝ down, September 60⅛@¼, December 54⅜; oats unchanged to ¼ down, and rye 2¼ lower.

Traders watching war news closely started a selling movement at the opening bell but the volume increased as prices receded and stop loss orders came in to play. All oats and rye futures as well as May corn tumbled to new lows for the season.

Uneasiness regarding the war situation accounted for most of the selling, pit brokers said, but the fixing of minimum carlot prices for wheat in Canada also attracted attention. These minimums were placed slightly below current prices, traders said. Canada and the United States together have the largest supply of wheat ever accumulated in North America, a stock estimated at more than double normal consumptive needs on this continent.

Some selling in wheat came from hedgers but mills also were reported taking small quantities, corn belt weather continued favorable in many sections, while country sales remained at an expanded volume. Corn and oats prices however lost only fractions but rye was down about a cent.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Aug. 16.—In the cash grain section of the market today wheat was 4@4½c lower; corn ½c lower.

CORN—No. 1 yellow corn 66c.

DEPARTMENT STORES SALES

Department store sales in St. Louis in th week ended Aug. 10 increased 14.3 per cent over the corresponding week last year, the weekly report of the Federal Reserve Bank states. Sales in the four weeks ended last Saturday increased 7.2 per cent over the comparable period last year and in the year to Aug. 10 increased 5.6 per cent over the preceding 12 months.

Machine Tool Index.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16 (AP).—Vacation schedules sent the National Machine Tool Builders' Association operating rate down to 88.3 per cent of estimated capacity in July from 92.3 per cent in June, the association reported.

The operating rate, 74.6 per cent in September, was between 91.2 per cent and 93.4 per cent from November through June. However, actual production has increased much more than the operating rate shows because capacity, measured by payroll hours, now is 29.9 per cent above the first month of the European war.

$6,481,629 FIRST SCHOOL PAYMENT FOR 1940-1941

This Is $926,147 More Than in Like Time a Year Ago, Superintendent King Says.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 16.—Distribution of $6,481,629 of State school funds to the nearly 9000 public school districts in Missouri in the first apportionment of the school fund for the 1940-1941 school year, was announced today by State Superintendent of Schools Lloyd W. King. The payment is $926,147 greater than the allotment made a year ago as the first payment in the 1939-1940 school year.

The State public school fund, comprising one-third of all receipts in the general revenue fund, is paid to the schools in two apportionments in each school year, in August and March. The State payments for the 1939-1940 school year totaled $13,456,037.

Next Payment in March.

Superintendent King said the August payment of $6,481,629 was equivalent to 43.2 per cent of the estimated amount the public schools districts would be entitled to receive from the State during the 1940-1941 school year, under the school law. The second payment will be made next March. The maximum allowances for the year are estimated at $14,972,050, but the law provides these various allowances shall be pro-rated if the school fund is not adequate to pay them in full.

In the 1939-1940 school year the payments by the State amounted to 91.8 per cent of the maximum allowances under the school law.

The August allotment to St. Louis was $286,933, of the estimated maximum of $663,381 for the school year.

St. Louis County will receive $282,790 under the August allotment, out of an estimated maximum of $653,742 for the school year.

Local Levies Fall.

Supt. King said the August allotment included $1,732,381 for rural school districts, $4,633,152 for high school districts, $95,766 for aid to schools for orphans, mental defectives and similar activities, and $20,329 toward school building construction.

He said that, while State school fund allotments to the public schools had increased in recent years, the local districts were contributing less than formerly, due to reduced valuations of property for taxation and lower local school tax levies. He said the amount raised locally for schools had decreased in about the same proportion that the State school fund had increased.

DIVORCES 'I AM' CULT LEADER

Wife Gets Decree From Donald E. Ballard, Under Indictment.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 16 (AP).—Mrs. Marjorie L. Terry Ballard, young wife of Donald E. Ballard, head of the I Am movement, obtained a divorce yesterday. Ballard and others are under Federal indictment on mail fraud charges in connection with affairs of the cult, said to have 3,000,000 members throughout the United States.

In a brief hearing, Mrs. Ballard testified to acts of cruel and inhuman treatment she said she had suffered from her husband, to whom she was married at Las Vegas, Nev., in 1936. They separated last March.

GOLD ON LONG ISLAND BUT ONLY IN A SINGLE ROCK

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP).—Mrs. Violet Klinowitz got a rock containing gold last March from a workman digging in her front yard. She sent the rock to the Mint at New Orleans. The Mint reported that the gold content of the rock assayed $19.20 a ton. However, no more such rocks have been found in the Klinowitz yard.

Mrs. Klinowitz plans to keep her $18-a-week job as a scrubwoman in Rockefelleler Center.

SENATE AGENT PAYS VISIT TO TRUMAN HEADQUARTERS

Continuing Inquiry Into Financing of Democratic Senatorial Campaign.

Stephen J. Herbert, an agent of the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee, was in St. Louis today for further inquiry into the financing of the recent Democratic senatorial primary campaign. This morning he visited the headquarters of Senator Harry S. Truman, who was renominated.

After a six-week investigation by Herbert and another agent, Edwin C. Newell, the Senate committee reported there was "abundance of evidence" to prove that many State employes were indirectly coerced into contributing to the campaign fund of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, who failed to receive the senatorial nomination. Stark charged the investigation was an attempt by his political enemies to "smear" him.

Herbert is at Hotel De Soto.

BRIEFLY REUNITED Held apart by immigration laws of this country and Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Waike Hokkanen met briefly under the watchful eyes of officers as they sat on a bridge between the two countries at Pigeon River, Minn., and then parted, hopeful that their 13-year separation will soon be ended. Hokkanen left Finland 13 years ago for Canada, then was refused entry to the United States because he lacked a passport. Mrs. Hokkanen came to this country from Finland during the war with Russia and was refused entry to Canada because aliens must enter from the country of their birth.

The Old Guard

By Inez Robb

NASSAU, B. I., Aug. 16.

IN the light of human frailty and man's eternal ambition to sit above the salt, the odds are ten, two and even, that the Duke and Duchess of Windsor will scarcely be the victims of any social brush-off or blitzkrieg in these islands over which they are to preside as the Governor-General and his missus. That isn't to say that theirs will be an easy row to hoe, but merely to state that they will avoid the meat ax or cut direct. There has never been a time in history when the right people didn't hanker to belong to the palace set, and that is true today of Nassau and the Bahamas, doubled in spades. There isn't a woman here, no matter what she says (and none of 'em seem tongue-tied) who wouldn't trade her eye teeth and toss in a couple of bicuspids to be among the first invited to dine with the Duke and Duchess in Government House.

DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

AS FOR THE MEN who might conceivably be in a social position to give H. R. H. and Her Grace the cold hand and clammy eye, each cherishes a not-too-secret longing for a knighthood. And you don't get a build-up and a recommend for a title or one of those flossy British orders which entitle you to a string of initials abaft your name by snubbing the man who must, in the long run, place your nomination before the King, who, in this instance, is also a brother. So, between feminine vanity and masculine ambition it seems certain that the new Governor and his lydee will get not only a civil but a cordial welcome from the community. The Duchess is apt to have the last word about who dines at Government House, and the Duke the final word in appointment to such coveted posts as those in the Executive Council, which is really the Governor's Cabinet, and to the Legislative Council, which is the upper house in the island Government.

THERE ARE other jobs, pleasant political plums, which the Duke will be able to dispense. In the United States, this is vulgarly known as keeping the boys in line through patronage. It is an excellent system for breeding and instilling respect for the man at the top. There is no denying that the old guard here, which is more British than kippers and tea, finds it extremely difficult to climb down off its high horse. And a dish of crow, no matter how it's flavored, is never a tasty dish. But there is nothing it can do—overtly. From where your correspondent sits, it is difficult, however, to prophesy whether the governorship of the Bahamas is the big chance for which the Duke and Duchess have been shopping, or whether once more they are headed for the rear of the eight ball. They cannot be snubbed, but they can be torpedoed in the political cross currents and the social undertow of the islands.

SOME OF THE more serious or empire-minded believe H. R. H. has gotten back his old job, that of traveling salesman for the Crown, and envision him as a shining ambassador at large to the Western world. But to the vast majority of the population, which is the poor native or colored population, he comes as a cross between a Messiah and a Franklin D. Roosevelt. They look to the Duke, with his known sympathies for social betterment of under-privileged peoples, for a new deal that will improve their living conditions. But any such program as this will be bitterly opposed by the islands' ruling classes and will be no more sympathetically treated than his ill-advised visit to the Welch coal miners during his brief reign as Edward VIII.

Narrow Horizons

By Elsie Robinson

I SAW a little item the other day which has had my face red ever since. Here, read it for yourself: "District Attorney Dewey summoned the press to his office today to announce that during the last year his department had worked harder to prove Max Uchansky innocent than it had ever worked to get a conviction."

ELSIE ROBINSON

Probably you know the story behind that. A hold-up in a synagogue in New York City by a bunch of young hoodlums . . . the arrest of Max Uchansky amongst other suspects, and his sentence to a term of from ten to 30 years. His loyal sister's constant plea to the District Attorney that he was innocent. A fellow convict's confirmation. Then the long search of Detective Tony Scanlon for evidence. Proof at last — and freedom for young Max, after 16 months of imprisonment. And District Attorney Dewey saying, "This department has worked harder to prove Uchansky innocent than it has ever worked to get a conviction." And I, red-faced, thinking, "How hard do I—How much do you and I—ever work to prove anyone innocent?"

I'M NOT a malicious person. In fact, I'm a real softy. I don't like to see anyone, innocent or guilty, suffer. I wouldn't, willingly, condemn anyone to misery. I've had enough of it, in my own life, to know how it can sting and scar. In short, I'm all-of-a-piece with the average, warm-hearted American. And yet—I'm always turning "thumbs down" on some poor devil . . . I'm always charging someone with being guilty until they can prove they are innocent. And, I repeat, it isn't because I'm cruel. It's just because I like excitement. I hear of some bit of scandal . . . something that violates my sense of decency. And away slips my sense of justice . . . my civilized veneer . . . and I'm off on the trail—snooping, sneering, suspecting, like a jungle savage!

I DON'T MEAN to do this. I'd be furious if anyone told me I was doing it. Yet, looking back, I know that I — who worship and preach tolerance and mercy—have done this thing again and again. And so have you! You who are, at heart, as kindly as anyone on earth. Both of us do this beastly thing!

And why do we do it? The answer's as shameful as the deed. Because our lives are dull. Because our spiritual horizons are still so narrow and cramped. We cannot see into the agony of other souls . . . we cannot realize the tangled urges which drive them on . . . we cannot see the shining beauty of tolerance. And so, because our own lives are darkened, we see the other fellow in the shadow and hold him guilty until he's proved innocent. I'm ashamed.

Hollyhock seeds germinate best when fresh. If seeds are sown as soon as ripe, plants will grow rapidly and will flower next year.

Here is a good jelly test: Dip a tablespoon into the boiling jelly, hold it up and let the jelly drip from the side of the spoon. When two drops will hang next to each other, the jelly is done. Take the pan of jelly off the fire while testing it.

To help keep the lower crust of a pie from getting soggy when baked sprinkle it with a little flour or brush over with slightly beaten egg whites before adding the filling. Or bake the lower crust five minutes before adding filling and top crust.

Bread mildews easily in damp weather. As soon as you have baked bread, set it on a rack to cool, then store it, uncovered, in a bread box. Even so, you'll have to watch it often for the first appearance of mildew.

Pretzel crumbs make a tasty covering for small cheese balls served with salads or as appetizers. Freshen the pretzels by heating five minutes in a moderately hot oven. Cool and then rall into crumbs.

Select your bulbs now and send in your order. It will not be long before you will be planting them in the ground.

Preparing for a Vacation

WHEN, before setting out upon your vacation, you contemplate the fact that you must—

Notify the milkman to stop delivering milk, and the bread man the bread, and the iceman the ice, and the butter and eggs man the butter and eggs.

Tell the people at the office where to forward your mail, and the postman at home where to forward your mail.

Tell the carrier to stop delivering the newspaper and where to have it follow you.

Store the garden furniture and the hose and the fancy flower pots in the garage and find the padlock for the garage; send the silver to the bank for storage, and find a neighbor who will guard the key to your house.

Leave the lawnmower and garden tools where the gardener can get at them and other people can't; turn off the water and gas; sprinkle the rugs with naphtha flakes to discourage fleas, see that you have money in the bank, and stock yourself with traveler's checks.

Make sure the radio will not invite an electric bolt, see that your fire insurance is in order and that you are secure against hailstorms, hurricanes, tornadoes, explosions, civil insurrection and riots.

Complete arrangements for boarding the dog at a fashionable resort where he will meet congenial companions; make the rounds of washwomen, cleaners, dressmakers and tailors to collect the garments to be taken with you.

Select and pack clothes to meet all sorts of weather conditions and social situations, and medicines for the treatment of every kind of ailment short of major operations; and, finally, check over the whole list to see if you have forgotten the most important item.

When you have contempalted all that you may well conclude that, if rest and relaxation are what you are after, you would have done better to stay at home.

NUMEROUS temptations stand in today's path: hurry, worry, discontent, desire to thrash out a bit too blindly. The calm mind, the reserved attitude and the long look are the remedies. Watch all relations with opposite sex and superiors.

Finding Our Place

Faced with a common danger, such as is this nation today, the individuals that make up the nation must find and do that which they can best perform for the general good, as well as for themselves individually. Some of us are fitted for administration, some for planning, some for detail, some for everything that has to be done. Some are fitted for violent, others for non-violent, service.

Your Year Ahead

Your year ahead if this is your anniversary banishes comfortable ruts, forces changes, brings about better conditions if you merit. But regulate ambitions. Look far ahead. Danger: July 28-Aug. 16; Dec. 20-31; April 25-May 8, 1941.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"Shower of Wealth"

"Shower of wealth," metaphor used to enrich everyday language, is of ancient usage, harking back, in origin, to Greek mythology.

The allusion is to the love of Danae and Zeus.

Danae's father, Acrisius, King of Argos, learned from the Oracle at Delphi that he would be slain by Danae's son.

To insure that Danae would be loverless and childless, he had her confined in a subterranean chamber, beyond reach of any man.

But Zeus, to whom mortal restrictions did not apply, saw the beautiful Danae, loved her, and effected his entrance into her prison by changing his form into a shower of gold.

The prediction of the Oracle was fulfilled when Perseus, son of Danae and Zeus, killed his grandfather, Acrisius, by hitting him with a discus he had hurled, during public games.

Lemon Milk Shake

Two eggs, one-half cup ice water, three cups milk, six tablespoons lemon juice, one-half cup sugar. Beat eggs, add water, lemon juice and sugar, mixing thoroughly. Add slowly to the cold milk, stirring constantly. Serve at once. A nourishing drink for the convalescent.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE been going with an ideal man, so everyone says, for about a year. I am crazy about him and he says he loves me and has talked of marriage. He is helping to build a little house which he says may be mine some day. The trouble is he can never come to see me until 9 or 9:30 p. m. and that is too late to go any place. We go riding or stay home. After working all day and then on his house he is very tired. Maybe he can't make it to my house, but he wants me to go out with others anyway. We both love going out. Is he trying to jilt me and should I hang on to him? ROSIE.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

You don't say how old the two of you are, but it sounds to me as if the young man realizes how little company he must be after a day's work and then hard work on the house, and would rather see you enjoy yourself than sit around on nights when he is too weary to drag himself over to your house. And I would take him up on it. There is many a slip you know, and unless a girl is actually engaged she is foolish to take herself out of circulation completely by confining herself to just one man. If you really love this man don't nag him when he can't make it of an evening, or argue about this and that; if you are understanding and sweet about things and show how crazy you are about him and about the little house, you may stand a good chance of living in it some day.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

PLEASE PRINT this letter to "Career Girl": There is little to be added to what Martha Carr has advised but may I speak my piece? I am your senior by four years. When I married 14 years ago, I, too, had been in the business world for about eight years and enjoyed my work immensely. And then I fell in love. In looking back, nothing could have been more wonderful than to be loved and adored by the one who meant more than any other and still does. Much water has passed under the bridge since that perfect union. We have a daughter 12 and believe me, Career Girl, no mother could be more cherished or assisted with tasks about the home than I.

When my baby came, and illness, financial reverses, misunderstandings were rampant, and every congratulatory card mentioned "unseen jewels" and "priceless pearls," I was so discouraged it seemed like so much hooey. Reason and emotional balance returned with the restoration of my health and each day I thanked the Lord that I had not become reckless and given all this up to return to the business world. While it has become necessary for me to supplement our income from time to time for the past eight or nine years, all I ask of life is to be the mother my daughter thinks I am.

Ask the unmarried business women and, if their honest opinions were given, they would chuck it all for a real home and motherhood. Make the most of your golden opportunity and be thankful you married a man who wants to be the wage earner and care for his family.

FORMER CAREER GIRL.

GRACELESS SVELTE

MARGARETTA BYERS SAYS:

OF course a loose coat like the one at the left will conceal any figure. But taking refuge in such concealment smacks of a defeatist attitude. Worse yet, underneath we glimpse a graceless overblouse, spanned by a contrasting belt—a hideous mistake for almost any figure.

On the right, however, we have a fine example of French taste—the new "two-faced" coat, whose tapering panel molds the full figure into wide-shouldered, slim-waisted grace. The collarless line is good for the short neck. While brushed up bangs give the face height and a big hat keeps the head in good proportion.

It's Still in the Speculative Stage, But Scientists Are Reported Busily at Work on It

By Jane Stafford

SCIENCE is attempting to bring to a weary world the cheerful if still speculative prospect of a future without gray hair, no matter what worry and trouble men and women have to face in that future. The hope of such a development lies in things in food that turn gray hair to black.

These things may be vitamins. They may be minerals. Or both. Latest discoveries are that pantothenic acid, recently synthesized vitamin, and the minerals, iron, copper and manganese, have anti-gray hair effects. The pantothenic acid discovery was made by Dr. Claus Unna, of the Merck Institute for Therapeutic Research at Rahway, N. J. The anti-gray hair effect of the minerals is reported by Dr. Alfred H. Free, Western Reserve School of Medicine, in the current issue of the Proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine.

These newly discovered anti-gray hair food ingredients, like a previously discovered anti-gray hair vitamin of the B complex, apply to rats, not necessarily to men and women.

Daily doses of pantothenic acid, starting in infancy, kept black rats from turning gray, Dr. Unna found. Rats turning gray on a deficient diet had their hair color restored by doses of this vitamin acid. Dr. Paul Gyorgy of Cleveland, has obtained the same results with pantothenic acid in rat experiments. Rats that do not get enough iron, copper and manganese also turn gray, Dr. Free reports. Feeding the minerals restores the hair color.

Scientists refuse to say publicly that any of these diet ingredients will cure or prevent gray hair in men and women, but rumor says they can.

The speculation and the rumors may come to nothing but they seem worth presenting because the discovery of something to remove gray hairs in a world such as we live in would be worth more than a new explosive.

According to the rumors, picked up in corridor conversations at scientific meetings, conversations starting "Don't quote me, but—," the anti-gray hair vitamin is being given to humans in carefully guarded experiments.

One relative of a well-known vitamin researcher is said to have grown a new crop of black hair on a previously bald head, by taking the anti-gray hair factor.

A LADY scientist beginning to go gray is now said by her friends to have hair in a stage between gray and its natural color that suggests the gray is leaving. Without naming names, this scientist is in a position to have especially easy access to the anti-gray hair vitamin factor.

A number of men on the faculty of a university where much vitamin research is done are unofficially but authoritatively reported to be taking the anti-gray hair vitamin but the report does not specify with what results.

A woman nutritionist started taking a potent concentrate of all the B vitamins, for health reasons. Her friends tell me that she not only has regained her health but that the color of her hair has been restored as well.

Vitamin manufacturers, strangely, have not promoted any anti-gray hair product. The reason, I am told, is that they are afraid of the idea because of continued reluctance by scientists to give any hint that the anti-gray hair vitamin could be useful to humans.

So many persons, however, are now taking vitamins, particularly the members of the vitamin B complex which includes the rat anti-gray hair vitamin, that the human experiments may be going on without benefit of scientific blessings. It is easy to speculate that as a result of all the public vitamin-taking, there will be few if any gray-haired men and women in the future, even though population scientists tell us there will be more and more old people in the world of tomorrow.

Speculating on pantothenic acid's possibilities, one scientist (not Dr. Una) said that since it also is a vitamin and can be made synthetically, doctors can give doses of it to humans for trial.

In support of the idea that the anti-gray hair food ingredients may prove applicable to men and women whose locks are fading are several facts. The rat on whom their effects were discovered, is used in diet experiments because he responds to foods much like man does. A large part of our new knowledge of food and nutrition and vitamins for health was gained from rat experiments.

Skeptics may ask why, if certain food ingredients can prevent gray hair, so many men and women who follow a good diet nevertheless become gray. The answer to that, according to one scientist, who like the others refuses to be quoted, is that an excess amount of the anti-gray hair food ingredient might correct the condition even if lack of the food ingredient or vitamin was not the cause.

The explanation for this is that gray hair might be caused by cellular anoxemia, in other words a condition in which cells of the body are starved for oxygen to carry on their life functions. The cause of this oxygen starvation might not be vitamin lack. But vitamins might correct it. One of the B vitamins, B 1, for example, is known to help cells take up oxygen.

Young Head-Thumper

By Angelo Patri

A RED-EYED young mother stopped to ask me, "Could I ask you something? Promise you won't tell anybody? It's about my baby and I'm ashamed to tell it."

"What could that be? What is he doing? Three-year-olds can't be so awful as all that."

She nodded, the tears brimming. "He thumps children on the head—with all his might. He's done it two times. I'm afraid to let him play with other children and their mothers won't let him, anyway. They think he is bad, I know. Dangerous."

"I don't believe they think that at all. They think, 'Goodness me, I'll have to keep an eye on Rosalie or Vincent to make sure that young rascal doesn't crack their skulls.' But they don't think your boy is bad and headed for jail. Not a bit of it."

"Oh, yes they do, and maybe they are right. It's awful to thump a child on the head with a shovel—with all his might. You should see the strength. He means it. I'm keeping him in, but I don't know what to do."

"His is growing his muscles. His back and legs and arms are growing bigger and they make him feel like using them hard. He has an impulse to bang and thump and hammer and kick. He really has no impulse to murder. He is satisfied when he gets in a good thump. It is dangerous for the children he thumps, but his character is still safe.

"You get him a mallet, a little wooden mallet, and a heavy block of wood, four inches or so thick. Give him a box of brass tacks with large flat heads. Let him thump those tacks into that board as hard as he can. Let him thump the board with the mallet if he likes. He is to get the satisfaction he needs out of those big muscles. Let him take it out on a block and he won't need to take it out of children's heads."

These little children do not smite each other in hate. They are not candidates for the courts. They will outgrow these impulses in short time. They can be eased over this rather difficult time by the right kind of exercise that uses the big muscles of the back and legs and arms. They are to hammer, thump, jump, run, climb. Provide the means for these outlets and there will be little of the head thumping.

When a child makes a mistake like this, take him into the house and tell him why. He cannot play with the other children because he hurt them. Keep him alone for the length of the day so that he really feels what the isolation means for him—no friends, no fun.

But don't call him bad. Don't threaten him with the police. Give him the necessary outlets for h' energy and hope for the best.

The Cause of Heart Disease In Middle Age

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

GUEST conductor of this column today is Dr. Don Carlos Peete of Kansas City:

Heart disease of middle age is due, not to infection, but to arterial change.

There is a growing impression in the medical profession that there is far too much anxiety developing over heart disease.

The heart receives blood supply through the coronary arteries. These vessels course through the muscles of the heart, breaking up into smaller and smaller branches, forming a network of blood channels that are so numerous that it is possible to increase the blood flow to the heart many hundred times. The ability of the heart to respond to an increase in work is directly dependent upon the ease with which blood can flow through the coronary circulation.

In youth these vessels are very elastic and by means of special nerves known as vasomotor nerves, alterations are made in the blood flow to the heart hundreds of times a day without the individual being aware of it.

If there is a change in this mechanism, either in the elasticity of the blood vessels or, as in some patients, over-stimulation of the vasomotor nerves, pain through the chest, upper abdomen or in the arms may result. The cause of this pain is due primarily to an inadequate flow of blood through the coronary circulation.

It is an accepted fact that there is a normal change that takes place during advancing years. This consists in thickening of the arterial wall, narrowing of the lumen, and a loss of elasticity, finally calcification.

If, during the aging process, enough new vessels develop which will aid in compensating for blood channels that close off slowly, the individual may go on and on for years without any form of heart trouble.

Observations made both in laboratory studies on animals and among various populations of the world, lead one to the conclusion that high blood pressure of the common type results partially from habits of over-stimulation of the emotional centers. That is: when one becomes frightened or angered, the stimulation of these nerves results and there is a rise in blood pressure. As this process is repeated, a habit is soon acquired that leads to a greater ease with which these centers may be stimulated.

I should like to emphasize to the young as well as to the old, to cultivate this philosophy of life, "live and let live." Be cautious of developing habits of worry and anxiety, especially if there is a family history of early vascular disease. After the age of 30, be careful to keep your weight near normal limits and consult your physician about a properly balanced diet. He will also advise about smoking.

One may conclude from a study of mortality statistics covering a period of the last 20 years that the increase in artery disease is no greater than is to be expected, due to the increase in the span of life and to the better facilities for correct diagnosis.

Too Much Curiosity

By Patricia Lindsay

ALAS, both young and older women lose friends and irritate others by permitting annoying habits to grow. In their quiet moments at home they may wonder why they cannot keep friends and why people do not include them when they entertain.

Being curious is a much too common trait of woman. Many persons do not like to be quizzed. They resent being asked: "How much did you pay for your dress?" "How much did your new car cost?" or again: "Are you going to marry John Jones?" "What salary does your husband earn?" Such questions are so personal they should never be asked. It is none of your business how much a thing costs or how much a person earns, and you would not be the slightest bit happier if you were told!

To hold friends you must not be curious. In a true friendship many confidences are exchanged but they must be voluntary confidences. If a person does not wish to discuss certain facts with a friend, he or she will avoid bringing up the subject. You, in good taste, should refrain from asking leading questions.

Simply because a person has warmed to you, don't feel you possess that friend. He or she has a right to circulate—to be friends with many. Almost without exception, men and women like to feel free, masters of themselves. It is true that each of us has the desire to "possess" another, but at the same time we resent it if another indicates his right to possess us.

Intolerance is another trait which will make people run from you. Learn to be tolerant instead of critical, however discriminating you may be in the selection of your close friends. I know a brilliant young lawyer who is wrecking his career because he is quite likely, while in a gathering, to show his annoyance if things do not entirely please him. A lawyer needs many contacts. This young lawyer will never have them. Friends cannot depend upon his behavior.

And that brings up another point. Never display poor behavior in a group. Good behavior is attained by cultivating poise, tolerance, good manners and understanding. Let the other fellow be ill-tempered and rude—you must learn to carry off the situation in good taste—even if you have to swallow bitter words!

The superior air is another fault not to be condoned. If you have been more fortunate than others, you should show your gratefulness by being more kindly to those who have been denied advantages. And not with a condescending manner. Kindness proffered with an air of superiority begets resentment.

Warm friendliness is very much needed in this sick world today, and "superior" persons should realize that they are traitors to peace, for peace in a nation begins with peace in small communities. "Love thy neighbor as thyself" is a bit of wisdom which will never lose its importance!

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Select the answer which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 4.

1. A yoke is generally associated with which animals? Cattle Mules Horses Goats
2. A vapor lock in an internal combustion engine refers to An irrigation system A sediment trap An air strainer A prevaporization in the fuel line.
3. In railroad terms, a gondola refers to A box car A caboose Open car with low sides Refrigerator car.
4. If you started out to hunt pawpaws, yould you look for Minerals Mushrooms Animals Fruit.
5. If you wished to buy some periwinkles, you should go to a Bakery Florist's Shoe store Drug stre.
6. Roman numerals are seldom used any more except on watches and clocks, public buildings, and certain formal documents. But it is well to know their meaning. You deserve one point for each of the following numbers which you can write in Roman numerals.

   (a) The Roman npmerals for 37 would be ——
   (b) The Roman numerals for 98 would be ——
   (c) The Roman numerals for 157 would be ——
   (d) The Roman numerals for 569 would be ——
   (e) The Roman numerals for 1940 would be ——

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. (Note—The last question count five points.)

Don't Take My Word for It

By Frank Colby

LIKE—In a similar manner to; closely resembling.

This week's Slip o' the Tongue: 1. "He likes two votes." 2. "Do like I do." 3. "He smiled friendly like."

1. Like for lack is dialectal, though this mistake is frequently noted among educated persons, especially Southerners. The sentence should read: "He lacks two votes." A network commentator, broadcasting from the Democratic convention made this slip o' the tongue repeatedly, saying: "The demonstration is not liking in enthusiasm." The correct word is lacking.

2. Not "Do like I do," but "Do as I do." Not "She is strong like he is," but "She is as strong as he is." However, it is correct to say "He looks like my father. She is like her mother."

3. Not "He smiled friendly like." This usage is illiterate and is regarded by the authorities as a vulgarism. Better say "He smiled in a friendly way."

West's Rash Double Helps His Opponents

By Ely Culbertson

AN injudicious penalty double conveys an amazing amount of information to an astute opponent. Experts realize that fact and, as a consequence, are extremely chary in their use of the double. This applies particularly to slam contracts when a hair's weight often swings the scale from success to failure.

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 hearts	Pass	3 hearts	3 spades
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
6 hearts	Double	Pass	Pass
6 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

West's double of six hearts was based on the vague and completely unsound theory that his diamond and club holdings would prevent side suits from being established and that his singleton of partner's suit might win him a ruff. South, when he heard the double, was naturally astonished. Having located the diamond ace in North's hand, the little slam had appeared an odds-on chance, since either minor suit queen or another playing trick of any description in North's hand would produce the needed twelfth trick. Certainly West could not be doubling on trumps or a diamond stopper. The much more likely probability was that he was counting on a spade ruff on the strength of his partner's bid. Fearing that that very thing would develop, namely, the opening lead of a spade, then finding East with the heart ace which might lead to a second round spade ruff, declarer determined to switch to no trump where no such contingency could arise. West merely put the seal on his previous rashness by doubling this contract also, and now South, certain that he could not go down more than one trick at the very worst, redoubled.

It proved to be a splendid switch of contract. Obviously, on a spade opening West could have obtained a spade ruff; at no trump, it was a different matter.

The spade lead was won by the king, and the heart ace was knocked out. Declarer won the spade return, cashed the ace and king of clubs, and then ran off every heart. With one heart left to play, dummy was reduced to one spade, the A-6 of diamonds and the jack of clubs. Declarer held a heart and the K-J-5 of diamonds. West was down to the club queen and Q-10-9 of diamonds. East's cards did not matter. The last heart was West's finish. He could not let go the club queen and, therefore, was forced to discard the nine of diamonds. Dummy let go the club jack. A low diamond to the ace and another diamond back to the king, felling West's queen, completed the rout.

Oatmeal and Rice Crumpets

Beat three eggs, add one and one-half cups milk and one cup each of cooked oatmeal and cooked rice. Mix well. Add one-half cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Add one tablespoon melted butter and one tablespoon molasses. Bake on a hot griddle, turning crumpet when bottom side is browned. Serve with butter and syrup.

French Spinach

One squart spinach, two teaspoons chopped onion, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one cup milk, one cup grated cheese, three eggs, salt and pepper. Wash spinach well and chop. Cook onion in the butter, add spinach and fry quickly. Add flour and milk and cook until it thickens. Season and add grated cheese. Bring to a boil, then remove from fire and add stiffly whipped egg whites and beaten egg yolks. Turn into a buttered baking dish and cook in a hot oven for 20 minutes. Serve immediately.

MY SON, MY SON!

By Howard Spring

CHAPTER NINETY-FOUR.

HE leapt up at that and put his hand on my shoulder. "Sorry, Bill. That slipped out. Let's say no more about it."

A telephone shrilled on his desk. Dermot took it up and listened. "Speak to Miss Eileen about it. She's got the whole matter in hand."

"There's no Miss Eileen to speak to," I said. "I met her in Bond street in pleasant company."

Dermot threw up his wrist and consulted his watch. "She said she'd be in at eleven. It's two minutes past. She must have come in on your heels. She's a business woman."

He went over to the telephone. "For the next half hour put all inquiries through to Miss Eileen. Tell her I'm not to be disturbed till 11:30.

"There you are," he said proudly. "What d'you think of that? And that will be done. One thing the war did. It taught me I had a jewel of a business woman under my own roof. She's my under-strapper now in everything. I'm making her a director. Was she with young Langdale?"

"Yes. Looks a nice boy."

"He's got his head screwed on the right way. I shouldn't be surprised if he's a director, too, before long. Or does that strike you as too mercenary a wedding present?"

"It strikes me as a good thing that one of Sheila's children should be plain bread-and-butter."

He nodded his head in agreement. "And now what have you come to disturb me about?" he demanded.

"This is May," I said. "In a month's time Heronwater will be in order again. Neither of us has had a holiday for nearly five years. Come, and bring Sheila."

"And what about my work? Now that this war's over and business is picking up a bit."

"Excellent experience for Eileen."

"She could do it. But that would mean we should be there with no children . . . Just you and Sheila and I . . ."

We looked at one another and suddenly the idea of being at Heronwater with no children struck us both with all its significance. Of course, they were no longer children, anyway; but, even so, they were gone. Maeve dead, and Rory married and Eileen leaning on the arm of her tall, beautiful boy; and Oliver heaven knew where.

We were silent for a while. I pulled at my pipe and Dermot jerked his unlit cigar from one side of his mouth to the other. "I wonder," he said at last, "whether we've had our best times, Bill? There was one time I always think of — when Donnelly was there. That was a houseful! You and Nellie and Oliver—"

"And you and Sheila and Rory and Eileen—"

"And Donnelly and Maggie—"

"And Sam Sawle and Martin. They were good fellows—"

"Yes, and that old madman Judas over the river and his husky Viking friend in Truro. Remember him?"

"I do that. It was a good time. But Maeve wasn't there."

"Wasn't she?"

"No, no. She'd gone off with Mary Latter."

"She had so. I'd forgotten that."

"Well," I said, "you'll come? We'll do our best, eh?—three old stagers."

"Yes. I wonder what's happened to old Judas? Ever hear of him?"

"Not a word. We shall see."

JUDAS was still in the land of the living, and that is the only reason why I write of that holiday—to give some account of Capt. Judas at that time.

Dermot drove us down. One of Sheila's maids and Annie Suthurst has gone on in advance by train. We should need no one else. Dermot would look after his own car and I could look after the Maeve, which had been overhauled. She and her dinghy alone were left of our little fleet.

I sat at the back of the car with Sheila, thinking of the time when Dermot had first come by car to Heronwater. Oliver and I had waited for them at the gate, and there was Sheila, little Maggie Donnelly on one side of her and Eileen on the other, young and radiant with a great chiffon scarf passing over the top of a large hat and tied in a bow under her chin. Her dark hair was white with the dust of the Cornish roads, for it was an open car.

Now, so that she might lean her head back more comfortably in the big closed car, Sheila wore no hat at all, and her hair was white, not with Cornish dust but with the sorrows of the short 12 months that had seen the imprisonment of Rory and the deaths of Donnelly and Maeve.

Something was gone out of Sheila. Her face was still kind and thoughtful, her smile ready to encourage, but when there was no encouraging to be done atdnoyu encouraging to be done and you caught her face unawares, there was an inward brooding which suggested a life counting over the past and not much concerned with the present.

We came to Heronwater in the evening, to the abiding peace and beauty that had smiled on unchanged through the agonies and convulsions of a continent. Sheila said she would rest till dinner-time, and Dermot and I walked out to lean on the warm stone of the balustrade.

Then we went down the path to the water. It seemed as though the very leaves we had left were still upon the trees, and in our scrambling descent we recognized the very pebbles we knew so well. We came out upon the little quay of level greensward and looked upon the river drifting out on the first of the ebb. "Change and decay in all around I see." Never were words less appropriate. All the visible world seemed to mock by its calm stability the change and decay that were in our hearts alone.

"Nothing seems altered," said Dermot, breaking a long silence. "Not even the Jezebel."

The oldest monument to the unknown soldier is a mosaic on the Damascus Gate of Jerusalem. The Armenian inscription commemorates the Armenian dead who fell during the Crusades in the 10th and 11th centuries. It is strange how close the inscription comes to the epitaph of the American Unknown Soldier of the World War.

TODAY'S PATTERNS

With directions in four sizes (two 18 and two 15 inch widths), you can crochet these luxurious scarfs for various pieces of furniture. The 18-inch widths are in string, the 15-inch in finer cotton. Pattern 2537 contains directions for scarfs, illustrations of them and stitches, materials required.

The Correct Way

It is not wise to soak clothes in hot water and leave them in it until the water is cold before washing. Cloth fiber expands in warm water and contracts in cold and will in this way hold the dirt. Make a suds of cold water if you want to soak the clothes over night.

Amusing Tricks

"QUICK! Where is the traveling pea?" Keep the crowd guessing with such lively magic stunts and you'll be the center of attraction at summer outings.

For the most mysterious tricks are just harmless deception, and when you know where the catch comes in you can be the deceiver.

Take the trick of the missing pea. The audience sees you place on the table a pea, a thimble and two paper cones. Then you cover the pea and the thimble each with a cone, shift the cones around, and ask the audience to guess which hides the pea.

"This one?" No; you lift the cone to reveal a thimble. Cover the thimble and again shift cones; the audience always guesses wrong. The pea is under the other cone, as you can show.

How come? We'll give you a clew. With a little doctoring, those thimbles and cones can do wondrous things. And just as easily you can make balloons change color, coins appear and disappear!

The secrets of these and many other magical feats are revealed in our 32-page booklet.

Economical Menus

By Meta Given

EVERY housewife takes special delight in making "How do you do it" dishes, and most families enjoy eating them, feeling subtly flattered when as much trouble is taken for them as you would take for company. Pinwheel cookies are a prominent member of the "How do you do it" group, because, though so simple, they look difficult to the uninitiated. Do these on a cool morning, when you won't be fussed by softening dough, and you'll agree that they are 100 per cent easier than they look.

Pinwheel Cookies (cost about 21c).

Two and one-fourth cups all purpose flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-third teaspoon salt, two-thirds cup butter (or half butter, half other shortening), one cup sugar minus two tablespoons, one egg, two tablespoon milk, three-fourths teaspoon vanilla, one square bitter chocolate, melted.

Sift flour, measure, and resift twice with baking powder and salt. Cream butter or shortening, blend in sugar thoroughly, and add egg; beat until smooth and fluffy. Add flour mixture and milk alternately, beginning and ending with flour. Stir in vanilla. Divide dough in two equal portions; add cooled melted chocolate to one half, and chill both in refrigerator at least half an hour. Turn chocolate dough out onto waxed paper and pat out to a square sheet about one-eighth inch thick; place rest of dough on top and pat out to same size. Carefully roll up this double sheet like a jelly roll, wrap snugly in the waxed paper, and chill thoroughly. Slice thin with a thin sharp knife, and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) about 15 minutes, or until very delicately browned. Makes about three dozen.

MENUS FOR SATURDAY

Breakfast.

Sliced peaches on prepared cereal, one and one-half pounds peaches and three cups prepared cereal; muffins, two cups flour, four teaspoonsful baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, one cup milk, two tablespoons melted butter, one egg; jelly, one-third cup jelly; coffee, four tablespoons coffee (adults only); milk for children.

Luncheon.

Dinner.

Sausage stuffed cabbage, one pound cabbage, one and one-half cups rice, three-fourths pound pork sausage, one medium onion, one-fourth cup chopped parsley; fresh corn-tomato casserole, five cups corn cut from cob, two tablespoons butter, three slices bacon, one large tomato; pineapple lemon gelatine, one package lemon gelatine, one 14-ounce tin crushed pineapple; coffee, four tablespoons coffee (adults only); milk for children.

Cost for day: about $1.75.

Sandwich Fillings
